

Ninth Commerce Day Attracts 1000

The ninth annual Commerce Day Program got underway with registration in the auditorium of the Commerce Building at 9:00 a.m., March 19.

The large number of students were welcomed by the faculty and student body of NCC and were told the purpose of the program was "to assist you in planning your business career by helping you to become more acquainted with the opportunities, both present and future, in the field of commerce." The theme used for the occasion was "Training for Business in a World of Science." John V. Turner, Professor of Commerce, was director of the program.

At 9:30 a.m. some 1,000 or more students were moving about on the campus. It was at this time that machine demonstrations were given in the Commerce Building. They were followed by tours of the campus.

Chapel Hour took place at 12:00 noon in the B. N. Duke Auditorium. The speaker was Mr. J. S. Stewart, secretary of Mutual Savings and Loan Association of Durham, North Carolina.

At 1:00 p.m., the students were served lunch in the College dining hall.

At 2:30 p.m., Career Counseling was administered, and counselors answered questions in the following areas: Accounting and Tax Practice, Business Education, Institutional Administration, Business Law and Economics, Management of a Small Business and Secretarial Practice.

The State Typing Contest was held at 2:00 p.m. in the Commerce Building. Doris Audrey, of West Charlotte High School, Charlotte, received a camera for first place in the first semester division. The second-semester winner was Stanley Grady of Carver High School, Mount Olive. She received an executive desk lamp.

Bonnie C. Harris of H. B. Suggs High School, Farmville, was tops among third-semester competitors. She was awarded a typewriter.

Other first-semester winners were Mildred Joyner, B. T. Washington High School, Rocky Mount, and Ida Durham, Henderson.

Runner-up and third-place winners in the two-semester division were Patricia Geer of Stevens Lee High School, Asheville, and Bobbie Dunn, C. F. Pope High School, Burgaw.

Gloria Bass, of B. T. Washington High School, Reidsville, won second place in the third semester class. Third place went to Eureka Durham of Henderson Institute.

Forty-five students representing 27 teachers from 20 counties participated in the ninth annual typing contest.

Kappa Conclave Here April 15-16

The Middle Eastern Province of Kappa Alpha Psi will hold its regional conclave at North Carolina College, April 15-16. Registration will begin Thursday morning and the first business session will get underway Friday morning at 9:00 a.m., with the regional polemic, Frank G. Burnette of Durham, presiding.

All Greeks are cordially invited to attend the formal dance at the city Armory on Friday night, April 15. Non-Greek young ladies may contact members of Alpha Kappa Chapter for name entries on the "Meet your date list."

The members of Alpha Kappa Chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi sponsored their annual smoker on March 12. Howard Alston of the Durham alumni chapter was the principal speaker. He elaborated on the history and goals of Kappa Alpha Psi.

tion. Students from all over the Piedmont section of North Carolina will be here for the test.

North Carolina College has been giving the National Teacher Examination on a trial basis to its students for the past two years. In 1958, 90 North Carolina College students took the examination out of the 99 who applied for it. In 1959, 80 students took the examination out of 90 students who applied.

serting the responsibility of the students. Bryant, a former speaker protempore of the Student Congress, is president of the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity and of the Dormitory Council of Chidley Hall, and a member of the NAACP and the Thespian Club.

He said that the good and valuable policies started by previous SG administrations will be continued and that many new ideas will be injected under his leadership so as to give the SG some of its lost vigor and make it an organization of, for and by the student body. He decided that one of his goal will be help each student to fulfill his collegiate aim.

McIntosh, High Contest For VP

Carl E. High, rising senior from Raleigh, will oppose McIntosh. High is in the field of accounting and is a member of several organizations. He said: "Among various other things I shall make a fervent effort to initiate the book rental system and try to delegate more authority to senior counselors. I will make an endeavor to make some disposition about persons who lose their meal books. I will see that the student body gets more organized activities, social as well as cultural. Also, I will uphold the opinions of the student body to the best of my ability."

Timothy McIntosh, rising junior from Wilson, is currently serving as editor of the Chidley Hall Bulletin and president of the Sophomore Class. He is also a member of the NAACP and the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity. The mathematics major and general science minor stated that his main efforts would be in developing student interest in the Student Government and other institutions dealing directly with them.

In a statement McIntosh said: "If I am elected vice-president of the Student Government, I shall strive to the best of my ability to stimulate a greater interest between the students and the Student Government. As you know, a chain is no stronger than its weakest link. So, I can do no more than what you (the student body) back me in doing."

All the candidates will run independently.

Cameron, Jarman Seek Editorship

Cynthia Jarman, junior music major from Trenton, filed a petition for the office of editor of the Campus Echo. She is a member of the College Choir, the Thespian Club, and the band. She made the Dean's List of the first semester.

Miss Jarman, a recent addition to the Echo staff, is one of the critics of the policy of the present editor. She said: "If I am elected I shall try to give the Campus Echo the improvements necessary."

Thomas Lee Cameron, Campus Echo Editor, will seek re-election for the office. Cameron, who previously had decided against running, changed his mind when no one declared for the office by the last date for filing of petitions.

Cameron, a physics major from Durham, was the first freshman to be managing editor of the Campus Echo and the only sophomore editor. He has been criticized by some students for censoring news. The policy of the Campus Echo is that the editor reserves the right to edit the news and all copy. Letters to the editor cannot be censored and must be published, providing space is available.

Cameron stated that he will continue to give the Campus Echo the quality of newspaper at least representative of the student body.

In a statement Cameron said: "I ask only that the student body look over the newspaper and see if the newspaper is what I promised it to be. I run on my record. I feel that, in spite of arguments of my critics, the Campus Echo is an outstanding example of a representative student newspaper. If anyone doubts that there are more letters to the editor, let him read issues of the Echo of previous years. I think I have so far as possible lived up to my promises. Also, after one year and two summers of working with the Echo, I feel that undoubtedly I am most qualified. Above all else, I do hope that the Campus Echo will get the responsible leadership it will need to pass over these transitional years."

Four Campaign For 'Miss NCC'

Four rising seniors have qualified to seek the position as "Miss North Carolina College."

The four candidates are Barbara Massey, Virdell Tedder, Edith Sutton, and Thelma Upperman. The SG Constitution requires also that the candidates be in good financial standing with the College and have an accumulative average of 1.5.

Barbara Massey, junior music major from Fayetteville, is a member of the College Choir, the band, the Thespian Club, and the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority.

Virdell Tedder, dramatic arts major from Durham, is vice president of the Thespian Club, on the Steering Committee of WSG, the Off-Campus Council, and a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority. This term she served as attendant to "Miss Homecoming." Miss Tedder is on the Dean's List, and was recently voted the most outstanding off-campus woman.

Thelma Upperman, a sociology major from Jamaica, N.Y., is a cheerleader. She is co-dean of pledges of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

Edith Sutton, junior biology major from Kinston, was elected "Miss Eagle" in January. She is a member of the Student Congress, the Student Government, and a three-year member of the year book staff, and is on the Dean's List. She resigned as chairman of the Election Committee to become a candidate. The outspoken coed said that Mr. William Holloway, adviser to the Freshman Class, has been elected to serve as a delegate to the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth which is being held on March 27-April 2 in Washington, D. C.

The conference will be a representative meeting of citizens who share a deep concern for the children and youth of the nation. The program attempts to achieve an inter-disciplinary approach—one that will attack simultaneously from many viewpoints each problem related to all segments of the community.

Mr. Holloway was assigned to one of the 210 work groups which met on March 28-30 to consider questions pertaining to the youth of today. He will also be assigned to a theme assembly and a forum and will remain with the assignments throughout the conference.

New Instructors In French Dept.

Mrs. Anne-Marie Bryan became a faculty member of the French Department here in February. Before coming to North Carolina College Mrs. Bryan taught French for several years at Duke University, where she did graduate work in order to learn American methods of teaching.

Born in Burgundy, France, she received her high school and college education at the Dijon in the province of Burgundy. From the Dijon she went to the Paris Law School. After graduation Mrs. Bryan, who was a lawyer for several years, married Mr. C. J. Bryan, an American.

Mrs. Bryan is the mother of two children, an eight-year-old son and a twelve-year-old daughter. Because of her job as an instructor, her time is limited. Her favorite hobby is reading, which is restricted mostly to modern French novels.

Another member of the French Department is Mr. James Rush Beeler. He is a part-time instructor and a graduate student at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill.

her main reason for running is to show that a student does not have to be in a sorority to be "Miss NCC." She said that it is time that sororities stop monopolizing the election.

Valeria Lynch, one of the nine students to enter NCC on the accelerated program initiated in the 1958 Summer School, was ruled ineligible by the SG Election Committee. The commerce major from Enfield will have 86 hours at the end of the semester. The constitutional requirements are that the candidates have 90 hours.

Elwynda Patterson, an English major from Kinston, declined the nomination by her supporters.
