

E. C. Pegg, retired fixer, now living at Plant City, Florida, chats with Ben Hair and Ralto Smith while visiting in Plant #1. Pegg was a knitter and fixer in Plants #1 and #4 for 48 years.

Sporting a Florida tan and a few more pounds in weight, Pegg says the Florida life has agreed with him.

The Weavils and the Edwards watch the Maroons defeat the Reds in the play-off games which the Maroons won, taking two straight games. Forrest Edwards has been helping coach our teams for three years.

* * * * *

Congratulations to Jewell Rutledge who celebrated her Silver Wedding

Anniversary. Jewell is in the Main Office

L. B. Heilig, vice president, is able to be back in his office on a shortened schedule. We are happy to have him back.

* * * * *

The mothers had a grand time watching the plays at home base during the Little Industrial League baseball games: left to right, Anna Boles, her mother, Mrs. Briggs, Mildred Briggs, Margaret Smith, Mrs. J. D. Morgan and Martha Rose.

* * * * *

Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Whitley are the proud parents of another daughter, Rebecca Ann. The mother, Willie Whitley, is a seamer at Plant #7.

SAFETY FIRST

In a recent inspection of Plant #1, Paul Shoaf reported many candy and chewing gum wrappers on the floors. "A wax or cellophane paper under a shoe heel is very dangerous," Shoaf pointed out. "Our housekeeping is very commendable, but we should keep our floors free from these hazards."