Senate Approves Constitution Amendments

The following amendments to the Constitution have been approved by the Senate. The student is asked to read these since they will be voted on by the student body. The amendments do not have to be approved by the student body. The Senate determines the final approval of these amendments to the By-laws.

Social Frat Approved By Faculty

By Nann Brown

Alpha Delta Chi, the Delta Chapter of Maryland State Teachers College Fraternity, was formed on campus last October and officially recognized just last week by the faculty. Final approval of the fraternity by the administration has, however, not yet been received.

The purpose of the Fraternity is "Brotherhood, Scholarship, Leadership . . ." as stated in their constitution. The Brotherhood aspect is what most people associate with the name "fraternity" . . . party, party, party. Alpha Delta Chi would like to fill in the weekends that the Social Commission leaves empty but this is only a minor section of its future plans.

By Scholarship the boys mean that any prospective member would have to maintain a 2.0 quality point average to get an invitation and to remain as an active member. Those who fall below the grade average would not be able to hold an office and would be required to attend a Study Hall, supervised by the other brothers.

The twenty members were selected because of their leadership ability and their enthusiasm for organizing what they believe to be a "good thing" for Wesleyan.

According to Larry Buel, president, the club is merely a beginning for more Fraternities. In the future, it is hoped that there will be enough Fraternities to accept everyone who would like to be a brother. In a situation such as this, there would be healthy competition to stimulate support of Activities. This would not only include sports activities but also concerts and lectures.

Senate News

The primary activity of the Senate during the last two weeks has been the discussion of amendments to the Constitution and By-laws of the college. One of the more important changes suggested in the Constitution concerns impeachment proceedings for any officer of the SGA. No such procedures have previously existed. According to the amendment, the Senate can impeach any officer of the SGA. Charges may be made for non-performance of duty or mal-practice of student office. A majority of the quorum present is required to bring any officer to trial and a two-thirds vote of the entire Senate is required to remove the during the orientation period, the same authority over freshmen as the residence hall councils over residents of the residence halls.

The above changes are by no means inclusive. The student is asked to refer to the article entitled "Changes in Constitution, By-laws Proposed" for a list of the changes in their entirety, accused from office.

An amendment to the By-laws expands the powers of the SGA president. According to this amendment the president will have access to the entire records and proceedings of all agencies of the SGA. This, in effect, will cover all student activities--the newspaper, annual, etc.

on Monday, March 14, between George Ennis and Quinton White. George Ennis was elected for this position. Only about 47% of the student body voted in this runoff election.

An Inter-Residence Hall Council has been instituted to hear appeals from the Men's and Women's Inter-Residence Hall Councils (formerly the Men's and Women's Residence Hall Councils). This Council will have original jurisdiction in cases involving both male and female students. The membership of this council will be the members of both Residence Hall Councils.

A final important change in the By-laws involves the Orientation Committee. Henceforth, if the amendments are approved, the Orientation Committee will have,

Library Bids Open April 17

N. C. Wesleyan College's new library building came a step nearer reality March 15th when a loan under the Higher Education Facilities Act was approved for $227,000, according to a telegram from Congressman L. H. Fountain to Wesleyan President Thomas A. Collins.

Invitations for bids on the new library and also on a three-classroom addition to the college gymnasium, both of which are covered in the loan, have been mailed by Lashmit, Brown & Pollock of Winston Salem, the college architects. The Board of Trustee's Building Committee will open the bids on April 7 when contracts are expected to be signed.

The Twin-City architects, who laid out the campus and designed its buildings and facilities, have arranged for the local firm of Edwards, Dove, Parker & Associates to conduct on-site supervision of the new construction, which is scheduled for completion within 12 months following letting of the contracts.

Teacher Evaluation Poll Taken

A Teacher-Student Evaluation Poll was taken recently in some of the classrooms at N. C. Wesleyan in which the student was asked to rate his professor, anonymously, by answering questions regarding the method of teaching and the communication between professor and student.

An article appearing in the Wall Street Journal in the past month explained this procedure as it was used in various universities and colleges throughout the United States. The questionnaire is used as a means of attempting to improve courses by appraisals of the method of teaching.

In other colleges, the students were asked to rate their professors between either "A" for excellent and "F" for poor. The compiled results indicated to the professor the students' feeling concerning his teaching methods and implies a means of improving student response to the courses.

The questions presented to the Wesleyan students primarily centered around the presentation by the professor of subject matter, such as "How clearly does the professor present the subject matter?" The student was then asked to select an answer ranging from "very clear in presentation" to "not at all clear in presentation."

Such a student-professor rating system is a valuable aid to modifying teaching methods in an effort to meet student desires, in order that the material presented be clear, on the students' level and beneficial to him.
