Illnesses Keep Pace With Times

By SARAH G. WRIGHT
Director of Health Services

Times are changing, sure, and so are illnesses. How we live does affect our health. Sexual freedom has made a rapid spread of sexually-transmitted diseases. This is especially true among young people.

Other conditions have developed which are not listed in medical or nursing text books.

Dr. Dean Lovett, who is editor of Community College Health Services has listed some of the conditions he has been called upon to treat. They are as follows:

- * Jogger's Nipple, a painful abrasion of the nipple suffered by women who run braless. Some now say that "jiggling" is not out and that bras that give good support to the breasts are in.
- * Jogger's Kidney, caused by running on payment for seven years. The kidney had been shaken lose from its supports.
- * Cyclist's Palsy, numbness and weakness of the hand by those who use racing style handlebars which puts weight on the hands and compresses nerves in the palm. Cyclist's Palsy can be avoided by wearing padded gloves or using regular handlebars.
- * Disco Felon, an infection of the middle finger due to repeated snapping of fingers while disco dancing.
- * Jeans Folliculitis, an inflammation of the hair follicles around the upper thighs caused by wearing extra-tight jeans.

Female Grads Surpass Men

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CPS) — Women continue to account for a larger and larger percentage of the graduates of American colleges and universities, says a new survey by the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES).

Though the total number of degree recipients is expected to start to decline next year, NCES predicts the percentage of female grads will continue upward until women numerically eclipse their male counterparts by the middle of the decade.

"There are more women than men enrolled in college today," explains Tom Snyder, an NCES education programs specialist, "and that's not likely to change."

Educated Folk Take To Alcohol

CHAPEL HILL, NC (CPS)— Higher education is generally good for your health, though if one is a woman it may also turn her into a heavy drinker, according to a national study of health and lifestyles by the University of North Carolina.

The ongoing study found that better-educated people tend to be healthier, eat better and ingest lower levels of harmful cholesterol. For women, however, alcohol consumption seems to rise with education level.

Nearly 10,000 people in the United States and Soviet Union participated in the study, which the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute began in the early 1970's.

"The higher-educated group tended to eat healthier diets than the lower-educated group," says Dr. Suzanne Haynes, an assistant epidemiology professor at UNC and co-author of a research report on the study.

"It indicates that persons at higher education levels are perhaps changing their diets more quickly in response to recommendations than is the lower education group."

Haynes suspects the increased drinking among well-educated women may be similar to smoking patterns.

"Cigarette smoking began mainly among higher-educated men," she says, then "spread to lower-educated men, then to higher-educated women. It looks as if alcohol may be following the same pattern."

Community Concerts Provide an Answer

By JENNIFER WICKER

An answer to the age-old question of, "What can I do?," is available to students at Chowan. It's not new, it has been around for years, but it does provide a solution for the student who is tired of studying and unhappy with the variety of night-life in Murfreesboro, and needs to get away from campus for just a few hours.

The Chowan Mutual Concert Association is sponsoring nine events this year, two which are to be held in Columns Auditorium, and seven which are to be held in neighboring communities.

The tickets for the events are funded by the Fine Arts Department and Special Services, according to Carla Chamblee, membership chairman for the Chowan Mutual Concert Association.

Community Concerts started during the Depression when performers were starving, so they banded together to get audiences. Since the public generally had no money either, they shared each other's concerts, according to Mrs. Chamblee.

Beauty, Poise, Part of Contest

The search has begun for the young woman who will wear the crown of Miss North Carolina USA 1982.

The Miss North Carolina USA Pageant will be held in Winston Salem, March 5, 6, and 7. The winner will compete in the Miss USA Pageant next May.

To qualify in this official preliminary to the Miss USA and Miss Universe Pageants, applicants must be between the ages of 17 and 25, single and never married, and must live, work or attend school in North Carolina. They must be U.S. Citizens and cannot have been a parent. Girls are judged in the basis of beauty, poise and personality. There is no talent competition.

The prizes to the winner include $1,000 in cash, special awards of jewelry, clothing and cosmetics, an all-expense-paid week-end in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. and an all-expense-paid trip to represent North Carolina in the 1982 Miss USA Pageant on the CBS telecast.

Free entry information is available to applicants who send their name, address, age and telephone number to: Miss North Carolina USA Pageant, c/o Tel-Air Interests, Inc., 1755 NE 149 Street, Miami Fla. 33181. Telephone: (305) 944-3268.

"We share with five other communities; therefore, we get more entertainment than we pay for," she added.

Tickets are available to students who can provide their own transportation. Concerts scheduled for this spring are:

- Mon. Feb. 22 8 p.m. Camelot, a Broadway musical-Wilson
- Wed. Mar. 3 8:15 Max Morath, ragtime pianist-Murfreesboro
