

The Rockies From Vail, Colo., Through Carol Franklin's Camera

Franklin's Shot Wins Photo Contest

Carol Franklin's shot of The Rockies as seen from Vail, Colo., was named the winning entry in this year's Amco News Vacation Photo Contest.

Franklin, who works in Adams-Millis Sales, not only showed the splendor of the mountains but also captured in the foreground a beautiful placid lake which reflected the beauty of the mountains.

Second place went to Eva McKenzie, Plant 1 Seaming Department, for a shot she took of a waterfall on the Rhein River on the border of Germany and Switzerland. She took the shot during her vacation which she spent at her mother's home near

Burfeind Named President

Bundy Ends Long Career

Robert M. Bundy, Jr., who was chief executive officer of Adams-Millis, retired Nov. 1 after more than 35 years in the hosiery business.

George Burfeind, who was chief operating officer of Adams-Millis, was named to assume Bundy's duties. Burfeind will be president of the company.

Bundy, a High Point native, joined Adams-Millis in 1954 as a trainee, then served in the U.S. Army from 1955-57. After returning from the army in 1957, he accepted a sales position with Maro Hosiery in June of that year.

He gained extensive experience in sales and manufacturing with Maro before rejoining Adams-Millis in 1976 as president of its hosiery division. In 1983 Bundy was named president of Adams-Millis Corporation and became chief executive office in 1989, following the acquisition of Adams-Millis by Sara Lee Corporation.

"Bob has made a tremendous contribution to the entire industry and has provided consistent leadership at Adams-Millis," said Keith Alm, vice president of Sara Lee Corporation.

George Burfeind

"He has guided the growth and development of Adams-Millis and still found time to provide a strong commitment to the High Point community."

Burfeind, a Brooklyn, N.Y., native, joined Silver Knit in 1962 and was promoted to president of sales in 1972. He was named president of the division in 1984.

A-M Employees Give $60,000+

Adams-Millis employees in Kernersville and High Point contributed more than $60,000 in the 1990 United Way campaigns in High Point and Forsyth County.

Employees in High Point contributed $27,598.61, an increase of some $8,000 or 29 percent from the 1989 campaign.

In Kernersville, employees increased their United Way contributions by almost 34 percent over 1989 to the Forsyth County United Way Campaign, donating $34,551.87.

The employee contributions plus the Adams-Millis corporate contribution of $7,000 raised the 1990 total to $41,551.87.

The $34,551.87 given by Adams-Millis employees exceeded the goal of $29,377 by nearly 18 percent. The 1990 goal Frances Corne, who works in the company's Administrative Offices, took third place with a scenic shot in Arches National Park in Utah.

As first place winner Franklin wins a $150 gift certificate from Belk's. McKenzie will receive a $100 gift certificate from Belk's and Corne will get a $50 gift certificate.

Contest judges said choosing the winners this year was a difficult task because there were many good photos entered. There were 21 entrants in this year's contest.
