Members of Youth Educational Services (YES), a non-profit student organization involved in setting up volunteer tutoring program on North Carolina campuses, met at North Carolina College on Sunday November 13th for their annual business meeting. The agenda included reports on the past year's activities, discussions of the new directions that the organization might take in the next year and the election of two adult and six student members to the Board of Directors.

Franklin Williams, senior at North Carolina College, was elected to fill one of the student seats on the board. Williams is currently working with the McDougald Terrace tutorial (SPOT) and Operation Break-through.

Other newly elected student board members are: Michael Norris, Davidson College; Sam Reid, Johnson C. Smith University; Julie Taylor, University of North Carolina at Greensboro; Van Jones, A. and T. College, and Paul Dickson, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Y. A. Taylor, North Carolina Department of Public Instruction, was elected to fill a three-year adult vacancy and Dr. Gordon McAndrew, Acting Director of the Learning Institute of North Carolina, was re-elected to fill a one-year seat.

Mrs. Penny Puckett, Assistant to the Director, reported that YES had received grants totalling $201,951 from the Office of Economic Opportunity, the Fund for the Advancement of Education (Ford), the Learning Institute of North Carolina, the North Carolina Fund and the Council of the Southern Mountains.

Michael H. Lawler, Executive Director of YES, told the members about the summer program that YES ran in Charlotte, Greensboro, Boone, Raleigh, Fayetteville, Laurinburg, and Bertie County. During the summer, 43 college students from 17 North Carolina institutions organized and ran tutorial, recreational and enrichment programs for underachieving youngsters. The summer staff members recruited 549 volunteer tutors who worked with close to a thousand children.

Preston Dobbins, Co-ordinator of Community Education, reported on the activities of the field workers who stayed on at the sites of the summer program to work with parents. Dobbins reported that the field workers had been especially successful in working with teenagers, many of whom were now involved in the tutoring program.

Members held discussion groups to debate the future directions of YES. No consensus was reached but the following suggestions were made: 1) YES should represent the student voice in North Carolina, 2) YES should become primarily a professional tutoring organization, 3) YES should take an increasingly active role in community organization. and 4) YES should become an educational reform group.

The note he paused to make as fellow students went ahead to inspect Hatshepsut's Tomb in the Valley of the Kings near Luxor, he used to complete an assignment for his Comparative World Cultures professor.

Russ transferred the 12 units earned during the study-travel semester at sea to his record at the University of California at Irvine where he continues studies toward a teaching career in life sciences.

As you read this, 450 other students have begun the fall semester voyage of discovery with Chapman aboard the s.s. RYNDAM, for which Holland-America Line acts as General Passenger Agents.

In February still another 450 will embark from Los Angeles for the spring 1967 semester, this time bound for the Panama Canal, Venezuela, Brazil, Argentina, Nigeria, Senegal, Morocco, Spain, Portugal, The Netherlands, Denmark, Great Britain and New York.
