96 Students To Receive MD's Sunday

Ninety-six fourth-year medical students will march into Duke's commencement exercises Sunday and march out a short while later as MD's.

The new physicians, 85 men and 11 women, will take the traditional Hippocratic Oath at 11:30 a.m. ceremonies Sunday in Duke Chapel before participating in the University's graduation exercises at 3 p.m. in Cameron Indoor Stadium.

John Elmore Lawrence, Jr., a graduating senior from Raleigh, will present the student address at the Hippocratic Oath ceremony. Following his talk and one by Dr. Thomas D. Kinney, director of medical and allied health education, outstanding members of the class will be awarded prizes in recognition of their achievements.

This year's graduating class includes the first student ever to earn both M. D. and J. D. degrees in Duke's combined doctor-lawyer program. He is John Robert Ball of Auburn, Ala.

Five of the new graduates will receive both their M. D. and Ph. D. degrees Sunday after completion of Duke's medical scientist program begun in the mid-1960's. The "double doctors" include Joseph Michael James Corless of North Bergen, N. J.; Hal Kenneth Hawkins of Bartlesville, Okla.; Charles J. Jaffe of Merion, Pa.; John Daniel Shelburne of Raleigh; and Robert B. Waterbor of Fairless Hills, Pa.

A reception in honor of the graduates and their families will be held tomorrow afternoon on the Duke West Campus quadrangle.
