

116 EMPLOYEES DONATE BLOOD

The American Red Cross gives a very special thanks to Adams-Millis Corporation's High Point plants for sponsoring and participating in the Bloodmobile's April 30 visit to the personnel office on English Road. A total of 116 pints of blood was collected.

Those giving blood were: Ricky Aderhold, Martha Anderson, Emma Ard, Barbara Beard, Ruby Brewer, Marjorie Bivens, Icy Burch, Opal Carter, Nell Chapman, Marjorie Chilton, Margaret Clapp, Larry Cook, Lucy Craven, Roger Davis, Dale Denny, Priscilla Dickerson, Leon Dockery, Donna Folson, Margaret Fowler, Alexander Graham, William Gunter, Elaine Hornady, James Johnson, Eloise Leonard, Melba Leonard, Morgan Lones, Esther Lowe, Zulene Luck, Polly McDaniel, Delores McGinnis, Dwight Miller, Donald Moser, Max Moore, Ruby Moss, George Neal, James Nickels, Leler Nixon, Emma Nickolson, Patricia Norman, Charles Odham, Narsie Sheperd, Connie Owens, Ralph Parker, Dorothy Phillips, Neal Pierce, Cassandra Poole, Inez Prevatte, Cathy Richardson, Jack Rogers, Lucy Rush, Terry Shepherd, Lillian Sipes, Frances Smith, William Sweet, Thelma Thomas, Norma Thornton, Virginia Voncannon, Carlie Watts, Louise Watts, Belva White, Eleanor White and Harriett Wilson.

When the Bloodmobile returns to your area, remember that blood is a blessing; it can't be manufactured. Often the gift of blood is the gift of life itself.

SIDNEY PEELE RETIRES

SIDNEY PEELE, of the Hosiery Division in Kernersville, retired May 1 on the basis of age. He was first employed in the High Point Hosiery Division's finishing department in 1942, but transferred to Kernersville when the new finishing plant began operations there. Most of his thirty years with the company were served as a labeling and printing machine operator.

Sidney underwent major surgery a few months ago, and his present plans are to concentrate on improving his health.

He and Mrs. Peele live at 201 North Hall Street in High Point.

Q. How does my group insurance coverage change when I become 65 years old?

A. When you reach age 65, your supplemental life insurance will be reduced by 50%. For example, if you have $6,000 basic life insurance and $6,000 supplemental life insurance (a total of $12,000 life insurance), at age 65 you will continue to have $6,000 basic life insurance but your supplemental life insurance will reduce to $3,000 (a total of $9,000 life insurance). Your premium contribution will reduce accordingly.

Your medical insurance will automatically convert to a Medicare Supplement when you reach age 65. This means that when your medical expenses during a calendar year exceed $100, benefits equal to 80% of the covered expenses over and above the $100 deductible amount will be paid. The amount of the benefits payable will be reduced by any benefits provided by Medicare. Your medical premium contribution will remain the same as before you became 65 years old.

Q. What group insurance coverage does my dependent husband or wife have at his, or her, age 65?

A. At age 65, your dependent husband, or wife, will continue to have the same life insurance coverage as before age 65. The medical benefits for him, or her, at age 65 will be the same as that outlined above. There will be no changes in your dependent medical premium contribution.

"Oh, hi there, dear, I'm on strike for more house money and a dishwasher. Care to arbitrate?"