Interns Join Staff For Summer; Gather Information For CD Plan

Four interns have been added to the staff of the City Demonstration Agency to gather information for Model Cities this summer.

They are John Kavanagh of Greensboro, a recent graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill; Barbara Carter, a recent graduate of East Carolina University, Greenville; and Gloria Jean Ingram and Phyllis Mebane, rising juniors at N.C. Central University, Durham.

A fifth member of the intern staff, Roger Carrick, who was with Model Cities two previous summers, has already left to accept another internship in Washington.

The interns' assignment is to gather data to support a condition statement for the City of High Point, to tie in with an eventual plan for Community Development.

In plainer terms, their job is to pool information from many sources into a useful form to be used by planners from Model Cities and city government.

They are obtaining facts and figures from numerous sources such as the Guilford County Health Department, High Point Memorial Hospital, Social Services Department, Employment Security Commission, Greensboro Youth Services Bureau, and existing Model Cities projects.

The information relates to the Model Cities program areas of health, environment, social services, employment and business development, crime and juvenile delinquency, and recreation.

Assigned to the Research and Development staff under the direction of Ben Smith, the interns will be at work until September.

WHAT'S HAPPENING is published bimonthly by the Model Cities Commission of High Point, North Carolina, William S. Bencini, Mayor; Dr. Otis E. Tillman, Commission Chairman; Don J. Forney, Director; Cecil A. Brown, Information and Evaluation Specialist. Offices of the agency are located at 609 S. Main St., High Point, N. C. 27260. Telephone 885-9081.

The preparation of this magazine and its free distribution were financially aided and made possible through a federal grant from the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development under Title I of the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Act of 1966.
