An Old Friend Revisited

In the June, 1965, issue of Intercom there was a feature on the hospital laundry. The feature described the new laundry facilities, which were completed last March and which were creating a great deal of interest in institutions across the state.

Much of the success of the new laundry was traced to the efforts of the manager, Mr. Edward T. Parrish, who has been managing hospital laundry operations here at Duke for eight years.

This fall, Mr. Parrish received double-recognition for his capabilities as a laundry manager.

In September, he had the honor of being elected to a two-year term as President of the North Carolina Association of Institutional Laundry Managers at a meeting of the association held at Wilson Memorial Hospital, Wilson, North Carolina.
