

Evelyn Harris Crowned May Queen For '62-63

NEW QUEEN EVELYN HARRIS IS CROWNED

CONTESTANTS AWAIT JUDGES' VERDICT

Mary Jo Barkley . . . Lillie Mae Delamar . . . Evelyn Harris . . . Marie Fisher . . . Charlotte Smith . . . the five May Queen candidates were called forward by President Thomas Asa Collins.

An expectant silence crept through, subduing the boisterous confusion. The crowd's attention turned en masse toward the center front of the ball room.

In a technical matter of minutes, reigning May Queen Joan Lamberth would be placing the crown on one of these candidates.

There was a small pause, then—Evelyn Harris, May Queen for 1962-63!

It was a short but impressive ceremony that took place last Saturday night (May 12) at the National Guard Armory. The background music was lovely. The girls, attractive in their floor-length white formals and silver-spangled floral crowns, carried pastel colored arm bouquets. They were selected on the basis of personality and participation in campus activities as well as individual beauty.

It is an honor to be May Queen, to be selected by the students to represent the college as the typical campus coed. As the May Queen, Evelyn Harris will reflect N. C. W. C.'s tastes, trends, and standards.

Evelyn is a native of Atlantic, N. C. A slight, dusky beauty, she was regally dressed in a white satin sheath formal that was created especially for her by her mother, Mrs. Nadine Harris. Miss Harris was presented with an arm bouquet of long-stemmed American Beauty red roses. She later received a gold charm to remember the occasion since the crystal crown itself is permanent, to be used in succeeding coronations.

The four remaining candidates: Mary Jo Barkley, Lillie Mae Delamar, Marie Fisher, and Charlotte Smith, became Miss Harris' May Court. They are respectively from Arlington, Va., Rocky Mount, Tarboro, and Manassas, Va. For each girl it was a memorable night.

2 Students Win $500 Grants

Louise Kepley and Joan Lamberth have been awarded $500 scholarships by the Woman's Society of Christian Service, N. C. Conference of the Methodist Church, by notification from Miss Sarah McCracken, chairman of the Scholarship Committee.

Three scholarships are offered annually by the Society to single girls to attend Louisburg, Methodist or Wesleyan Colleges as resident students. Interviews were held Saturday in Raleigh with several girls from these colleges and some high schools competing for the valuable awards.

Louise plans to enter the field of religious education. She is a member of the Women's Dormitory Council and an assistant in the faculty secretary's office.

Joan has had many campus honors. She was student government secretary for three semesters, Campus Queen last spring, Valentine Sweetheart and second runner-up in the recent Miss Rocky Mount Pageant. She is currently president of the Women's Dormitory and is on the Dean's List.
