

2. Hine Named Head Of Educators In Psychiatry

Dr. Frederick R. Hine, professor of psychiatry at the medical center, has been elected president of the Association of Directors of Medical Student Education in Psychiatry.

Established in 1975, the association has about 70 members who are the individuals most directly and primarily responsible for the teaching of medical students in Departments of Psychiatry.

The organization serves as a forum for the exchange of information on educational ideas, programs and teaching materials, and attempts to influence legislation and public policy to insure that psychiatry continues to hold an important place in training for the practice of medicine, Hine said.

Hine, who has served as treasurer since 1975, was installed as president at the group's annual meeting in Chicago.

A graduate of Yale University School of Medicine, Hine has been on the Duke faculty since 1959. He has been head of medical student education in psychiatry since 1962 and was a member of the Committee on Medical Education for the American Psychiatric Association for three years.

THE TEAM AND KICK-OFF TIME—Representatives from throughout the medical center gathered last week to learn more about the United Fund and the 31 community agencies it helps supports as this year's United Fund drive got underway.

U.F. Drive Chairman Sure Duke Can Measure Up

"The true measure of a community is the level below which it will not allow its weakest and its least able to fall."

This anonymous quotation is being used, quite appropriately, as a slogan for this year's United Fund Campaign.

The medical center's drive got underway with a kickoff meeting Wednesday, Sept. 14, in the Courtyard Cafeteria.

Representatives from each pay point were challenged to make the United Fund really work by Dr. William G. Anlyan, vice president for health affairs, who is an active supporter of the fund.

Jeff Mullins, former basketball star at Duke and in the National Basketball Association, was a featured speaker. Now assistant athletic director, Mullins is serving as campus-wide campaign chairman.

"I am very optimistic about reaching our goal when I see the willingness of people in the medical center," he said. "Otherwise, I would have been more skeptical about serving as chairman."

Last year, the medical center contributed the largest portion of about $100,000 raised at Duke.

The entire Durham campaign raised $855,772, and 91.7 per cent of this money went directly to the 31 community agencies the fund supports.

This year, the medical center has a goal of $46,305. The campus-wide goal is $102,000.

Gene Winders, business manager in the Department of Pathology, and Bucky Waters, assistant to the vice president for health affairs, are co-chairing the medical center campaign.
