

SUPERVISOR ATTENDS I. M. C. CONFERENCE

Sam Dale, Supervisor of the Greige Goods Department of Plant #1, attended the 22nd annual meeting and conference of The National Council of Industrial Management Clubs, Y. M. C. A., at Fort Wayne, Indiana, on May 3 and 4.

In addition to hearing stimulating addresses by top management men and sharing experiences with delegates everywhere, Mr. Dale had the opportunity to attend two club leadership development group meetings. He chose "The Organization and Functions of Club Key Men," led by Paul H. Brown of Parish Pressed Steel, Division of Dana Corporation of Reading, Pennsylvania; and "Developing Supervisory Managers Through Your Club's Program," led by William S. Wilbraham, Lukens Steel Company of Coatesville, Pennsylvania.

The most outstanding conference speakers were Anthony Oladko, vice-president of J. B. Williams Company, Glastonbury, Connecticut, who spoke on "Foremen as Managers and Business Men"; Cameron Ralston, a dynamic speaker before industrial and business organizations, who chose as his topic "The Battle for Men's Minds"; and the Reverend Ervin E. Petznik, pastor of the First United Brethren Church, Fort Wayne, who was Conference Chaplain.

An interesting feature of the conference program was a choice of visits through several large industries. Mr. Dale chose International Harvester, manufacturers of heavy duty motor trucks, and Tokheim Corporation, manufacturers of gasoline pumps.

The High Point group was recognized at the conference for having offered the most management courses in the United States. There are 190 clubs in the National Council. Guy E. Kinney, past president of the local Industrial Management Club was elected zone representative for North and South Carolina. He will work directly with the National Council in helping the clubs that are now organized and will help to organize new clubs. At present, there are three clubs in the Carolinas, at High Point, Charleston and Rock Hill.

Other High Pointers attending the conference in Fort Wayne were Gilbert Ross of Sylvania Electric Products Company, who is present president of the local Industrial Management Club; Ernest Porterfield of Denny Roll and Panel Company; and Ernest Burleson of the High Point Y. M. C. A.

Charlie Deviney was telling another fisherman about a wonderful dream he'd had: "I dreamed I was out at the city lake, alone in a boat with Marilyn Monroe."

"What a dream," said the other. "How'd it turn out?"

"Just simply wonderful," replied Charlie. "I caught an eight-pound bass!"
