

Homecoming participation called success

(Continued from Page 1)

of-war and other pudding sports.

Later than night, Phi Beta Delta sponsored hypnotist Ronnie Romm to perform for students in the Student Activities Center. Mixing skill with sharp wit, Romm amazed and awed his audience with feats of ESP. He demonstrated the power of hypnosis on 18 willing volunteers.

Thursday, Oct. 8, BSA brought the upcoming comedian Dr.

NCSU series now available for Wesleyan

North Carolina State University in Raleigh offers one of the most comprehensive and impressive Leadership Development Series in the country, a series now available to Wesleyan students.

Through an agreement between NCSU and Wesleyan, Wesleyan students can participate in the series and receive a certified transcript from NCSU documenting their participation. In addition, Wesleyan will certify a student's participation in the Series on the Co-Curricular Transcript.

This year there are 50 modules being offered on various topics ranging from negotiation to goal setting to civic responsibility. All modules are offered during both the fall and spring semesters. All modules cost $5. The PLUS 25 Refund is available for students who attend more than five sessions. Any module cost over $25 is refunded upon request at the end of each semester.

The Leadership Development Series is offered through the NCSU Student Leadership Center at (919) 515-2452. Registration forms and information can be requested via telephone or by writing to the student at 3114 Student Center, Box 7306, NCSU, Raleigh, NC 27695.

For more information about NCSU's Leadership Development Series, or leadership development programs and opportunities here at Wesleyan, contact Michael Sanseviro at 985-5256 in the Hardee's Student Union.

Bertice Berry to Wesleyan's SAC for what became a highlight of Homecoming Week.

Berry filled the room with hysterical laughter by doing impressions of Tina Turner, Whoopi Goldberg, Leon Spinks, and people in the audience. Her realism-based humor hit home and drove the audience wild, and the message in her humor was powerful. "We must learn to understand each other" was the focus of many of her jokes.

The Homecoming Dance was held Friday night, Oct. 9, sponsored by the CAB and Nu Gamma Phi. This year's theme was "A Night on the Town," and the dance with a live band was held at the Gateway Convention Centre from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Saturday, Oct. 10, was the day of Wesleyan's Homecoming soccer game against Washington College.

This year's Homecoming success depended largely upon the participation of students. Student attendance and behavior at the well-planned activities were "incredible," according to several faculty and staff.

The Campus Activities Board was responsible for planning, overseeing, and funding Homecoming. CAB President Matthew Synder said a "great, great deal" of preparation went into the week.

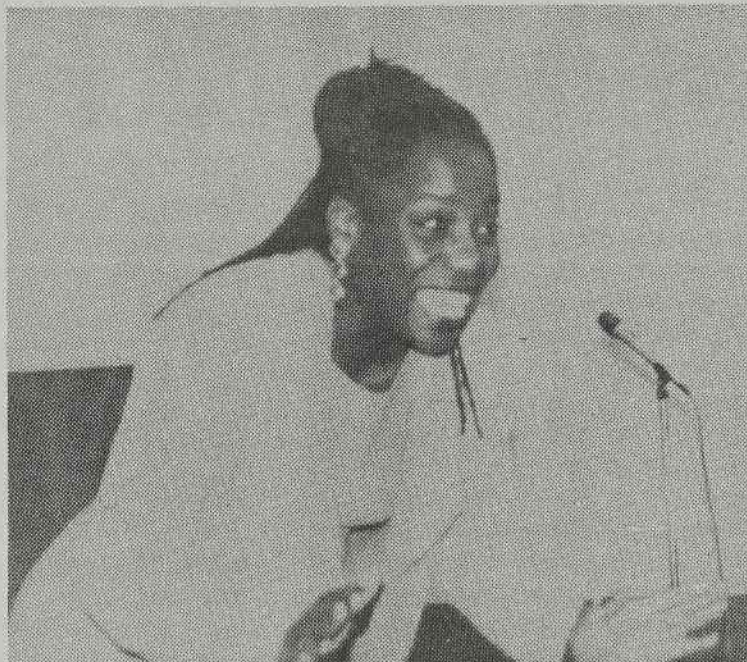

Homecoming activities are chosen in a step-by-step process, he said. CAB accepts proposals from organizations for Homecoming activities. Then CAB decides which ideas will work best for Wesleyan. CAB funds the projects and oversees them, and the different organizations are left to work out the details of their projects.

Students stiff Denny's

(Continued from Page 1)

added that when students steal and make trouble, it puts all Wesleyan students into a bad light because the employees find themselves mistrusting students.

This point of mistrust has not happened yet, because when four female students arrived about a

COMEDIAN VISITS — Dr. Bertice Berry, a comedian sponsored by the BSA, entertained students in the Student Activities Center during Homecoming Week. One of the highlights of Homecoming Berry impersonated such famous people as Tina Turner, Whoopi Goldberg, and Leon Spinks. (Photo by Chris Taylor.)

Sexual assault leads to increased security

(Continued from Page 1)

do our laundry?" The laundry room at South is on the women's floor. Laundry hours were quickly set from 12-6 p.m. for men, the rest of the day for women.

The whole purpose of loss of visitation, Sanseviro explained, was not punishment to the whole dorm but a safety precaution. Residents felt the loss of visitation could not have happened at a worse time, with homecoming right around the corner and many boyfriends and girlfriends coming to visit.

After the meeting was adjourned, Derrick and Sanseviro remained in the Resident Director's office, hoping that information leading to the identity of the men responsible for the whole thing would be forthcoming. They were not disappointed.

Within 15 minutes after the meeting ended, they were able to learn the whereabouts of the camera. With the the film and camera in hand, Derrick left and Sanseviro stayed. Within the half hour later they were welcomed, served, and then a conversation was struck up about the students who were there just before the female students.

Cherry said she enjoys most Wesleyan students, but added, "If you're not going to pay your bill, then don't come."

New program gives adults ADVANTAGE

The latest in adult degree programs is Wesleyan's ADVANTAGE, whose nine five-week sessions each year in an accelerated format allows a working adult to complete a course meeting only one night a week for five weeks.

"ADVANTAGE is an exciting opportunity for Wesleyan to expand its service to working adults and their employers," said Dr. Leslie H. Garner, Jr., president of the College. "The ADVANTAGE program offers adult students the chance to complete their education in a way that will prepare them to help lead their companies into the next century."

Wesleyan College, in partnership with Regis University in Denver, initiated ADVANTAGE this fall in Raleigh.

"In working with Regis University, we have access to expertise and materials that have been recognized across the nation as the cutting edge in adult education," Garner said.

A leader teacher from Regis, Rich Friedman, is the first instructor-facilitator for ADVANTAGE, opening with 36 students in two classes — marketing and management processes.

Facilitators are academically qualified practicing professionals who bring to the class not only academic competence but also current experience. In addition to classroom time, students commit 15-20 hours per week to outside study. Because the program is application-driven, students are required to do extensive writing and make oral presentations. Students are regarded as resources and their prior knowledge and experience are utilized to enrich the class.

Personals/Classified

The space is provided for anyone to leave messages, advertise, or simply be heard. The cost of a personal or classified is 25 cents per word. All requests must be given to John Pernel. Payment is due on acceptance.

$$$ FREE TRAVEL AND RESUME EXPERIENCE. Individuals and student organizations wanted to promote Spring Break. Call the nation's leader, Inter-Campus Programs, 1-800-327-6013.

Student Tip: Need a professor's or staff member's phone number? Check the Dean's Bulletin Board across from Room 180.

Don't miss Reggae Night, Tuesdays on W.E.S.Q.

Anyone interested in joining the Men's Lacrosse Club contact Jeremy in Room 319 at South Hall A.S.A.P.

Be sure to vote on Nov. 3. The country you save just might be your own.