A Chat With the Chairman

December 16, 1974

Dear Fellow Employees:

As Christmas 1974 arrives, we begin to think of the past, the present and the future. As a moment from the past, I'd like you to read the letter on this page--one that was written for the company publication at this season 25 years ago.

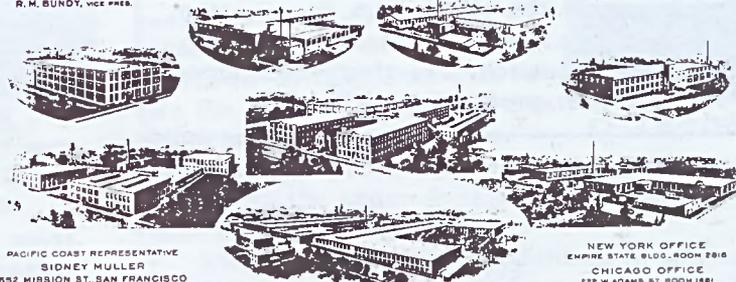

You may ask why I brought my father's letter out of the past. The reason is that I think his letter from the past has a special meaning for you and me now and in the future. Now, just as 25 years ago, I am confident your faithfulness, loyalty and teamwork will provide the assurance that the future of Adams-Millis will be bright and successful for each of us.

No matter how hard I search for a new and better way to say it, it still comes out. . . "I want you to know that you have my genuine appreciation for your fine cooperation in the past, and my warmest wishes for a happy, successful Nineteen Seventy-Five. May you and those whom you love have a joyful Christmas Season and a bright peaceful New Year. "

Sincerely,

Dear Fellow Employees:

As we approach the close of Nineteen Forty-Nine it is again my pleasure to express my gratitude for your faithfulness and loyalty. When I think of the part each of you have played, and are playing, to keep the wheels of our Plants turning, it is difficult for me to express adequately my feelings. You have done a good job and your Company is mighty thankful for the loyalty of men and women like you.

The coming year may not be easy for many of us. Problems may confront us - - difficulties may arise. But of this I am sure, you will be ready to do your utmost for the mutual good of your Company. Your teamwork has established Adams-Millis as a leader in the production of fine quality hosiery, and you may be assured with your continued spirit of cooperation we will be able to maintain these same high standards, and we will do everything possible to assure steady employment.

I want you to know that you have my genuine appreciation for your fine cooperation in the past, and my warmest wishes for a happy, successful Nineteen Fifty. May you and those whom you love have a joyful Christmas Season and a bright, peaceful New Year.

Sincerely yours,

President
