

Summer Session

Plans Announced

Academic Dean Lonesome Jack NoMore announced several months ago, to his secretary, the enlargement of the summer school program to be held here starting in June.

When the Dean returned from wherever it is that he goes, he neglected to inform the faculty or student body of the changes he had made. Once he got around to telling the college community about the new program, he had decided that time was so short an additional fee of $435 would be necessary for all summer school applicants.

Under the new program, which will be a two session course, numerous courses will be added, and several removed.

The first session will begin June 3 and end August 14. Second session commences August 15 and close August 23. "The short span of the second session will necessitate some doubling-up in the courses offered," Dean NoMore said, "but we feel that the students in attendance will be up to the challenge. If not, they certainly won't be here next semester," he closed with a chuckle.

Classes each session will begin at 5:30 a.m., and each day will close with vespers and a baptismal service in the fountain.

New courses offered this summer will include an eight semester French course, presided over by a battery of qualified instructors, including Maurice Chevallier, Peppy La Pew, and Mademoiselle Crumble.

The anticipated failure rate of this course should far exceed all expectations.

Evening genetics courses will be held among the pines nightly, with public baths following in the multi-purpose fountain. Soap will be provided by the college comptroller and the president's wife.

Dog-catching 41 has been added, with instruction provided by Coach Dondo Fryed and all members of the local FBI.

A select group of instructors from first floor Edgcombe will present Demolition 56, an advanced course in dormitory destruction. The top ten offenders in the class will not be apprehended.

Summer entertainment will consist of movies, public concerts, and prayer meetings. Movies, to be shown nightly, will consist of "The Robe" "A Man Called Peter," "The Ten Commandments," "The Greatest Story Ever Told," and "Irma La Duce."

A taproom has been installed in the President's office for added relaxation for the students. All aquanautics classes have been moved from the new indoor Olympic pool to the Tar River, where moonlight drownings will be held with regularity.

S.G.A. officials, Guy Turner, Mel Gay and Mike Pratt returned to the Student Government office after their rescue from gangsters who attacked them earlier today.

Kiddie Corner

The Bear Trap

Once upon a place, there were three bears: Infant Bear, Papa Bear, and Money Bear. Papa Bear and Money Bear were well-educated Bears. They both worked for a large organization called Bear Trust, Inc. Bear Trust was an organization for betterment of Bears. As an institution, their first concern became the construction of institutional buildings. This required much in the way of funds. They appealed to their bearethren around the world to help them out. Well, since everyone knows that bears are the richest creatures in the world, Bear Trust was soon on good financial ground. Since they needed something to carry the expenses of this organization, they employed, as one of their means, Papa Bear, to go around and seek funds through eloquent means. You've already read that Papa Bear was very well-educated. This was very true; in fact, he once received the distinction of being the only bear in Beardom with an education far outranking his intelligence. Bear Trust gave Papa Bear a car and told him to go around and see just how much money he could raise for Bear Trust.

So they got started: Money Bear, Papa Bear, and Standard Bear. Standard Bear went around recruiting for the firm, while Money began the task of construction, and Papa went out unto all Beardom to teach about the Great Bears, John Bear, Charlie Bear, Martin Bear, and J. C. Bear (A Southern Bear).

Standard Bear soon found that they couldn't get nearly enough bears to fill the buildings that Money Bear was putting up, so after a conference they decided that since all the young bears were going to bigger bear institutes, they would have to be less stringent. So they relieved Standard Bear of his duties and hired Bearer and Bearest to assume these duties.

Soon, they began to fill the buildings with candidates from anywhere they could get them. Soon, the halls of Bear Trust were bursting with activity, and all over its grounds were seen tigers, canaries, pigeons, squirrels, snakes, leeches, sloths, pigs, snails, and an elephant or two. The question of whether to admit chimpanzees was avoided.

Then began the task of training. Some of the candidates weren't too fond of the program, and soon left. Still others adapted well and pursued faithfully.

So this little ecologic community began to grow. Before long, the "Big Bears began to notice that something was wrong--the candidates were becoming restless. Some objected to the training program, others to the catering service, and still others didn't like the idea of having to go to the "Ark" once a week and listen to Papa talk about his Great Bears. Soon, the "Big" Bears began that something had to be done. Papa Bear had, as we said before, a great mind. This was true, although it had been in hibernation since 1910. He asked one of the "Big Bears if he would come to the aid of the social community. This bear, S.T. Bear (Seen The), was a descendant of J.C. Bear, and as such, soon established himself in "Divine Right." Well, this bear soon became very confused and mixed up. After a brief "Reign of Terror," he retired and took a job under Gar Bear, an important bear official. His boots were soon filled by Infant Bear. Infant Bear wasn't really an infant; he did, however, resemble one, because he was so small. He soon remedied this misfortune by wearing elevator claws. He was smart enough to realize

(Continued on Page 2)

Yankee Raiders Strike

S. G. A. Overthrown By Masked Gangsters

ROCKY MOUNT - The Student Government Association of N. C. Wesleyan College was overthrown this morning by four members of the student body. At 8:45 Commander-in-chief of the Yankee Raiders, armed and masked, entered the S.G.A. office and ordered the officials within to face the wall. They then proceeded to over turn the student government files in a search for top secret information.

Guy Turner, Mel Gay and Mike Pratt, the S.G.A. officials, were held at gun point for over an hour while the Raiders continued to destroy property. Although the prisoners cried for help, the screams went unheeded by the student body passing the office, which is located in the Student Union Building. One observer noted that he heard the cries for help but considered them only a usual part of the noise which escapes the Student Government office.

The four raiders, known only as Dinardo, Red, Yank and Bobby Bluethumb then proceeded to dispose of the student government officers.

Campus Police Officer Super Trooper arrived three hours later armed with his 007 Espionage Kit, which includes 30,06 high powered, long-range water gun, a bag of hypermagnetic Tootsie Roll Pops which, when cleverly concealed, enabled Super Trooper to apprehend two of the alleged conspirators.

The other two conspirators were cleverly trapped when forced to stop their get-away car by the advance of Mr. Trooper's dog force who were on routine patrol chasing automobiles around campus.

When Super Trooper finally apprehended the two runaways he presented them with a ticket for improper parking and a notice to report to the Dean for payment of the fine.

Turner, Gay and Pratt were immediately rushed to the local infirmary for treatment of burns and gun wounds where four hours later they received attention. They were told to take two aspirin, gargle with salt and return to their rooms.

The trial of these four dastardly fiends will be held by the end of the school year.

Welcome Back Classic Tees Off

A cast of thousands, featuring some of the brightest lights ever to glimmer on the Wesleyan campus in bygone years, will be appearing for a two day stand here this weekend in a thrill-packed, fun-filled spectacular.

The First Annual Welcome Back Golf Class will be held at the Green Hills Country Club Saturday afternoon.

The names of the returning participants would probably strike fear into the hearts of little children, and adults for that matter, so they will not be mentioned here.

Promoters of the event promise a great day on the links, and an even greater evening, if past events give any indication.

Sunday has been declared as recuperation day, and no announced events are planned.

Nash Dorm Council Votes New Rules

The Council members of Nash Dormitory held a special meeting last Monday night and made a few minor changes in the girls rules. The rules were passed due to the excellent behavior of the residents of Nash Hall. It has been reported that this year only one call down has been given and that was for a minor offense. These girls have proven themselves to be very dependable, always quiet and always in the dormitory ahead of closing time.

One of the most favored rules passed was that concerning 2:00 A.M. late permission for all dorm residents on the regularly scheduled date nights, Friday and Saturday. In addition, extra date nights have been allotted for those women who desire to take them.

In order for a woman resident to spend a weekend away from campus, she must have the permission of her roommate or a close friend. This is to make sure that in case the girl's parents should call, someone will be able to notify them as to where their daughter may be found.

In addition, study hours have been abolished. Residents are now permitted to be any place in the dormitory any time day or night. Provision for televisions and telephones for each room have been made.

These new rules have been passed for the benefit of the excellently behaved residents of Nash Hall. The dorm council commented that if these regulations were obeyed, there would be a strong possibility for further extension of privileges for the resident students.