ORIENTATION

Medical examinations were begun Tuesday afternoon, and the day was tapered off with a faculty-student tea in the home economics department buildings Tuesday evening.

Wednesday featured placement examinations in English, Mathematics, French and Reading. There were more medical exams, and in the evening a dance was sponsored by the junior class in the women's gymnasium.

There were more examinations Thursday, and an evening talent show in B. N. Duke Auditorium. This was an excellent presentation of the talent to be found among the freshmen. Although the program presented only a small portion of the talented newcomers, there were signs of careful planning on the part of the sponsoring junior class.

Two outstanding renditions were Dunbar's "At the Party" recited by Doris Leake of Reidsville, and the vocal rendition of "Don't Take Your Love From Me" by Robert McKnight of Gastonia. Going to the classical side of the music world the freshmen rendered as vocal and piano solos, "Ave Maria," "The Lord's Prayer," and many other works of the masters. Our frosh twins, Myrtle and Bertha Boykins rendered beautiful piano solos.

Friday was registration day for everyone and the stage was set for the beginning of classes Monday, September 22. There was still time, however, for a YWCA hike for young women Saturday afternoon and a smoker for men sponsored by the YMCA Saturday night.

Classes began Monday, and "they all lived happily ever after"—until the marks are mailed home.

rating college, the first state-supported liberal arts college for Negroes, a school worthy of receiving a grant in aid by the Carnegie Foundation and an institution which is one of the two Negro colleges offering the graduate degree in library science.

Dr. Shepard founded the North Carolina College in 1919 and guided it from its beginning as the National Religious Training School and Chautauqua to a place among the nation's top-ranking colleges with a plant valued at more than $3,000,000, a student body of approximately 1500 and a faculty of 102 members.

Dr. Shepard has given the world sound philosophies on matters pertaining to state, civic, and interracial affairs and these have been stated in numerous speeches he made

Rev. Cannon Gives Philosophies In Sunday Sermon

Speaking from the subject, "Developing A True Philosophy Of Life," Sunday, September 28, the Rev. J. A. Cannon, pastor of Twine Memorial Presbyterian Church told his audience, that "a philosophy of life is just as important to an individual as a rudder is to a ship."

The Rev. Cannon stated that we as students must be aware of the philosophies that seem to deceive us. He particularly stressed the philosophy of force, which preferably exists among men who seek to destroy the virtue of women.

The philosophy of selfishness exist among those who believe that "what is mine is mine and I intend to keep it," the minister said, "is not a sound philosophy." When such a philosophy as this comes into our lives as young people, our education is no good to us.

The philosophy of sharing, the Rev. Cannon said, is the most honorable of all the philosophies. "When we learn to share our learning, time and service with those who are less fortunate than we, who are acquiring an education, we show forth the philosophy of sharing and we are then doing our task and our education is of service to us as well as to our fellowmen," the Rev. Cannon said.

throughout the country, including his annual radio addresses to the people of North Carolina.

At the unique student service, the college choir, under the direction of Dr. J. Elmo Dorsey, led the audience in the familiar hymn, "Faith Of Our Fathers." Following the scripture selection by Samuel O'Neal, the student body proudly but sadly sang "Dear Old N. C. C.," the alma mater for which the late Mrs. Annie Day Shepard, the president's wife wrote the words.

Makes Debut In Raleigh

The North Carolina College Male Quartet began a series of personal appearances Monday, October 6, when they presented a varied program of music for male voices at the Carolina Hotel in Raleigh. The occasion was a regular luncheon meeting of the Raleigh Lions Club.

Joseph Mitchell, above has returned to North Carolina College after a hike in the army. Before entering the army, he was a standout for the "green" Eagle eleven that held Tuskegee to a surprisingly low score in the Capital Classic. He is expected to add more power to North Carolina College's line offensively and more tenacity defensively.

Under the direction of Dr. James Elmo Dorsey, head of the North Carolina College department of music, the members of the quartet are Robert McKnight of Gastonia, first tenor; Earnest McAdams, Durham, second tenor; Joseph Mitchell, Durham, baritone, and Emile Rozier, Richmond, Virginia, bass.
