

Psychiatry Professor Named, Appointed New Unit Director

Dr. Frederick T. Melges, chairman of the Department of Psychiatry at Santa Clara Valley Medical Center in San Jose, Calif., has been named professor of psychiatry at the medical center and director of the new psychiatry unit at Durham County General Hospital.

Announcement of Melges' appointment came from Dr. Frederic N. Cleaveland, university provost.

The 41-year-old physician said he and his administrative staff at Durham County General Hospital already have begun work by screening candidates for nursing and psychiatric attendant positions for the 32-bed unit. The ward will open its first 10 beds in late February or March, he said.

DR. FREDERICK T. MELGES

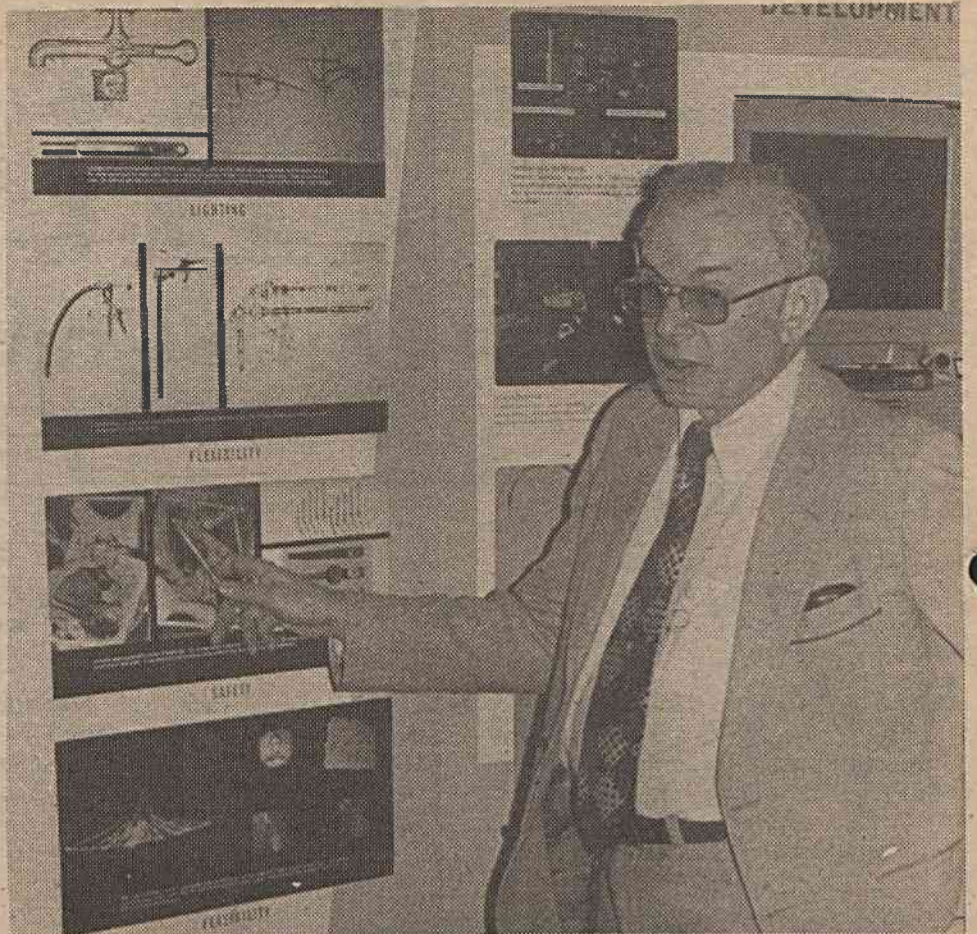

"All admissions to the ward will be voluntary," Melges said. "The central goal of the unit will be to create a therapeutic social environment which will help patients and their families work together to resolve conflicts."

Melges, a 1957 graduate of Princeton University, earned his M.D. from Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1961. After completing a medical internship at the University of Michigan in 1962, he served a psychiatric residency at the University of Rochester School of Medicine.

Since 1967, he has been on the faculty at Stanford University School of Medicine. Santa Clara Valley Medical Center is a Stanford teaching hospital.

Among his research interests are the mechanisms by which mental illness affects time perception and how modification of time perception can be used to treat behavioral disorders.

He also has conducted research on psychiatric problems of women after childbirth, drug models for mental illness and therapies which encourage disturbed patients to choose positive future behavior patterns to regain self control.

THE EVOLUTION OF GASTROSCOPY—"From the Magentratzer to the Laser" is on display now through the end of March in the Seeley G. Mudd Building, under the auspices of the Medical Center Library's History of Medicine office. Shown here is Dr. Martin E. Gordon, associate clinical professor of medicine, Yale University School of Medicine, the producer and coordinator of the exhibit which is sponsored by the American Society for Gastrointestinal Endoscopy and the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology. The exhibit includes a variety of endoscopes of the past and present, as well as examples of future advancements that will use holography, a technique creating three-dimensional images with laser light. Diagrams and videotapes illustrate the history of this field. (Photo by John Becton)

Now Hear This

THE LARGE AND THE SMALL OF IT

Come and see the smallest book in the Perkins Library (it makes a dime seem big), the largest, the oldest, the most valuable, and a host of other rarities on Feb. 20.

Dr. John Sharpe, curator of rare books, will speak on the books for which he is responsible in the second of the "Sunday Afternoons in the Library" series from 4-5 p.m. in the Rare Book Room of Perkins Library.

MAO AND REVOLUTION

Arif Dirlik, assistant professor of history, will speak on "Mao and Revolution" on Wednesday, Feb. 23, as the last of this year's Campus Club Lecture Series.

He will speak at 10 a.m. in the East Duke Music Room. There will be officer-directed parking.

Tickets are $4 and may be purchased at the door.

FOR A LIGHT LUNCH

A new sprig has grown from the Oak Room in the West Campus Union.

Located off the Faculty Dining Room, The Sprig offers soup, salad, breads and a beverage for $1.95. It is open Monday through Friday from 11:30 a.m.-2 p.m.
