BOON FOR BOND BUYERS

Some good news for U. S. Bond buyers is that all Series E and H savings bonds purchased on or after December 1, 1973, will earn 6% when held to maturity--up from the previous rate of 5 1/2%.

The annual rate on savings bonds and savings notes now outstanding is also increased by the same amount. Some 23 million Americans presently holding more than $60 billion in savings bonds and notes will receive an additional 1/2% return on their present bonds. No action on the part of savings bond or note holders is necessary to take advantage of the higher rate.

The maturity of Series E bonds sold after December 1 has been shortened from five years, 10 months to five years. The purchase price of new bonds remains unchanged, and they are available with maturity values from $25 to $1,000.

While teaching Sunday School, I asked one little girl if she knew the story of Adam and Eve.

"First God created Adam," she said; "then He looked at him and said, 'I think I can do better.' So, He created girls."

Officials of Adams-Millis Hosiery Company have announced the creation of a new department to be called the "Special Projects Engineering Department." It has been designed to serve both the ladies' and men's hosiery divisions in an effort to improve quality and increase productivity.
