

A Tattered Note

You've seen them, love, and laughed:
 A dusty burning in a heart too young;
 Yet you felt it through stunted prose,
 For, at least, his judgment flatters.

Now you dare, with divine temerity,
 To sneer his love
 The damnation of faint praise.
 You sneer! You sneer.

But his love, though seeming dusty,
 Tarnished, grasping, is so
 Consistently young, so honest,
 That it can grow.

ECU Outclassed by NCW

 After bowing to Davidson and Guilford Colleges 5-1 and 4-1, respectively, the Bishops fought to Give him the chance.

 Dust off the magic lamp,
 and
 Let him prosper in your love
 And teach you honesty.
 When you're used by Time and self,
 And have seen what your blindness demands,
 You'll love him, as it must be,
 Too late: for honest, childish love to grow.

a hard 2-2 tie with East Carolina University.

It looked as if the Bishops were about to put the game away during the second and third quarters when two penalty kicks were called against us, resulting in the two goals for East Carolina.

Wesleyan really looked good in the clutch, and, as the ECU coach said, we "out-hustled and out-fought them." In fact, the Bishops refused to admit the closeness of the game by simply remaining cool and keeping continuous pressure on ECU. These men, under fire, have set a standard for the drive and determination they displayed during the game. The only bad aspect of the game was the fact that we actually won on class and "guts," while the score was 2-2.

Another group to praise for their conduct is our cheerleaders, who have been very devoted to our soccer team. The next time you see one of our cheerleaders, tell them what a fine job they have done and are doing.

Our nominee for player of the week is C. B. Daughtridge, who scored our two points at Davidson and Guilford and scored once for us against ECU. His coolness and steady play are two of the Bishops' strongest points.

Solicitations of gifts from the members and other business men and individuals are conducted by the thirty-two member Board of Directors. These board members are elected to serve four-year terms. They send out statements to almost one-half of the members who have pledged certain amounts each year. They also contact other members for their contributions and look for new in all possible areas. The Foundation has been successful in reaching its goal every year, and hopes are high that they will repeat this success this year.

The Rocky Mount Area Wesleyan Foundation has also undertaken the Capital Fund of $1,750,000 of which all but $116,000 has been raised. The Capital Fund was originated with the idea of the college and was part of a threefold promise. The other two parts were a site for the college itself and utilities available on this site.

It is hoped by all involved that the Foundation reach its goal of $55,000 this year. The support of the Rocky Mount area will help put Wesleyan back in the black after its fiscal loss last year.
