

Showcasing Pictures by Two Dedicated Shooters

Bailey's "eye" comments on the tension between machine and Nature, pushing the body to its limits, and the fascination of molding something from nothing.

Flair For Honesty Marks Bailey's Photos

Caron Bailey, freshman photo major, takes the time to get to know her subjects, finding that this breaks down barriers the camera sometimes creates.

The Delaware native has earned academic honors during her brief Chowan career. Caron will serve as a commencement marshal at next month's graduation, and is slated to receive the Eva Ethridge Scholarship during her sophomore year.

Commercial Work Is Soph's Career Goal

Jay Wasowski, New Jersey native and candidate for graduation in May, will move on to Ohio University, destination of many Chowan photo grads.

At Ohio U., Jay plans to pursue a photo major in the school's Visual Communications program. Commercial or advertising photography is Jay's career choice. He says he enjoys the control possible in studio set design, lighting and shooting.

Wasowski's camera seeks cool elegance in the ordinary, thoughtful interlude in time, nostalgic small-town meeting place.

