

Braves Take Conference Title, Tourney, & Region 10 Crowns Enroute To Kansas

By Jerry Sutton

After clinching the conference title Chowan's Braves headed for post season play where they would advance to the final of the Eastern Tarheel Conference Tournament.

Forced to play Mt.Olive again after losing to them late in the regular season, the Braves didn't let that loss keep them down. Being patient on offense and working hard on defense paved the way to the Braves victory.

The first half began with a quick pace offensively. The Braves were able to get the ball inside to John Thomas and David Burgess. This offensive attack proved to be successful, but still the Mt. Olive team hung close in points all through the half. With the game tied up at 31 points, Mt. Olive ran seconds off the clock to get the final shot of the half. Freshmen Darwin Carr for Mt. Olive got the final shot as the half ended, with the score 33 to 31.

In the second half the Braves again got off to a good start, but the Mt Olive team would hang close. Mt. Olive after taking the lead at 37, would not get the lead again. Following a slam-dunk by Jim Dillard, the Braves really got ready to shut the Mt. Olive team out for good. During the closing minutes of the game the Braves outside shooting and inside penetration proved to be too much for the Mt. Olive defense. The final score, 90 to 67. The Braves would go against Louisburg, who beat Lenoir 82 to 81 early in a game, in the championship game.

High scorers of the game were John Williams for Mt. Olive with 23 points and Nate McMillan with 25 points for the Braves.

In the championship game, the Braves faced Louisburg. The last time these two teams met, the Braves won in overtime, 58-57. It was almost a replay in the Helms Center.

Chowan got off to a quick start with shots down low by David Burgess and John Thomas.

Defensively, the Braves were able to create many turnovers with a pressing defense. The Braves hit the boards very hard getting many second and third shots at the basket.

At one point in the half the Braves had built up a twenty point lead. At the half, the score 50 to 33 in favor of Chowan.

In the second half the Braves increased their lead to 24 points.

Braves John Thomas and David Burgess were named to the ALL-Tournament Team. Nate McMillan was named conference player of the year and tournament MVP. Coach Bob Burke garnered Coach of the Year honors.

One of Chowan College's new trustees, former major league baseball pitcher Jim "Catfish" Hunter, is welcomed by Chowan President Bruce E. Whitaker and long time trustee, the Rev. Bennie Pledger. Pledger, pastor of New Bern's Colony Baptist Church, met and became friends with Hunter as his former pastor at Colerain Baptist Church. Hunter, a deacon at Herford Baptist Church, assists in fund appeals for the American Cancer Society, Diabetes Foundation, Easter Seals and other charities. He is a little league coach and Lions Club member. Hunter, who won the prestigious Cy Young Award, pitched five of 20-win sessions for the Oakland A's and New York Yankees.

Wrestlers Finish—12-1-1

Coach Tom Martucci's wrestler's finished up with a 12-1-1 season on the mats.

Two Braves won championships and two place second in the Mid-Atlantic Championships in February.

Anthony Thomas at 118 and Chris Brock at 142 brought home first place honors.

Len Daniels and Tim Britton in the 134 and Heavy Weight categories respectively garnered second place positions.

All four advanced to the NJCAA National Finals but failed to place in the top eight in the different weight classes.

Last year's Braves were eight and eight.

This year, the 12-1-1 record looks mighty good.

Alcohol Program Started at Chowan

By Tracy Hartert

The Alcohol Referral program started by Director of Guidance Mary Moren, is a new addition to Chowan College. Only three other colleges besides Chowan offer such a program.

According to Ms. Moren, the program only offers information about drinking. "The Alcohol Referral program was not set up to punish, scold or preach about drinking. It is an informative program," said Moren.

Meetings are held twice a month. One session is open to anyone who would like to attend. The second is for students who are required to attend.

A film is shown and a discussion follows. The meeting last from two to three hours depending on the cooperation from students. Such topics range from what effects alcohol has on the body to the social effects of drinking.

Students, as well as faculty, are encouraged to attend this program.

The Alcohol Referral provides very important information which can help everyone, not just the people who are required to attend.

For information on attending a monthly meeting contact Mary Moren in the Guidance Office.

Lady Braves End Season

"We're not happy with it and yet again, it's not bad when you consider some of the things that happened to us," commented Coach Gay Scott as she talked about the just completed 1983-84 Lady Braves basketball season.

The Scott-coached charges finished the season with an overall mark twelve and twelve and a four and four conference record. This was good for a third place finish in the Eastern Division.

After downing perennial power Louisburg, 67-57, in the final regular season game, the Lady Braves tripped over Louisburg in the opening round of the tournament. Louisburg went on to defeat the regular season winner, Mt. Olive, in the tourney championship.

Along the way, two players from Chowan picked up honors.

Sue Morrison of Raleigh and Sharon Gillard of Cross, South Carolina were named to the All-Division Team. Both are freshmen and are expected back next year.

Gillard was named to the All-Tournament Team.

Keith Lawson's Year In Tasmania

"There have been some changes, but in another way; things really haven't changed that much," commented Keith Lawson recently as he sat in the snack bar.

If distance from a place gives one a different view upon returning, then Keith Lawson, '81, should have a good perspective. It is a long way from Chowan's campus to Tasmania off the coast of Australia.

Lawson, a native of Stokes County, graduated from Chowan and transferred to the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. In February 1983, he was selected as a Rotary Scholar for a year of study abroad.

"I really wanted to go to Australia and was happy when my choice of countries was approved," said Lawson.

Lawson spoke to Chowan students during Spring Semester about his year in the land of kangaroos and koalas.

He took a non-degree science curriculum during his stay in Tasmania, which is some 150 miles off the coast of the Australian continent.

Lawson challenged Chowan's students to take advantage of the small class situations at Chowan because as he said, "you won't find this in many schools."

In his talk, he told about the different way he has come to look on the United States after his year in Tasmania. "The life is a slower paced life style there than it is here. In general, the people are more conservative than those in the states," said Lawson.

Keith expects to continue his education at UNC-CH this fall.

Take The Time to Make Friendships

While Chowan's campus is a long way from the campus of Pepperdine University in Malibu, California, the thoughts of the following column by Pepperdine's SGA President are appropriate at this time of the school year. When you read Pepperdine in her column, just think Chowan.

As the days draw closer to graduation and I realize that I'll be leaving a lot of friendships behind, I've begun to think about what friendship really means.

First, we have to realize that friendship doesn't just happen. People need to interact with one another and begin to build trust with one another.

Friends are a basic source of happiness. Friendship is a process in which we are continually growing. Each time spent with a friend should mean something so we can add to our memory something about the friend.

The longer one shares a friendship, the stronger the friendship becomes.

At Pepperdine, we are able to develop close friendships. Because Pepperdine is a small campus, it allows us to interact with one another constantly. We can all share time together in the dorms, classrooms and cafeteria.

As I reflect back to where I have spent most of my time with my friends, I realize that it has been in the dorms and cafeteria.

Close relationships can develop in the cafeteria if we allow them to, but we can't just sit back and expect this to happen without revealing something of ourselves. Even in everyday situations we need to communicate with one another to form relationships.

Too many times we allow ourselves to get into surface relationships. We put ourselves in these relationships because they are easier, and they are non-threatening to us as individuals.

The cafeteria is a prime example. So many times much of our conversation at lunch and dinner is small talk. I dislike this and commonly refer to it, when talking to friends, as "cafeteria talk."

This is talk which allows us to pass the time without saying anything relevant. Small talk doesn't make friendship grow, but quality time and disclosing to one another does.

It is not important how many people you can say "Hi" to on campus. It is not important to be the most popular person and to be able to walk around campus saying, "Hi, how are you" to everyone when you really don't mean it.

We need to make friends our top priority. I had trouble with this last year and I allowed my friends to become low on my priority list because I thought I was too busy to spend time with them.

It took me a while to realize it, but friends and times we spend together are what we will remember when we look back at our years at Pepperdine.

We all need someone we can tell our darkest secrets to and still feel assured that they will like us as much as they did before.

It is important to let our guard down when we are with friends. It is natural for us not to want anyone to see our bad side; we all fear being rejected when people see the "real person" inside of us.

We all want to protect ourselves. I probably struggle with this most. I always want people to think everything is OK in my life.

It is especially hard for me to tell my closest friends how much they mean to me. Conversely, it is easy in a surface relationship to tell a person how wonderful they are. Unlike a close friend, you don't feel that a surface friend is walking away with a part of you when you disclose yourself.

Self-disclosure will help us see things, feel things, imagine things and hope for things that could never have been possible otherwise. Friends are for us to enjoy, to joke with, laugh with and reveal ourselves to.

I read once on a card, "Friendship is a present you give yourself."

Glass Menagerie To Open

Laura is a very shy, quiet girl who lives in a world composed of glass animals. Her mother and brother are very concerned about this closed world that she lives in.

The late Tennessee Williams' "Glass Menagerie" will come to life on the Turner Auditorium stage in a few days as the Spring production of the Chowan Players.

The play, set in the 1930's, has won critical acclaim around the world.

Chowan students, faculty, staff, and community viewers will spend an evening of compassion, love, and laughter when they attend Glass Menagerie.

The play will have matinees of April 19th and 20th.

Evening performances will run from April 25th through the 28th.

Student tickets are one dollar at the door or in advance.

Interim Course

What will you be doing from May 14 through June 1? Would you like to work ahead after graduation until the start of summer school? If your answer to the second question is yes, then Dean Clayton Lewis has a course that might interest you.

The course which will be taught during that period is History 101.

If you are interested in taking the course, please contact Dean Lewis.

I helped Jonas Salk fight polio. Now I'm working on cancer.

Polio. A crippling, often fatal disease that could strike anyone, any time.

In 1938, a group of volunteers organized to raise the money needed to find a cure. They succeeded. But they didn't do it alone.

Thousands of people, from all walks of life, gave their time, their money to help. And in 1955, when dedicated to finding Jonas Salk developed those cures still need the polio vaccine, they your help. Your time, shared in his success. Talents. Money.

There are still diseases without cures. So important. That you do give us.

What you give isn't do give us.

DIRECTORY LISTS SUMMER JOBS

BARNSTABLE, MASS.—The seaside resort areas of Cape Cod, Massachusetts and the off-shore islands of Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard are experiencing a growing problem in finding enough college workers to adequately service a rapidly expanding tourist industry.

This summer Cape Cod and the Islands will be offering over 55,000 good paying jobs to college students and teachers. Many of these jobs require little or no prior experience.

Because it is impossible to fill these jobs with local residents, most of whom make up the year 'round work force, it is necessary to draw from other geographic areas to satisfy this seasonal need.

Jobs for Students and Teachers
The Cape Cod Summer Job Bureau gathers all pertinent facts on available summer employment and publishes this information in a concise Job Directory which is available to college students and teachers by February 1st each year.

Names and addresses of individual seasonal employers are listed in separate job categories from bartenders to yacht crews.

The Job Bureau is a service agency, and therefore charges no fees to employers or employees.

An easy-to-use job application form, which is now familiar to the local employer, is included with the Directory along with important tips on how to land a good summer job.

Housing Information Included
This year the Job Directory has a section devoted to seasonal housing which lists addresses of people who lease rooms, efficiencies, cottages, apartments, and group rentals.

A useful reference map of the area is included as is a summary of educational opportunities for college credit, and cultural classes in the arts.

For a copy of the 1984 Directory send $3 (includes 1st Class Postage & handling) to: Cape Cod Summer Job Bureau, Box 594, Barnstable, MA 02630.
