

MR. KIMZEY SPEAKS...

Mr. Robert Kimzey, high school principal, urges all high school seniors to write for applications to colleges and have these completed and sent in as soon as possible. Even though the student plans to come here next year, he should apply to at least one other college and possibly two or three others as a practical insurance procedure. As Mr. Kimzey stated in assembly, he will be glad to advise students in choosing colleges. He will also aid in preparing recommendations and will provide academic transcripts of grades. Any new students having difficulties should see Mr. Kimzey since the school does not have a guidance counselor. Mr. Kimzey is very pleased that many new students have come to him already; and, of course, he urges second year students to feel free to talk to him if they have any problems.

HIGH SCHOOL AIMS FOR ACCREDITATION

High school teachers at NCSA are undergoing a self-evaluation study for accreditation by the State of North Carolina. After one year of operation, any high school is eligible for state accreditation. The Southern Association of Schools and Colleges requires a high school to be in operation for two years before accreditation is possible. Mr. Kimzey has announced that the high school will begin the self-study and visitation for the Southern Association next fall.

Since the Southern Association requires a college to be in operation for four years before accreditation, the NCSA College will not be accredited for three more years.

SOON

Morning, morning; bright and cheery.

How I love to start the day!

I wonder who will be the best

In Duncan Noble's class today?

Oh, there he stands in tights before us,

Saying silly words in French.

And here he comes to grab my buttocks,

To let the class know I don't pinch!

Little does he know THIS morning

What a treat he has in store.

If our plan has gone on schedule,

The dog will come in through the door.

Don't misjudge him, Unkie Dunkie,

Though he has some unfed features,

We've been training him for months,

To feed on smiling ballet teachers.

...by David Wood.

* * * * *

WADE LEADS MOUNTAIN RESCUE MISSION

Last Sunday, near TRAGEDY struck a group of students from NCSA when the transmission in the car they were driving failed, leaving them stranded a few miles east of Blowing Rock, N.C., along the fog covered Blue Ridge Parkway. With darkness moving over the rain drenched mountains, the FRANTIC party, consisting of Bruce Stuart, David Wood, Bob Vodnoy, Leland Schwantes, Margie Philpot, Emilie Adams, and Joann Weinstein made their way to the cozy Ranch Motel. Thinking ONLY of their school, they tried in vain to reach the dorm staff by telephone. Discovering the circuits were busy, they RESIGNED themselves to the UNTIMELY fate of having to spend the night in the motel lobby, lit only by a large fireplace. The manager kindly consented to let them spend the night there; so, in order to calm their FRAZZLED nerves, they took the cushions from the lobby furniture and stretched out in front of the COMFORTING blaze.

The hours passed! It was 11:30, when suddenly, the door crashed open and in leaped

(continued on page 3)