

"THE RAT"

Ladies and Gentlemen, the Rat is on the run again, discovering the hide-outs of Cupid. As we open, we hear that Misses O. Strong and R. Hall are the song birds of the campus.

Miss D. Tyler is saying down with Hitlerism. Watch your step, P. Greene.

Old love never died, says Miss Brett.

Watch out, girls. "Bow" Mills says he is the hardest on the campus. "Bow," give the other boys a shot.

The Rat visited the O. S. Carter and found him talking to himself, or maybe his brains were rattling.

Miss N. Greene is with J. Samuels again. Where is Tommy T.?

The Rat wants to know what keeps the freshman young ladies in during social hour.

We see you, C. Smith (the boy from up north) loving one on campus and one in the city—hard man.

R. Spaulding, when are you going to stop wearing mourning? Is it that you are third year in college or she did not return this year?

What are we going to do about From Boston continuing to dance at the College Inn?

Ira Brown, the football star from Ohio, has a smooth line of "jive" for all women. He hasn't decided yet what or who he wants, but the Rat thinks that Martha Lewis (Dimples) is tops. What about it, Mr. Brown?

We have actual proof that old love never dies. Watch Duckwilder and Bernice Brett. They come on.

Make up your mind, Mr. Lewis, of Rocky Mount, N. C., who shall it be?

Despite the fact that the height of Mr. Colbert enables him to look all over the campus, he only has eyes for Annie Frances Crawford.

Flash! Flash! The Rat has been busy. It finds a freshman girl from Reidsville, N. C., deeply in love with the football hero, Dick Mack. Anything to it, Mr. Mack?

Joe Robinson seems to be undecided, but Aurelia Lucas already has her mind made up.

No. 44 has a smooth line on the football field, but he makes his touchdown with Marjorie Townes, of Raleigh, N. C.

What young lady on the campus delights in breaking up happy couples? Watch out, girls; she may try for you next.

A certain sophomore young lady had an unexpected guest Sunday night from Boston. Anyway, she was at his beck and call. Were you that young lady?

B. Brett and Duckwilder are trying to make a go of it this year after divorcing three times last year.

L. Mitchell is taking life easy and

Campus Comments

1. Have you noticed that mad rush the girls and boys make when social hour comes?

2. Did you know that Marjorie Reynolds, that cute little freshman, has some new shoes?

3. Guess who goes to the Neighborhood Store twice a day!

4. Did you notice that several young ladies had on new skirts at the Bluefield game?

5. Who was the gentleman dressed so sportily at the Bluefield game—and where did he find those lovely shoes? Evidently, he thought the school colors were yellow and green.

6. Guess how many times Vivian England has moved this year?

7. He said that she said that they said that they didn't know where it started, but he said that she said that the dean was going to stop it.

8. Who is the gentleman who is always stressing proportion at the dining room?

9. Who is that Kappa man whom all women like and what does he have that all women crave?

10. Does anyone know who that "gripe" is that haunts the table where no one wants him?

11. It is reputed that the freshman girls are taking the day around the campus as far as the men are concerned, but look out, freshman girls; you can't ever tell what the "P. C.'s" are up to.

12. While V. E. was rejoicing over State's victory, her escort seemed to be a bit worried as to the state of his attire.

13. Who is the fellow who wishes to see Eddie Graves at her leisure?

14. Bernice Brett, from all appearances, was playing the role of nurse a few days ago.

smoking the freshmen over to see if any of them are hipped enough for her.

N. Emel Jones is showing T. Stewart that there's some other boy on N. C. C.'s campus besides him, and who stepped into Stewart's shoes, but a basketball star, Ennis—the campus talk.

Coming from the dining hall a few nights back, I overheard some young women talking about the biggest eater in the dining hall, and the two came to an agreement that C. Smith would get the prize if any should be given away.

A. Lucas, Malinda Bonds, R. Allison, cheer leaders of last year, are holding the same positions this year, with several new members.

Charles Smith, the biggest jiver on the campus, has finally won over Ruth Anderson, and she is now on his line. Don't fall too hard, Ruth.

Sylvester Carter is living in memories now. He walks around as if in a dream. Miss (?) isn't here now. Do not take it too hard, Carter; you may have the heart trouble on the brain.

The love birds on the campus are M. Townes and W. Peerman. M. T. is only interested in a football man.

The days are never too dark and dreary for D. Freeman and J. Graves to stroll along by the library.

L. Delaney is quite a popular man on the campus. The ladies are watching you, Delaney.

Watch out, R. Barnes! Is it C. Harrington or R. Whitehead? You seem to be very fond of one another.

G. Webb with her northern brogue is from Chapel Hill, N. C.

Oglesby To Direct Men's Glee Club

Under the direction of Professor Isador Boyd Oglesby, formerly director of the Community Glee Club of Durham, the Men's Glee Club is well under way. New music has recently arrived, and extensive tours are planned by the group. Roland L. Allison has been appointed accompanist for those numbers which will require an accompaniment. Most of the selections, however, will be done a cappella.

Y. W. C. A. News

The Y. W. C. A. held its recognition service in the music assembly on Sunday, October 8, at 6 p.m. The hushed, solemn service impressed anew those old members who had previously taken a part in it each year and continued to awe them by its quiet dignity. Seated Y-shaped, many new members faced the candle-lit altar lost in rapt attention to the well-arranged, well-timed, well-ordered service.

At the close of the service, over one hundred and ten members, new and old, rose to pledge their support in making this life possible to all people and to unite in the desire to realize full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God. Adhering to its customs, the Y. W. C. A. staff served all present.

The Y. W. C. A. gladly welcomes all young women who are in sympathy with its purpose.

School Spirit Now in Making

Mr. H. M. Michaux, manager, Union Realty and Insurance Company, "Saying you love me is not enough; show it; let me know it."

Mr. L. E. Ausin, editor, Carolina Times, "School spirit is a thing that grows on you. 'Tis a gift of the Gods and woe be unto those who are without it." He advised, "Let's stop criticizing our team; let's praise it."

The assembly closed with the singing of the Alma Mater, Dear Old N. C. C., composed by Mrs. Shepard.

Forum Gets Off To Good Start

The North Carolina College student Forum got off to a good start on Wednesday, September 26, with Mr. Earl T. Artis acting as chairman.

The meeting was opened with the chairman's welcome remarks. After his remarks, he presented to the student body Professor C. L. Holmes, founder of the Forum. Prof. Holmes gave a brief historical sketch of the Forum and advised all present to uphold its principles and ideals and to make it function in the capacity for which it was intended.

On October 4, the members of the Forum listened to an inspirational talk by Dr. Heningburg, who spoke on the subject, "Why did you come to college?" Miss LaRuth Hall, a freshman, thrilled the entire audience with her singing of "If You Only Knew."

The meeting on October 11 was so largely attended that many stood around the walls of the music assembly. All indications from the start pointed to the fact that the "N. C. Spirit" was running high. After the singing of our school song, "Dear Old N. C. C.," Coach Burghardt was presented to the student body by the chairman. Coach Burghardt gave a report of the Lincoln-State game and urged the students to play their part of the game on the sidelines by keeping up the spirit. After several fiery yells, the entire group lifted their voices in singing, "Give Me That Old N. C. Spirit." Dean James T. Taylor corroborated Coach Burghardt's statement concerning the Lincoln-State game, and made a plea for full cooperation in the future.

The Forum invites all students who are interested in self-expression, display of talent, and current discussions. This is a democratic organization. Will you come and bring another person with you?

EARL T. ARTIS, Chairman, The Student Forum.

"Lamps" Entertain

The opening of school this year consisted of numerous affairs honoring the freshmen. One of the most delightful entertainments was the smoker given by the Lamposas Club of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity. Practically all freshman men and new students were present.

Immediately after entering the gymnasium, the fellows were greeted and were delighted with a program given by the Lamposas Club members. Following this, the newly elected officers were introduced. They are: Brooklyn McMillan, president; Clarence Lightner, vice-president; Roland L. Allison, secretary; Howard Fitts, assistant secretary; Robert Duke, treasurer; Nathaniel Washington, chaplain; Roy Moore, chairman of program committee; Denison D. Garrett, chairman of social committee; Franklyn Russell, keeper of peace.

Our President

Dr. Shepard is our dear president; No one knows what to us he's meant. He's with us both day and night, To help and guide us in the light; For he doesn't want us to stray From his dear guidance any day. And now he's master of a school Which cheerfully obeys his rule. Though he is here every day, Sometimes "the foxes" try to play; But he is wise as well as true And catches "foxes" old and new. He knows that when the hunter's away, The little "foxes" try to play; But these "foxes" had better mind, Or their hiding place he'll find. Now, to you, Dr. Shepard, whom we love, Your rules will ever be above. Though sometimes we may seem to stray, We love your guidance more each day. And though we now seem frivolous, The future will not all be thus, And you will find in days to come That what we did was all in fun.

Bisons Will Tangle with Eagles

(Continued from page 1) turned home, but as homesick brothers or sisters who are thirsting for the joys of North Carolina College do the graduates return to their Alma Mater. They long to see the improvements made since their last visits. Seeking anew, they are the bountiful treasures of brotherhood. The anticipations are great.

The present student body deems it a pleasure to welcome the others back home. They are preparing as best they can to make this a most pleasant, a most glorious, an exceptionally great homecoming. Very sincerely do they welcome the alumni, the visitors, the opponents, and all in general. They are sure that the spirit of sincere welcome will entirely envelope the North Carolina College campus. They are planning to show the alumni and visitors what a success they can make, what unity and spirit they have, what achievement they are able to accomplish.

Welcome alumni! Welcome visitors! Welcome all!

Phi Fraternity, introduced the basileus, Charles E. Cobb, who gave the new students a warm welcome and greetings. The main speaker, Mr. Day, of the N. C. Mutual Insurance Company, brought greetings from the graduate chapter and gave an inspirational talk on fraternity life, its meaning, and benefits.

Appetizing refreshments were then served. The honorees seemed to be enjoying the occasion so immensely that they were allowed to express their sentiments.

When the end came, they returned to their respective homes, having enjoyed a full evening of entertainment, inspiration, good-will, sincerity, and refreshments—all served only as sons of Omega could serve.
