Tar Heels Uncertain Yet Whether Doug Moe Can Play For Them Or Not

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. AP — Official word on the eligibility of University of North Carolina basketball star Doug Moe still was lacking shortly before noon today.

Coach Frank McGuire, eager to have the Brooklyn, N.Y., junior back in the lineup, said he had heard nothing and referred further questions to Dr. Oliver K. Cornwell, faculty chairman of athletics.

Cornwell said, "I don't think anyone knows more about it than I do and I don't know at this time. The boy's grades haven't been announced yet. I checked the central records office this morning and was told the grades were not yet processed."

He said he has received two Bs, a C and a D in four courses and an F in one which he dropped midway through the semester. However, improvement as well as grades was listed as a primary factor in determining whether he will be able to return to the lineup.

Moe who missed the first semester because of a university imposed probation, completed his examinations two days ago, McGuire said. Moe's marks were not the only factor in the case. Other requirements were attached to the probation.

He worked out with the team Wednesday and McGuire said he expected Moe to be at this afternoon's practice, as well.

McGuire said he didn't expect Moe to step into a starting role if he is restored to the playing list in time for next Wednesday's game at Maryland.

"He's got to gradually play himself into top shape," said the Tar Heel coach, adding, "right now Doug is about 7 points over his best playing weight of 205."

In Moe's absence the team has won 9 out of 12 and leads the Atlantic Coast Conference. It ranks 12th in the Associated Press national poll.

McGuire said another sidelined star of last season, 6-9 Dick Kempley, will remain out for the rest of this campaign if Moe is able to return.

Kempley suffered a badly sprained ankle on the first day of pre-season practice last November and it has been slow to heal. If he is held out, the Roanoke, Va. senior would have another year of eligibility.

Hatteras Island To Get Improvement

RALEIGH AP — Some $325,000 in highway surplus money has been earmarked to improve the travel situation, both air and auto, on Hatteras Island.

The Highway Department announced Wednesday a portion of the funds had been allocated by Gov. Hodges to resurface the existing Outer Banks road from Oregon Inlet to Hatteras Inlet.

The rest will be used to construct an emergency landing strip near the village of Frisco.

The Research Triangle park got $50,000 in surplus funds for additional access roads.

Hodges Tells Group That Political Parties Should Help Out People

NEW HAVEN, Conn. AP — Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina says minority groups, whatever their race or creed, should not be used for political purposes.

Hodges told the Greater New Haven Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night that political parties should "come out for the majority of the people," rather than "appease the minority for political ends."

The Democratic governor's remarks about minority groups came at the end of a speech that told of North Carolina's industrial prospects.

Hodges warned the New Haven businessmen against falling into misconceptions about other parts of the country. "People in North Carolina not only wear shoes," he said, "but make them."

Hodges' speech here ended a one-day tour of Connecticut. Earlier in the day he met with a group of industrialists at Waterbury, and in the afternoon he visited the Choate School, a preparatory school in Wallingford.

At Wallingford Hodges told a newsman that Sen. Lyndon Johnson D-Tex. "has a better chance of winning the Democratic presidential nomination if Congress passes civil rights legislation during this session."

The governor will address a dinner meeting of the Assn. of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York in the metropolis tonight.

He ends his Northern good will and industry-hunting swing Friday at Cambridge, Mass., where he will speak to the Harvard Business School and a Harvard Law School forum.

Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON AP — Congress was told today that bills to authorize appointment of federal voting registrars carry the danger of putting the federal government into federal, state and local elections.

Sen. John Stennis D-Miss said that calling the pending bills civil rights legislation "does not change their effect nor conceal the grant of unprecedented power to federal officials in supervising local elections."

He criticized the bills as unconstitutional in testimony at a Senate Rules subcommittee hearing.

In more than six hours of debate Wednesday Northern and Western Democrats changed Republicans with maintaining a coalition with Southerners to delay or defeat civil rights proposals.

College Students Have Food Strike; Wear Sweat Shirts Instead of Ties

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. AP — The sweat-shirt rebellion against Drury College's dress-for-dinner edict gained momentum Wednesday night. Outside agitators, armed with french bread and soup, joyously joined the revolt.

Undergraduates from Southwest Missouri State College, across town from Drury, set up a "come as you are" soup line on the Drury campus.

Attracted by signs reading "have soup, will feed Drury in need"; and "SMS foreign aid," spurned the steak and potatoes served in the college dining hall to partake of the soup line's spare fare.

Uniform of the day was sweat shirts, sweaters and bobby sox.

The dining hall served only 12 diners and most of them were faculty members of the little

Lieutenant Governor's Race Takes Shape; Henkle To Run

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The race of lieutenant governor is rapidly taking shape.

One anti-administration candidate already is in the running and a staunch administration supporter is ready to make his candidacy official.

Two possible candidates bowed out Wednesday and another said he definitely would run.

Two others still have not committed themselves.

State Rep. Cloyd Philpott of Lexington, taking his cue when former Sen. Thomas White of Kinston bowed out, said he would announce himself in the race Friday.

White, a close friend of Philpott, said he had received offers of support but was turning them down. He is head of a commission which is making plans for a new 4½ million dollar state legislative building.

State Sen. Robert Morgan of Shelby also announced he was out of the race because of the press of personal business.

Philpott represented Davidson County during the last four General Assemblies. He will oppose State Sen. C. V. Henkel of Statesville, who made his candidacy for the May 28 primary official Tuesday. Philpott helped enact much of Gov. Luther Hodges' program during the 1959 Legislature.

Henkel was a leader of anti-administration forces in that General Assembly. He said he would campaign independently for the lieutenant governorship.

Budget Officer Dave Coltrane refused to tip his hand Wednesday as to his intentions. However, he is considered a potential candidate.

Charlotte attorney Dave McConnell is expected to join the race with an official announcement this weekend.

The lieutenant governor is the state's second highest executive official. In addition to succeeding the governor in the event of death, he presides over the State Senate. Concord lawyer Luther Barnhardt now holds the job.

MacMillan Calls U.S. Debutant In Management

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan called the United States today a reluctant debutante in the art of world management.

Touching on world problems at a luncheon in his honor, the touring British Prime Minister said the Soviet Union is a buoyant and imperialist nation but the United States is a reluctant debutante.

Indirectly mentioning President Eisenhower's coming visit to the Soviet Union, Macmillan said:

"My visit to Moscow recently was not well received, but it seems nowadays everybody is visiting everybody else."

Goldminers here gave Macmillan a practical addition to his collection of hats.

Inspired by his eye-catching white fur hat which he wore in Moscow last year, the miners gave him a fiber mining helmet, painted white, with a safety lamp attached.

Coach and His Son Receive Penalty

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. AP — The State High School Athletic Assn. has slapped the sharpest penalty in its history on a coach and one of his players, his son.

Executive Secretary L. J. Perry reported that Myron Harris, coach at Jasper High School, had been suspended for the season, and his son, Buddy Harris, has been ruled ineligible for the season. Jasper is a high school in Craven County.

Perry reported that the two were accused of striking a referee during a game between Jasper and Vanceboro on Jan. 16.

Lawyers Need More Instructions On R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Finances

DARIEN, Ga. AP — Lawyers for Mrs. R. J. Reynolds, seeking to learn the size of her estranged husband's tobacco fortune, may have to get further court instructions on how deeply they can probe into his finances.

Attorneys for both sides in the divorce action were reported at odds over whether Reynolds must reveal how much he has spent on the support of his six sons by two previous marriages.

Mrs. Reynolds' lawyers are in their ninth day of examining voluminous records on Sapelo Island, Reynolds' vast isolated estate off the Georgia coast.

Superior Court Judge Henry

Durrence gave them 15 days to examine only some of Reynolds' records.

Reynolds, 54, sued his third wife the former Muriel Marston, 41, for divorce last Aug. 20, charging cruelty.

Reynolds' lawyers say he is too ill with lung disease to leave his island home to appear in court.

Mrs. Reynolds' lawyers took a sworn statement Wednesday from Reynolds' financial advisor, Stratton Coyner of Winston-Salem, N. C. The statement, not released, was expected to place Reynolds' wealth between 25 and 50 million dollars. He inherited 25 millions 26 years ago. His wife's attorneys estimate he is worth 50 millions now.

Trial of the divorce suit is scheduled here Feb. 22.

Boy With No Limbs Named Easter Seal Child Selection

CHICAGO (AP) — A 10-year-old North Dakota boy, born without hands or feet, has been named the 1960 National Easter Seal Child.

The boy, Johnny Kemp, who has been fitted with artificial legs and hands, manages to play baseball, shoot marbles, be a cub scout, and get better than average grades in school.

Johnny's selection was announced Wednesday by the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults from its national headquarters in Chicago. He will go to Washington in March to meet Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower.
