

Christmas Vacation
December 17 at
1:00 P.M. -
January 3

Campus Echo

1910
TRUTH
SERVICE
NORTH CAROLINA COLLEGE AT DURHAM

North Carolina College at Durham

Patronize
Our Advertisers

Durham, North Carolina, Tuesday, November 29, 1966

Floyd Hayes, III, a native of Los Angeles, California, is being sworn in as vice-president of the North Carolina College Student Government Association by W. P. Malone, chairman of the college's Student Welfare Committee, in ceremonies November 11. Hayes, who won the office in campuswide elections, last spring, is a senior French major and political science minor. An honor roll and Dean's List student at NCC, he plans attending graduate school in international relations and African studies.

Dr. Albert Whiting To Pilot NCC

Dr. Albert N. Whiting, Dean of Faculty at Morgan State College at Baltimore, Maryland, was elected president of North Carolina College recently.

He will assume the $18,000 per-year position next July 1. Whiting will fill the vacancy created early this year when Dr. Samuel P. Massie resigned.

The Campus Echo contacted the Interim Committee on the appointment. They said, "The Interim Committee is very happy that the Board of Trustees has selected a president for North Carolina College. In the selection of Dr. Albert Whiting as president, to become effective July 1, 1967, the Interim Committee feels that the Board of Trustees has selected a nationally recognized educator who is not only familiar with the pressing problems of higher education, but one whose broad interests may be reflected in the accelerated advancement of students, staff, faculty and administration."

Dr. Whiting, 49, becomes the fourth president of North Carolina College.

A native of Jersey City, N. J., he holds the A. B. degree in political science from Amherst College, the M.A. in sociology from Fisk University, and the Ph.D. in sociology and public welfare from the American University. He studied also at Columbia University and the University of Pittsburgh.

From 1939 to 1941 he was instructor of sociology and director of the rural communities study at Bennett College, Greensboro. He served as assistant professor of sociology at Atlanta University from 1948 to 1953. From 1953 to 1957 he was dean of the college and professor of sociology at Morris Brown College, Atlanta.

Joining the Morgan State College faculty in 1957, he served as assistant dean of the college from 1957 to 1959 and was elevated to the deanship in 1959.

Omegas Observe Founders' Day

On Thursday, November 17, 1966, members and pledgees of the Tau Psi Chapter of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity observed the fifty-fifth year of their fraternity's founding.

The speaker for the brief ceremony, which was held around the Omega Sun Dial in the Freshman Bowl, was Dr. Theodore Speigner, chairman of the Geography Department here and a member of the organization. Dr. Speigner praised the foresight and accomplishments of the four founders, Edgar A. Love, Oscar J. Cooper, Frank (See Omegas Observe, Page 3)

Thomas, Hayes Take SGA Oath

McDougald Gymnasium was the setting for the Inauguration of Samuel V. Thomas, the twentieth president of the Student Government, and Floyd Hayes III, the nineteenth vice-president of North Carolina College, on Friday, November eleventh.

The oath of office as president and vice-president was administered by William P. Malone, chairman of the Student Welfare Committee. After the oath, Thomas made a brief acceptance speech.

John Chappell, director of the college's United Christian Ministry, introduced the speaker for the occasion, Milton Mayer. Mayer who is an author, lecturer and world traveler, spoke on the topic Viet Nam and The College Student.

His main points focused upon the survival of a college as it is dependent on the college's having a clear purpose and purposeful laws and rights. Mayer stressed that war is the result of an absence of a common purpose and that communistic and capitalistic states must live together.

Financial Aid Open In Medicine

Ten four-year medical scholarships to qualified Negro men are available beginning in the fall of 1967, as announced by National Medical Fellowships, Inc. and the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation.

To qualify for a National Medical — Sloan Foundation Scholarship, a student must have demonstrated outstanding achievement in college, been accepted for admission by a medical school, and be a U. S. citizen.

Interested Negro college students, who plan to enter medical school in the fall of 1967, may obtain registration cards and other information from the pre-medical advisor, or from the offices of National Medical (See Financial Aid, Page 3)

Samuel Thomas, left, is shown being administered the oath of office as president of the North Carolina College Student Government Association by W. P. Malone, chairman of the college's Student Welfare Committee, in ceremonies November 11. Thomas, who won the office in campuswide elections last spring, is a senior history major and political science minor. A native of Brooklyn, N. Y., he participated last summer in the Harvard-Yale-Columbia Intensive Summer Studies program designed to prepare students from predominantly Negro colleges for law school or graduate work in Ivy League schools.

McLean Receives Miss NCC Crown

November the eleventh was sparked by the coronation ceremonies of Miss Queen McLean, Miss North Carolina College held in the McDougald Gymnasium following the inauguration ceremonies of the Student Government.

The beginning of the program was marked by the invocation by John Chappell, director of the United Campus Ministry, and a musical ensemble presenting "Ava Maria."

Answering the first call-fanfare came the fraternity queens. Dorothy Grier represented the house of Alpha; Fannie Griffin, the house of Kappa, and Helena Huntley, the house of Omega.

The second fanfare by the trumpeteers called for class attendants. The freshmen were represented by Phyllis Johnson; the sophomores, Bessie Beckwith; the juniors, Fern Mathewson; the seniors, Lonina Vance; the off-campus students, Verlia J. Amos.

Two children formed the procession when the third fanfare was played, Theodore D. Thornton as crown bearer and Lisa Fisher as scepter bearer.

The audience then awaited the coronation march. Her majesty—"Miss NCC, Queen Elizabeth McLean answered their desires as she proceeded down the middle of the gymnasium floor with all the queenly paraphernalia. The maids of honor, Betty Harmon, and Evelyn J. Middleton held the queen's elaborate cape as she proceeded to the decorated stage and chair which awaited her. The queen was crowned by William Jones, Chairman of the Interim Committee.

The musical ensemble sang from "My Fair Lady" to entertain the queen. Immediately following this was another entertainment feature which presented La Rue Marks, Doris Jones, Catherine Sims, Sandra Waddell, and Marilyn Williams in a creative dance to "La Strada."

Samuel Thomas, president of (See McLean Receives, Page 6)

Williams Jones, chairman of North Carolina College's interim committee, crowns Miss Queen E. McLean as "Miss North Carolina College" in ceremonies at the college November 11. A native of Red Spring, N. C., Miss McLean is a senior sociology major with a minor in English. Also shown are the queen's maids of honor—Miss Evelyn J. Middleton, left, a senior English major from Tabb, Va., and Betty Harmon, a senior French major from Windsor, N. C. In front are the queen's crown and scepter bearers—Lisa Fisher, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Thornton of Durham.

Yearbook Asks For Cooperation

The yearbook staff is now making plans to take pictures of organizations. The staff must know whether or not organizations want to be represented. Only those organizations registered with the Dean of Students will be eligible to apply.

Each organization will be limited to one page. There will no charge for half of this page and the other half may be purchased for $50. Extra space must be paid for before pictures are taken. No organization indebted to the yearbook will be eligible for representation in the 1967 yearbook until this assessment is paid.

Persons are asked to forward all responses to the yearbook office mail box in the Faculty Pool.