

LOOKING BACK

From the Intercom of February 1954

Wedding bells rang recently for: Gertrude Kelley and Harvey Woods, the (housekeeping) department bachelor; Josephine Corigan and Robert Elliott; Thelma Hayes and George Williams; and Lucy Rogers and O.V. Yeargin.

From the Co-Superintendents' Corner: At present, the Hospital is operating under an unbalanced budget. The increase of expenses over income is due to pay increases put into effect last year without a corresponding increase in Hospital rates to patients . . . We are asking everyone to make a conscious effort to avoid waste and to conserve equipment and supplies as he goes about his daily work . . . We know that we can count on your help. (Signed) L.E. Swanson and J.M. Pyne

Dr. and Mrs. Bayard Carter returned late in November after spending three months in England. Dr. Carter was visiting professor at the University of London's Institute of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

From the "Bouquets" column: To Bernice Long, who received a warm tribute from the daughter of a cataract patient. "When another cataract patient needs a nurse, I would like to recommend one of Papa's," writes Miss Louise Gilbert of Statesville. "They were all good, but the kindest and most considerate of all was Bernice Long. She couldn't have treated him better if he had been her own father."

Frances Tate, assistant head nurse on McDowell, has received a gorgeous diamond from John Farrington, UNC medical student. No date has been set . . . Jim Kelly, senior medical student, and Eva Gottschall, X-ray technician, will be married in March.

IBM has come to Duke Hospital to stay. The first use is with the payroll procedure and therefore it is of interest to all Hospital and School of Medicine employees . . . The first spasm has passed, but after we have worked with the system for a few payroll periods the kinks will iron out.

Look What's Going On...

NOW HEAR THIS

President Terry Sanford will be interviewed beginning at 12:37 p.m. Sunday on WPTF radio in Raleigh (680) on the program "Now Hear This."

Sanford will respond to questions on aid to private education.

BREAST CANCER

Peggy Mann of WTVD (Channel 11) reports on the latest methods for breast cancer detection next Thursday at 1 p.m. Featured are interviews with Dr. Robert McLelland, director of the Duke Breast Cancer Detection Demonstration Project, and with Dr. Josephine Newell, project coordinator.

The show is the second in a six-part series on breast cancer involving 10 Duke specialists. For program details, watch the next four issues of Intercom.

OOPS!—A cold drink on the shoulder wouldn't be a very comfortable way to begin lunch. The turnstile was placed at the Cafeteria's exit to prevent collisions like the one demonstrated by Raleigh Price, environmental services, and Lelia Ervin, dietary services. Paul Miller, cafeteria manager, reminds everyone to use the entrance for safety's sake and for quicker, more orderly service. (Photo by Ina Fried)

What's Cooking? New Menu

Would you like something different for lunch? Starting Monday, the days of the same old hot dog and hamburger are gone from the Hospital Cafeteria.

Instead customers will be able to choose from two made-to-order hot sandwiches, cafeteria manager Paul Miller has announced.

In addition, customers may now purchase foods to take home from the regular daily menu from 3:30-7 p.m.

Demise of the 'Scatterburger'

The new hot sandwich menu will include Zesty Meatball Sandwich, Maryland Crab Cake on a Roll, Hot Roast Beef, "Sloppy Joe" Sandwich, and Hearty Carolina Barbeque.

"These sandwiches will all be made fresh to assure you that they are hot and the way you like them," Miller said. "If that doesn't whet your appetite, you might want to try a Chef Salad with your choice of dressing or one of our High-Stack Sandwiches from the Sandwich Block or a bowl of new hot 'n' hearty soup."

Fish and Slaw To Go

Bulk pak and complete meals in special carry-out containers are available in the afternoon.

"As working people we find ourselves with two obligations — one to our families, the other to our jobs. Sometimes our families do without the extras we would like to give them," Miller said.

"Now, you can add hot soup, fresh salads, or desserts to what you have prepared, or you can take home a complete meal," he said.

Gas Shortage?

"The Gas Crisis: Fact or Fantasy" will be considered by the Duke Management Club at its next meeting, Wednesday, March 30.

The featured speaker, Mike Manning, joined the law firm of Fulbright and Jaworski, Washington, D.C., in 1973 and represents clients before the Federal Power Commission in cases dealing with energy.

The meeting will be in the West Union Ballroom, beginning with a cocktail hour at 6 p.m., followed by dinner at 7 p.m.

The slate of officers for 1977-78 will be announced by the nominating committee.

Club members who plan to attend must contact Randi Woodson (684-5804) for a reservation by Monday morning, March 28.
