Bosier, Icard, Bradley Win Grants

Three North Carolina College seniors, two with a major in mathematics and one with a major in psychology, have been awarded fellowships and grants for graduate study during the next calendar year at leading universities in the country.

Edward Bosier of Wilmington, N. C. has been awarded a Southern Education Foundation-Woodrow Wilson Fellowship. He will study this summer at the University of Oklahoma. He will receive tuition, room and board, and other fees. Beginning September he will continue his studies at the University of Michigan, where he will devote himself to full time study toward a degree in pure mathematics. For the nine months, Bosier will receive $1,500 stipend, tuition and fees. He also been named a Danforth Fellow for the year 1962-63. This fellowship is renewable for four years. The stipend is $1,500 for nine months, tuition and fees. He has been Managing Editor of the Campus Echo, is listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, is now proofreader for the Echo, is president of Beta Kappa Chi Honorary Scientific Society. For the past two years Bosier has been the undergraduate assistant to the chairman of the Department of Mathematics.

Fred Icard of Lenior, N. C. has been awarded a stipend of $2,250, tuition, and fees by the Department of Mathematics, University of Wisconsin and the Army Mathematics Research Center. He will study toward a degree in Applied Mathematics. Beginning September, 1962, he will devote full time study toward his degrees and in June and July will be a research associate in Army Mathematics Research Center. He is listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. (continued on page 8)

206 On Honor Roll For First Semester

Some 206 students, including 7 with all A's and 40 who made the Dean's List, are currently on the honor roll at North Carolina College.

The honor roll, which records first semester academic performance at NCC, was released here recently by Mrs. Frances Eagleson, registrar.

It shows 29 of the 206 students as natives of Durham, N. C., and lists top students from several other states, including Georgia, Florida, South Carolina, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, and Virginia.

10 To Receive Shepard Scholarships

The James E. Shepard Memorial Foundation will award 10 $800 scholarships in 1962-63 to able and deserving students to attend North Carolina College, it was announced here today.

James T. Taylor, executive director of the Foundation, said the grants will be paid in equal installments of $200 per year to cover all tuition costs for a full four year period.

The latest in a series of grants was made possible, Taylor said, by awards to the Foundation from the Mary Babcock Reynolds Foundation, the Zack Smith Reynolds Foundation, and other private donors.

To qualify for the awards, students must have maintained an average of "B" or above in their high school work, must be of good moral character, in need of financial assistance, and must be recommended by either the principal or a responsible committee at the high schools which they have attended.

An average of "B" is also required for annual renewals, Taylor said.

The Shepard Foundation was established as a memorial to the late Dr. James E. Shepard, founder and first president of NCC, shortly after his death here in 1947. It has already awarded 120 scholarships to deserving students.

In addition to Taylor, retired professor of psychology at NCC who serves as executive director, officers of the Foundation include Dr. J. M. Hubbard, Sr., president; H. M. Michaux, vice president; Dr. A. T. Spaulding, treasurer; and Mrs. Vergie Davis, secretary.

10 Students Announce Candidacy For SG Offices

Ten students have announced their candidacy for positions in the 1962-63 Student Government. Elections are to be held May 4. Contending for the president of the SG are John Avent, Sidney Verbal and Linwood Walker. The vice-presidency is sought by Carrie Barnes, James Ferguson, Jean Harrington and Charles Weeks.

John Avent

John Avent, junior chemistry major from Nashville, N. C., strongly advocates the improvement of student-administration relationships and an improvement in the school's health services. In a statement to the press Avent said "I do not propose to strive to eliminate all of the administration's policies on student activities but to work along with this body to improve the perplexities that now exist between students and the administration. I believe the situation can be improved only by a leader who uses as his chief weapons comprehension and tact. And I believe I am just the man to employ these abilities to their full utility." As to qualifications for office holding, Avent is President of the Junior Class, and President of the Men's Dormitory Council.

Sidney Verbal

In a surprise move Sidney Verbal, Durham art major, announced his contention for the presidential office of the SG. Verbal, relatively unknown in campus politics, hopes to see a split in the votes between Avent and Walker; this he feels will give him a majority between the three. Though of a dim political past, this graduate of Hillside High has established a radical campaign platform. He strongly criticizes past student government administrations and particularly the one now reigning.

For Ethiopian Project

Marion Lynch Called By Peace Corps

Honor student Marian E. Lynch of North Carolina College has been accepted for service in the Peace Corps.

The first NCC student to receive such an appointment, Marian will be assigned to a Peace Corps project in Ethiopia.

She will work in her specialty, home economics, in which she hopes "to be of some service to the people of Ethiopia as well as to my own country."

A native of Enfield, N. C., Marian is a graduate of Eastman High School of that city. She is the oldest of 7 children of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Lynch of Enfield.

The salutatorian of her high school graduating class, she was also active in the New Home Makers of America, journalism, and the Home Economics Club.

At NCC, she is a past president of the Home Economics Club and is active in the House Council, the Social Science Club, the Sunday School, the student newspaper, the NAACP, and the Student Government Association.

She has worked her way through college by serving in the college's dining hall. Marian also received a tuition scholarship in 1961-62.

Her hobbies are reading, sewing, photography, "and meeting people."

Marian expects to teach home economics in Ethiopia, specializing in foods, clothing, and nutrition. She will spend three months in Puerto Rico next summer in training for her overseas assignment.

The North Carolina College coed was informed of her appointment this week by Sargent Shriver, Jr., director of the Peace Corps.

African Exhibition Opens On May 1

An important educational exhibition entitled "TROPICAL AFRICA: An Explosion into the Future," may be seen at the James E. Shepard Memorial Library on May 1 and will continue through May 22. The exhibition is based on a comprehensive survey, seven years in the making, by The Twentieth Century Fund, New York, and is being circulated throughout the United States by the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service.

Designed by Charles Forberg Associates, New York, the exhibition is comprised of photographs and text taken from the two authoritative volumes, Tropical Africa, recently published by the Fund. The author, George H. T. Kimble, who resigned as Director of the American Geographical Society to undertake this study, is now Chairman of the Department of Geography at Indiana University; he drew upon contributions from 46 specialists and scholars and himself visited Africa many times during the course of the project. From it, one is made sharply aware of the 600 different groups of people living in Africa, the diversity of the land and the richness of natural resources, as well as the economic, political and social revolution taking place, a revolution which Westerners can no longer afford to ignore since Africa now occupies a pivotal role in the future of the world. As Kimble has written: "Self-interest—to in-
