

Principals' Conference To Be Held July 29-30

The program for North Carolina College's fifteenth annual Principals-Supervisors Conference, scheduled for Thursday and Friday, July 29-30, will include three addresses, group discussions, an evaluation session, and a social hour. The agenda was released this week by Dr. F. G. Shipman, chairman of the college's Department of Education and chairman of the conference.

Following the theme, "The Impact of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 on School Desegregation," the conference will begin with registration from 12:30 to 2 p.m., Thursday in the foyer of the college's Education Building.

The first of the sessions—all to be held in the auditorium of the building—will begin at 2 p.m. and will feature the keynote speaker, Dr. Tinsley L. Spraggins of the technical assistance branch of the Equal Educational Opportunities Program of the U. S. office of Education, Washington, D. C., who will speak on the conference theme.

Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, Dr. Theodore R. Speigner, chairman of the NCC Department of Geography and a member of the Durham school board, will discuss the topic, "The Role of the Local School Board in the Implementation of the Civil Rights Act."

Following Dr. Speigner's address and a subsequent discussion period will be a social hour in the James E. Shepard Memorial Library.

The final session, scheduled for Friday at 9 a.m., will be addressed by E. B. Palmer, executive secretary of the North Carolina Teachers Association, whose subject will be "Desegregation in the Public Schools of North Carolina: Problems and Prospects."

Palmer will focus on the problem of the displacement of Negro teachers in the state as desegregation advances, Shipman stated.

Assistance Requests Are Running High For 65-66

An estimated 1200 to 1500 applications were expected to be filed in the North Carolina College Dean of Students' office for financial assistance under the National Defense Student Loan Program for the 1965-66 academic year.

According to John L. Stewart, acting dean of students, an estimated 925 students will qualify for and receive aid under the program, which is financed by the federal government (90 percent) and the college (10 percent).

Stewart revealed that $450,000 is available for applicants enrolled during the 1965-66 school year and the 1966 summer school but emphasized that that amount would still not be enough if everyone were given the amount he requested. A problem, therefore, he said, is cutting down—where and how much—and yet distributing the money widely so that students who otherwise could not do so might be able to remain in school.

Mrs. Mae McMillon, secretary of the NDSLSP, indicated that incoming freshmen are being notified of their qualification and all students are expected to be notified by July 31. She pointed out that there has been a noticeable increase in the number of out-of-state applications over last year, especially from New York and New Jersey.

Stewart said, "If students drop out, the loan becomes due (Continued on Page 8)

Summer Echo

North Carolina College at Durham

Volume XI—Number 2

Durham, North Carolina

Friday, July 30, 1965

Miss Pennie Perry Is New Librarian

Miss Pennie Perry, a member of the North Carolina College visiting summer faculty in library science for the past two years, has been named head librarian at the college, succeeding Dr. Benjamin F. Smith, who resigned in June to accept a position with the Anti-Poverty Program in Baltimore, Md.

The announcement was made Monday by President Samuel P. Massie, who indicated that Miss Perry's appointment is effective September 1, 1965.

A native of Wendell, North Carolina, Miss Perry holds the B. S. degree from Shaw University, the M. S. from the University of Michigan, the M.S. in L.S. from Syracuse University, and has completed residence requirements for the Ph.D. in librarianship at the University of Chicago.

In addition to teaching at NCC, she has held visiting posts in library science at South Carolina State College and Florida A & M University. In 1962-63, she served as an assistant reference librarian at the University of Chicago. From 1946 to 1963 she was librarian at the Second Ward High School, Charlotte.

In 1962, Miss Perry became the first school librarian and the first Southerner to receive the E. P. Dutton-John McCrae Award of $1,000. The award has been renewed two times.

259 Earn Spring Semester Honors

Two hundred and fifty-nine North Carolina College students earned places on the college's second semester honor roll, a report released this week by Willie L. Bryant, registrar, revealed.

Earning grades of 2.000 (B) or higher in all courses taken during the semester were 57 freshmen, 38 sophomores, 63 juniors, and 101 seniors.

Fifty-one of the students are on the Dean's List, designated for junior and senior honor students who post cumulative grade-point averages of 2.000 or above for all courses taken at the college.

Sampson Named Dean Of NCC School Of Law

Faculty Members Promoted In Rank

North Carolina College President Samuel P. Massie Saturday announced promotions for four of the college's faculty members.

The changes in rank, approved by the institution's Board of Trustees at its last meeting, are the following: Dr. Cecil L. Patterson, English and acting director of the Summer School, from associate professor to professor; LeMarquis DeJarnon, law, from associate professor to professor; Dr. Bernice Wade, education, from instructor to assistant professor; and Miss Jean K. Norris, English, from instructor to assistant professor.

Geography Major Is Summer Intern

Raymond Johnson, a junior geography major at North Carolina College, is employed this summer as a trainee in the Division of Geography of the United States Department of the Interior, Dr. Theodore R. Speigner, chairman of the college's Department of Geography, indicated recently.

Johnson is the first major in the Department of Geography to be invited to secure work-experience and training in cartography with the Department of the Interior. He was selected during the spring semester by officials of the Association of American Geographers and representatives of the Department of the Interior.

Daniel G. Sampson, professor of Law at North Carolina College, was recently named dean of the School of Law, succeeding Dr. Albert L. Turner, who retired in June after serving 23 years in the position.

The announcement was made following the July 21 meeting of the Board of Trustees at which the board approved

DANIEL G. SAMPSON

President Samuel P. Massie's recommendation of Sampson to the post.

Sampson, who joined the NCC faculty in 1950, is a native of Sumter, S. C. A. graduate of Morehouse College, he earned the M. A. degree at Atlanta University and the LL.B. and LL.M. degrees at Boston University.

A veteran of World War II, he was a staff sergeant in the

(Continued on Page 5)

CHECKING APPLICATIONS—Examining a portion of the applications for financial assistance to study at NCC are John L. Stewart, acting dean of students, Miss Sandra Knuckles, and Mrs. Mae McMillon.

About 925 students are expected to receive loans under the program, sponsored jointly by the college and the federal government.

NATURE LOVER—Much like poet Joyce Kilmer, Barbara Taylor sees "Trees" as objects for admiration, and from beneath the "leafy arms" of one of the many which dot the campus, she scans the scene at NCC. Born in Brooklyn, the junior secretarial science major enjoys swimming, dancing and singing jazz. She plays cornet and works part-time in the circulation and reference department of the college's library.