Volleyball Team Has High Hopes

The term "setter" may be strange to you, but, if you'll stop by Helm's Center when Coach Janet Collins' volleyball team is playing, it will not take you too long to realize what a setter is. The Chowan ladies started out the season with an 8-0 mark, with wins over Lees-McRae and Spartanburg Methodist. While all of their matches are important, Chowan fans are looking forward to several key match-ups. On October 15, North Greenville comes to town. The ladies from Tigerville, South Carolina were last year's regional champion. On October 29 x 30th, Coach Collins' charges face a team that was fifth in the nation last year. Catonsville Community College will be here. If you like dinks, spikes, and setters, go see our volleyballers in action. (Staff photo)

Fall Baseball Starts

By KEVIN WILBOURNE

The fall baseball team began practicing eight days after the students arrived for the fall semester. There are seventy baseball players out for the team which opened up their schedule September 18th against Virginia Wesleyan. Ten practice games will be played.

This team is considered a young unit due to the loss of several players from last year's team. There is only one returning pitcher, Sam Pepper, but Coach Hawkins and Coach Brady both felt they had a good recruiting year. Coach Brady commented, "We went as far as New Jersey and Connecticut for recruits." He added, "there is a big question mark at third base because of the graduation of last year's All Conference third baseman Mike Digugliemo. Overall, we are in good shape."

Returning team members include, Troy Barney, Reid Faucette, Greg Butcher, Matt Sutphin, Lonnie Harris, Tad Dukes, Pete Lee, Darryl Bryant and Ken Patterson.

Concert Series

Chowan College (through $2,500 from Activity Funds) and the people of Murfreesboro and the surrounding Roanoke-Chowan area (contributing more than $5,000) make possible a series of concerts each year. The Chowan Community Concerts will present three outstanding programs during this school year, costing $7,650. The first is a harpist, James Pinkerton, on Monday, October 4 at 8:15 in McDowell Columns Auditorium. The second concert presents American Ballet Comedy (Bowyer and Bruggeman), well-trained dancers doing a variety of dances much in a comic style, which should prove to be a fun program. The date for this performance is Sunday, February 13 at 8:15 P.M. The third concert is considered the feature attraction, the well-known from T.V. and national and international performances and long-time popular New Crispy Minstrels. Variety in types of music and costumes, as well as professionalism in singing and dancing all make for an enjoyable evening's entertainment. Students and people of the community alike should enjoy this program immensely. There is the possibility of this program having to move to Helms Center to accommodate the expected crowd.

There is a reciprocity agreement whereby members of the Association can attend concerts at Franklin and Portsmouth, Virginia, Williamston, Elizabeth City, and Wilson, N.C. for a total of 18 additional concerts. Students can attend all 3 concerts at the College by simply showing their I.D. cards. If any wish to attend out of town programs, see Mrs. Carla Chambliss in Special Services office in the basement of Whitaker Library and she will provide tickets.

Boost the Braves

Cagers Hopeful

With basketball season approximately two and a half months down the road, the Chowan Braves men's basketball team will be looking into the season with a crop of freshmen who could very well be the best the school has ever had.

Coach Bob Burke recruited seven talented freshmen from the trail of talent-rich Baltimore, Maryland to Norfolk, Virginia to Raleigh, North Carolina.

"This crop of freshmen is probably the best that I have recruited in my nine years of coaching," stated Burke.

"Many will press our sophomores for starting jobs, once they learn our system. We will have strength and depth at all positions."

Seven players return from last year's 21-8 Eastern Tarheel Conference Tournament Championship team to go along with this class of talented freshmen.

All-America candidate Andre McGee (6'0") returns to lead the sophomores. McGee will play wing guard most likely.

Point guard Thomas Umphrey and shooting guard James Spencer along with New Yorker Matt White also return to add strength to the guard positions.

To help out at the guard positions, Burke recruited a prize; 6'4" point guard Nate McMillen from Raleigh, North Carolina. McMillan starred in the North-South all-star game this summer at the Greensboro Coliseum.

6'1" point guard Todd Wright from Chesapeake, Va. guards The Braves even more depth at that position.

The Braves will be loaded at the big positions, forward and center. 6'8" center Tracey Myles, who is being heavily recruited by several division I schools, is back to lead the big men. Also, 6'6" forward Jeff Ervin and 6'5" Jimmy Thomas who was redshirted last year after breaking his wrist.

To add depth to the "big" positions will be fresh Frankie Toney a 6'4" small forward out of Wilson, North Carolina, 6'8" center Dave Burgess from Baltimore, Maryland, 6'7" forward Sam Tyson out of Greenville, North Carolina, 6'5" John Thomas from Norfolk, Va. and 6'4" swingman Jonathan Wright from Forestville, Maryland.

The Braves have been on a weight program since September 13 and are looking no place but up.
