

Efforts of Food Services

Perhaps one of the busiest "auxiliary enterprises" of the college community which serves students, is Food Services of Thomas Cafeteria. The staff works many, many hours each week in preparing meals and strives constantly to provide the very best meals possible for the students. Foremost in these efforts is the goal to make every meal a well-balanced and nutritious one.

In addition to the normal, day-to-day operation of providing three meals a day to the approximately 900 students and faculty, the cafeteria staff provides meals for numerous banquets and special meetings which take place on campus and within the President's Dining Room.

The Food Services Staff also makes extra efforts on special occasions by providing bountiful buffets. Such will be the case on October 30, when the annual Halloween Buffet will be staged, and prizes given for the best costumes worn by students. This affair is always a "fun evening" and enjoyed by all those attending. In November, the staff will again provide a special buffet in observance of Thanksgiving, and the same will be true the following month with a special Christmas dinner.

The staff is to be commended, not only for the long hours of day-to-day operation, but for going the "extra mile" in seeking to provide the very best service possible to the college community.

Help is Waiting

A recent survey of Chowan students indicated that 50-55% wondered if they were in the program of study which was right for them. Also, a large number of Chowan students will change their major at least once prior to graduation.

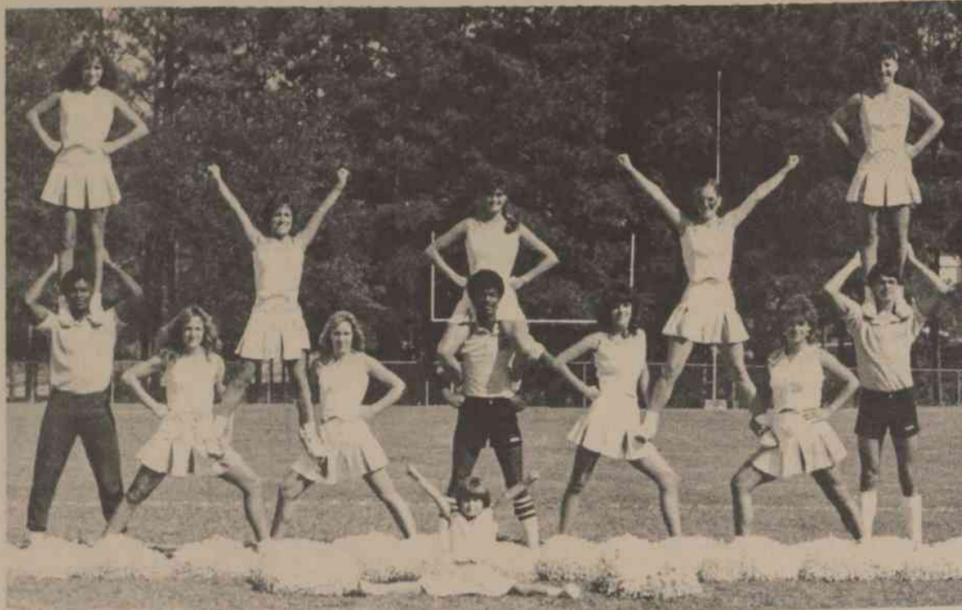

If you are like most students at Chowan and other junior colleges across the nation, you probably have similar problems in determining your future career goals.

If you are undecided on a major or career, and would like help in determining your future plans, both academically and occupationally, you might be interested in coming by the Counseling and Career Development Center located in the basement of the library (across from Snack Bar).

We have the following diagnostic tools to aid you in your decision: (1) the Self-Directed Search: 'A Guide to Educational and Vocational Planning (an interest inventory that can guide you to an occupation); (2) the Dictionary of Occupational Titles, which has definitions of over 20,000 occupations; (3) the Occupational Outlook Handbook which lists requirements, salaries, future growth and employment outlooks for jobs; and (4) many others.

These will help you determine your career goals based on interest and ability. With this information as a guide, the Counseling and Career Development Office can assist you in planning your curriculum while at Chowan so that your transfer to a senior institution will be as smooth as possible.

Symphony to present two performances

This season, the Charlotte Symphony Orchestra will present for concert audiences two evenings of chamber repertoire favorites in Dana Auditorium on the Queens College campus. This is the second season of presenting music from the chamber literature and represents an additional focus for the Charlotte Symphony Orchestra in expanding its musical programs for the community.

The first performance will be on Saturday, October 20 at 8:15 PM and will be held in conjunction with the North Carolina Music Teachers Association convention that weekend. Jordan Tang, assistant conductor of the Charlotte Symphony Orchestra will make his formal conducting debut with this first chamber program. Pianist Victor Rosenbaum, who is a special guest with the North Carolina Music Teachers Association convention will be the featured guest artist with the Symphony. He will perform Mozart's "Piano Concerto No. 21 in C Major," which many will recognize not only as a very familiar piece, but also as the theme from the movie, "Elvira Madigan." Other selections include Beethoven's "Symphony No. 1," Prokofiev's "Classical Symphony" (his first), Webern's "Symphony" (his only symphony), and Rossini's "Italian in Algiers" Overture.

Mr. Rosenbaum is regarded by musicians and audiences alike as one of the most eloquent and communicative of pianists before the public. A piano student of Leonard Shure and a cum laude graduate of Brandeis University, Rosenbaum's graduate study was in theory and composition at Princeton University. In 1967, he joined the faculty of the New England Conservatory and in 1973 became the Chairman of the Conservatory's Piano Department. He is presently Director of Chamber Music at the Conservatory and this past season was a Visiting Professor of Piano at the Eastman School of Music. In addition to solo recitals, appearances with such orchestras as Atlanta and Indianapolis and tours to Brazil and Japan, Rosenbaum is pianist with the Wheaton Trio, has been guest artist with the Vermeer Quartet, and has collaborated with such artists as Roman Totenberg, Scott Nickrenz, Lawrence Lesser, and Leonard Rose.

The second chamber concert will be on Saturday, January 19 at 8:15 PM under the direction of Leo Driehuis.

O'Niel Welborn appointed to athletic post in Helms

Max O'Niel Welborn, Jr. has been named the assistant to the director of athletics at Chowan College.

He replaces Earl Dilday, who served in the position for four years before becoming the associate dean of students at Chowan.

A 1975 Guilford College graduate, he comes to Chowan after serving for six years as coach of the boys varsity basketball team at Wilkes Central Senior High School.

Welborn led the Wilkes Central team to the district playoffs four times. His teams won the Northwestern 3-A tournament championship on two of three appearances in the tournament finals. The 1983 team recorded a 21-6 record for the most wins in Central's 30-year history.

Scholarship Bank seeks student applications

High School and College students who have not received the necessary state or federal funds for continued education are urged to apply to The Scholarship Bank for private educational funding.

Working in conjunction with high school and college financial aid counselors, The Scholarship Bank will send students a computer-generated printout of the private aid sources that the student appears specifically qualified to receive. According to the director of the search service, private financial aid from corporations, trade groups, and educational and civic foundations amounts to approximately one fourth of all financial aid available, or a sum of about $500 million dollars. Much private financial aid is based on factors other than need or family income, but on criteria such as major, occupational goal, willingness to enter contests, write essays or take on an internship.

The Scholarship Bank has approximately 25,000 sources of private financial aid and will send students a list of 20 to 50 names and addresses upon receipt from the student of a questionnaire. The questionnaire can be ordered from The Scholarship Bank in Los Angeles.

FCA News

By TONJA CASTEEN

What is FCA?

FCA is the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. That is what we are and we have begun our new season with a bang. Wednesday, September 12, we had our first meeting. We elected new officers for the 1984-85 school year.

Waverly Pinckney was elected president; Mark Parnell, vice president; and, Tonja Casteen, secretary and treasurer. We also had a guest speaker for the first meeting. He was Johnny Williams, who is the Northeastern Area Coordinator for FCA. He is also the author of "The 11 Commandments of Football". Mr. Williams gave his testimony as to how he became a Christian and how it related to sports. He did a great job and his message was very meaningful. Our thanks go to Mr. Williams.

We will be having FCA meetings every two weeks. New members are always wanted and welcome. The time and date for our next meeting will be announced.

Garrison grooms them and sends them on

By DICK WELSH
Suffolk Sun

Jim Garrison is a football coach who necessarily teaches the game in a hurry. Time is traditionally his enemy because he has only two seasons to develop a quality player.

Chowan College is Garrison's coaching residence and it has been for 27 years. His goal is not only to win football games but, at the same time, to prepare his players for two more years of football at a four-year college and possibly for a pro career later.

"That's our whole philosophy here, really, to get them ready for a bigger college and maybe the pros after college," said Garrison. "I've been in the game most of my life and I have always loved athletics. Of course, it makes us feel proud to see one of our players go on to a successful career in a major college or the pros."

And Garrison, whose teams have had only five losing records in 27 years, keeps close tabs on his Chowan football alumni.

He can reel off the ex-Chowan players who have made it in the pro ranks:

Jerry Holmes, who went from Chowan to West Virginia, then to the New York Jets and then to Pittsburgh of the United States Football League;

Robert Brown, a defensive end who played at Virginia Tech and Green Bay;

Jody Schultz, a defensive end who was a second-round pick of the Philadelphia Eagles three years ago and is now an outside linebacker;

Mike Grant, a linebacker with the Memphis Showboats of the USFL;

Amos Twitty, a linebacker who went from Chowan to East Carolina to the Oklahoma Outlaws;

And running back David Green, who was formerly player of the year in the Canadian Football League at Montreal. He played collegiately at Edinboro (Pa.) State after leaving Chowan.

Garrison launched his 28th season with the Braves on Sept. 8 on the road against the Newport News Apprentice School, which is coached by ex-pro Norman Snead.

Garrison likes the slot I and pro I styles of offense and at quarterback will be either Brian Phillips of Tabb, who sat out last year, or Linnie Mister of Carteret County, N.C.

A real sleeper of the Braves may turn out to be Dean Bumbacco, a split end from New Jersey who had signed with the University of Richmond. "But then found out he had come up a bit thin on his college boards and had to go to a junior college," Garrison said. Bumbacco is 6-foot-2, 185 pounds and runs the 40-yard dash in 4.6 seconds. "He can be a great split end when he gains confidence."

Sharing the "I" back position will be two second-year men, Miles Gray, 5-9, 180 pounds, from Queen Anne's Md., and Steve Boyd, 5-11, 205, from Washington, N.C. Both have good speed.

Danny Cribbs of Myrtle Beach, will pack his 5-11, 210-pound frame into the fullback spot. Of the pass receiving corps in general, Garrison says, "We're in limbo at this stage."

Mark Wells, a 205-pounder from Roanoke, might play tight end and Richard Kershaw of Philadelphia could start at split end. The flanker likely will be Robert Williams, 5-1, 165, from Winston-Salem.

Heading up the tackle Morgan Andrus of Richmond, guards Charlie Poole and Pearce Neal and center Henry Kennedy of Hampton.

Anchoring the defensive line will be a couple of huge tackles, 270-pound Walter Slay of Wilmington, Del., and 240-pound Larry Boone of Conway, N.C. Two other giant linemen figure to see a lot of action on defense, Clayton Curretton of Charlotte, who is 6-2 and 275, and 230-pound Domingo Henson of Fayetteville.

Coaching a junior college also has its risky side. For instance, Garrison learned a week before practice that the University of Houston had signed Tim Britton. "Just a great linebacker who was going to be the hub of our defense this season. That happens sometimes, but not too often. Most of our players stay here two years before moving on to a bigger school."

What's Garrison's secret to success? "No secret," he said, "just a lot of hard work."

His Braves have been hard at practice since August 5 and there were two big scrimmages against four-year school included in those sessions.

Chowan held its own in a scrimmage with Catawba and went up against Elon. Elon, NAIA champion in both 1980 and 1981, is highly rated again this season.

"Those two scrimmages should help us tremendously," said Garrison. "It was a chance to evaluate our team."

The Braves scored two touchdowns to Catawba's one (in a controlled scrimmage, not a regulation game).

"We look pretty good both ways but we did lack consistency. That's been one of the big things we're trying to improve, our consistency, but we did a lot of things really well against Catawba. And we were able to point out some mistakes to our players so they won't make them again. Our second offensive unit did a good job for us against Catawba."

Chowan went 7-2 last season, the defeats coming against the No. 1 and No. 5 finishers in the Coastal Conference, Harford (Md.) College and Nassau (N.Y.) College.

The Coastal Conference is rather unique in that its eight members represent six states—Chowan and Lees-McRae (Banner Elk) in North Carolina, Fer-rum (Virginia), Potomac State (West Virginia), Harford (Md.), Wesley (of Dover, Del.) and Nassau and Hudson Valley in New York.

Probably the leading freshman candidate is Robert Majette of Norfolk's Lake Taylor High, who was recruited by several major colleges and had been headed for East Carolina until he found that he needed to boost his grades.

He'll be tried at free safety and strong safety, "But he could become a very fine wide receiver, too," said Garrison.

Breaking into the starting secondary won't be easy for Majette because the Braves are loaded back there.

"We should have a very strong secondary because we have four outstanding players coming back; Jeff Getghers, Milton Gore, Chris Aikin and Bobby Wright, our free safety," said Garrison.

Summing up, Garrison said, "We feel good about how we have advanced in practice but we're a fairly young team and most players on our depth chart are freshmen."
