

Winners in "Most Attractive Room" Competition

Janice Gallion and friends in Columns 425.

By GREG BASSETT
Seven rooms were chosen "Most Attractive Room" during competition held just before Homecoming Weekend. One room from each dormitory was selected by two faculty and staff members.

The winners of the contest will each receive a free dinner at the Windmill Restaurant in Ahsokie.
A total of 14 judges, two for each dorm, judged rooms for qualities such as neatness, use of space, creativity and originality, and color coordination. A total of 26 points could be awarded for each of the four categories with the best score being 100.

The Most Attractive Room Contest judges were J.P. Harris and Marcella Coburn, Parker Hall; Jack Hassell and Scott Colclough, West Hall; Rene Osbourne and Carla Chamblee, Mixon Hall; Roy Winslow and Dereatha Thompson, East Hall; Gilbert Tripp and Susan Pate, Belk Hall; Jerry Hawkins and Bob Lumpkins, Jenkins Hall; and Bennie Vann and Greg White for Columns.

Yvonne Elliott in Columns 425

Derik Stoneham takes a call in Parker 708

Drew Kilbourne in Parker 708

Chip Caviness in Room 103 Mixon

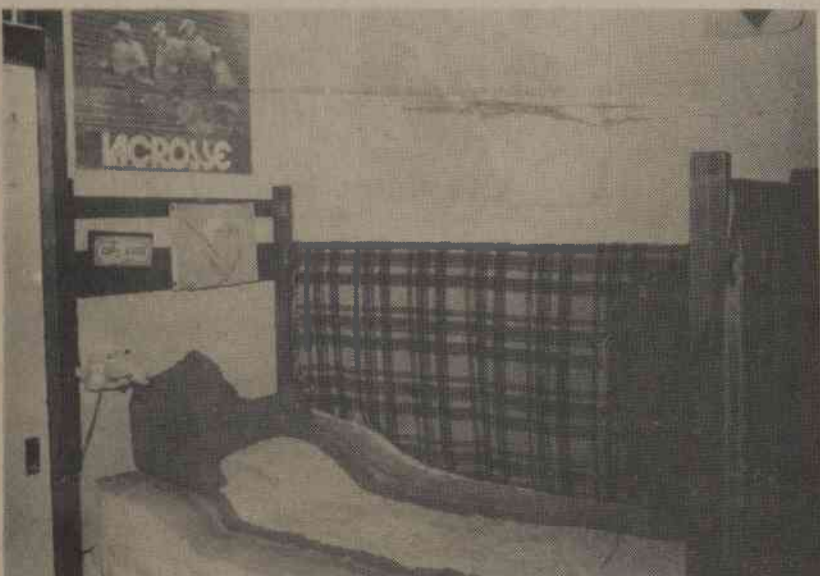

Mindy Coburn and Cara-Anne Calder live in Belk 118.

Mike Sweeney and Jeff Young live in West 331

Patriotic motif repeated in West 331

Steve Gillespie's Room 204 in Mixon

Arrangements could not be made to photograph Room 219 Jenkins occupied by Pam Riccio and Tracy Cox.
The winners of East Hall were not available at press time.

Photos by Bill Williamson

Another view of Gillespie's room.