

Hosting Bishops upset Shenandoah

By JAMES OAKLEY

Sophomore Luke Phillips put up a three-point basket at the final buzzer to lift the Bishops over Shenandoah, ranked 16th in the nation, on Jan. 23.

The game broke the Bishops' home losing streak, where they hadn't won at Everett Gymnasium since Dec. 1.

"I was really proud and happy for our players," coach Bill Chambers said. "We deserve a win. We've had a tough season and we've had a lot of adversity this year."

Down by 11 at one point, the Battling Bishops staged a comeback and finally tied the Shenandoah Hornets at 61-61 when Luke Phillips tipped in a missed shot with two minutes left to play.

With the game tied at 63, with less than three seconds to play, Phillips inbounded the ball to Jeff Battle, who then found Phillips open. Phillips put the ball in the air as the buzzer sounded and the Bishops started their celebration at mid-court.

Phillips ended the game with 14 points and five rebounds. The leading scorer for the game was sophomore James Conderly, netting 29 points, including five three-pointers.

The Bishops then lost consecutive games to Christopher Newport, 55-54; Apprentice School, 72-56; and Ferrum, 64-61, bringing their record to 5-15.

The Bishops have four games left before they start the DIAC tournament, including a game at Shenandoah on Feb. 5, and at Greensboro on Feb. 9. The next home game is Feb. 12 against conference rival Methodist.

Lady Bishops triumph last three out of four

By TREY DAVIS

The Lady Bishops have won three out of their last four games in the past two weeks to pull their record to an overall record of 9-8 and 4-2 in the conference. The Bishops' only loss came to Christopher Newport with the wins coming against Bennett College, Ferrum College, and Barbara-Scotia.

On Jan. 23, the Lady Bishops traveled to Greensboro to take on Bennett and came away with a 62-61 win. Senior Sharon McLeod led all scorers with 19 points, followed by 17 points from freshman Alynn Warren.

"Bennett didn't play well offensively, but we did make some big plays defensively at the end of the game to get the win," said coach Brackett. "We prevailed under adverse conditions and this was a good road win for us."

The women then hosted Ferrum College on Jan. 24 with the Bishops pulling out an 81-68 conference win. Sharon McLeod led the team with 32 points and 15 rebounds.

"We played our best overall game against Ferrum," said Brackett. "We executed well offensively and played solid defense. We also controlled the boards and everyone got to play."

Christopher Newport came to Wesleyan College and left with a 76-62 win. The Lady Bishops committed 33 turnovers and Christopher Newport shot 55.4 percent from the field in the first half.

"Turnovers killed us," said Brackett. "Some of the turnovers were due to good defense and the rest were just poor decisions."

On Jan. 29, Barbara-Scotia rolled into Everett Gymnasium and played the Lady Bishops tough, leading 33-31 at halftime. With great shooting from the field and from the free throw line, however, the Bishops pulled out a 65-57 win.

The Lady Bishops made 18 of 22 shots from the charity line. Jennifer Short made five of seven three-point shots and had 17 points. Sharon McLeod also chipped in 17 points and eight rebounds.

Intramural basketball offers late night entertainment

By TREY DAVIS

The intramural basketball league at Wesleyan has filled Everett Gymnasium with late night entertainment as "Legion of Doom" and the "Runnin' Rebels" ran away with wins in the past two weeks.

Jan. 22, the Legion of Doom defeated the North Nerds, 48-45, in a hard fought physical game. The Legion of Doom were led by Kevin Vincent with 20 points and the North Nerds were led by Keith Cockrell with 14 points. In the nightcap, the Runnin' Rebels defeated the Really Rottens, 41-20. The Rebels were led by Eric Borges with 15 points and Gary Harrell with 13 points.

The North Nerds got on the winning track Jan. 23 with a win over the Really Rottens, 29-23. Later that night the Legion of Doom trounced the Hoosiers, 68-40. The Legion of Doom were led by Shawn Walker with 23 points and Kevin Vincent with 16 points. The Hoosiers were led by Kevin

Symposium spotlights education

(Continued from Front Page)

4 p.m.: Keynote address, Bob Etheridge. SAC.

7 p.m.: Film — Stand and Deliver, followed by discussion. Library.

Wednesday

8:30 a.m.: Keynote address — School Reform: The Experience Across the Nation. Peterson. SAC.

9:45 a.m.: The Making of Society: Are Movies Cultural? Vivienne Anderson, student panel. Library.

The Work Place: The Place for Child Care? Jerry Joplin, student panel. Chapel.

Ripples of Change. (Repeat Tuesday session.) Room 105.

11:15 a.m.: Education and Responsibility. Gotlib. SAC.

1 p.m.: What You Don't Know About the World Can Hurt You. Allen Johnson, Ken Finney, Rick

Watson. Library.

The Space Generator: A New Energy Source. Himanshu Navangul. Room 105.

Leadership Challenges in Eastern North Carolina. Leslie Garner, Johnston Scholars. SAC.

2:30 p.m.: Teach for America

(a new teaching corps). Amy Van Oostrum. Library.

Changing Institutions: Prospects for the High School. Vann Langston. Chapel.

3:45 p.m.: Transformations as Challenges: Putting It All Together. Panel of educators. SAC.

Security tightened

(Continued from Front Page)

that "it's good in a way, for security reasons."

Security issues are the sole basis for the new policy. This measure was not made to limit a student's freedom but to protect residents of the halls from the theft, solicitation, and vandalism that occurred last semester.

"During the day (last semester), students could come and go as they pleased (through unlocked doors), but so could people who did not belong in the residence halls. If hall damage could not be attributed to anyone, then residents had to pay," commented Deborah Pittman.

Pam Derrick, dean of Student Life, commented that, "when we (Pittman and Derrick) talked to students at several roundtable meetings, the students expressed concern about the possibility of anyone being able to walk into the dorms. Most vandalism and behavior problems are attributed to outsiders, not students. We felt immediate action was necessary to protect residents."

Derrick added that since the initiation of this new security, vandalism and other problems caused by outsiders "has not been a problem."

This new concept in security will be more convenient next year when the college enacts "Phase II" of the security plan. Derrick says this will allow lobby doors to remain open, while doors leading to doors to the halls will have to be unlocked.

An intercom system will be installed in the lobbies so visitors can inform their host of their arrival. This will eliminate the constant knocking visitors, including commuters, must do in order to be admitted if they have not made arrangements with their host.

"The overall complaints I hear are withdrawn when students learn more about the plan. Inconvenience is a good trade for safety," says Derrick.

One commuter resolves, "When I don't make arrangements, I find myself banging on a door for five minutes, but I don't mind. I know that keeping vandals out and securing students' selves and property is well worth the inconvenience."

Activities on campus set up to celebrate Black History Month

The Black History Month Committee has lined up some interesting events for the Wesleyan community to celebrate during the month of February.

On Monday, Dr. Adrienne Israel spoke on "Black Education: Has Anything Changed Since the '60's?"

Today at 3:30 p.m., Part 1 of "Eyes on the Prize" will be shown in Room 105. The first episode in the celebrated PBS series focuses on the beginnings of the Civil Rights Movement: the Emmett Till lynching and the Montgomery bus boycott. Next Friday, Feb. 15, also at 3:30 p.m. in Room 105, Part 2 of "Eyes on the Prize" will be shown. This final episode deals with school desegregation, focusing on Little Rock and James Meredith.