

DR. WILLIAM BRADFORD

DR. ROBERT HABIG

DR. CRAIG TISHER

Prof. to study in Holland

Dr. W. Doyle Gentry, professor of medical psychology, has accepted an invitation to spend a year as a visiting professor at Catholic University in Nijmegen, Holland, beginning Sept. 1.

He will be working with the university's cardiology and medical psychology departments in setting up a research program on the psychological aspects of coronary heart disease.

He will also conduct seminars on behavioral medicine for medical students and faculty members.

Gentry said he feels particularly honored that Catholic University selected him because it invites only one American scientist as visiting professor each year.

Previous invitations have always gone to scientists working in the clinical areas of medicine and such basic sciences as physiology, anatomy and biochemistry, he said.

"I think their choice of a psychologist reflects their understanding that medicine is changing by becoming more closely linked with the social sciences," he said.

Father's Day may find them volunteering of Merit in 1977. He has been chairman for cubbing in the Mawat-Durham district of the Occonechee Council for the last two years.

(Continued from page 1)

He has two children. His son is active in scouting.

Tisher is a professor of medicine in the Division of Nephrology and an associate professor of pathology.

He has been involved in youth work in Durham for more than six years.

Tisher has been active in Little League fund raising and in basketball and T-baseball coaching.

He is 1980 president-elect for the Y.M.C.A. and is currently 2nd vice-president and chairman of the program committee. He is on the board of directors and also is on the Y.M.C.A. 1980 Capital Funds Campaign Committee. "I think the Y represents the single best example of integration socially, racially and economically," Tisher said. "And that type of organization is important to support."

Tisher said involvement in the Y.M.C.A. helped him "kill two birds with one stone. It involves my children in physical activity and allows me to be with them," he said.

Tisher was the person primarily responsible for the organization of soccer at the Y.M.C.A., a program which now involves more than 400 girls and boys. "I know of no layman in the city of Durham who is more actively involved in working with children and youth than Dr. Tisher," said Rembert Garris, director of the Y.M.C.A.

Tisher has three children, all of whom are involved in Y.M.C.A. activities.

Unit coordinators appointed

Two hospital unit coordinators have been appointed.

Administrative Director Richard H. Peck announced that the new positions have been filled by Edith Rosenblatt and John Dooley, who will coordinate the day-to-day operation of the pediatrics and surgical specialty inpatient units, respectively.

Rosenblatt is a native of Charlotte and a 1966 graduate of Lees-McRae Junior College. She was certified as a medical secretary in 1967, following one year of training at Duke. She has completed additional course work at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Rosenblatt has worked at Duke Hospital for 11 years. She was a staff assistant in the Department of Pediatrics prior to promotion to her present position.

Dooley, a native of Oregon, retired from the U.S. Navy in 1976. He holds an associate degree in business management from the University of Maryland and currently is completing requirements for a B.S. degree at North Carolina Central University.

ROSENBLATT

DOOLEY

Carolina Central University.

Dooley spent most of his naval career in the hospital corps, serving as a hospital administrator during his last eight years of duty.

He was employed by Crum and Forster Insurance Co. of Durham prior to joining the Duke Hospital staff.

A BRIEFING ON THE EQUIPMENT — Chris Jeffs, RN explains the paging system in the radiation therapy area of the Morris Building to staff members. Left to right are Dr. Lowell Miller, division head; Dr. K. T. Noell; Gunilla Bentel, dosimetrist; and Dr. Robert Fishburn. See related pictures on Page 1. (Photo by Parker Herring)

Duke University at a glance

Has anybody ever asked you how many students Duke has?

Or what the tuition is?

Or how many acres in the Duke Forest?

And were you embarrassed if you didn't know?

Well, help is on the way, with answers to those and hundreds of other questions that might come up about this place where you work or study.

The University Office of Publications has produced a small (3x6½-inch) accordion-fold brochure, handy to carry around, called "Duke University at a Glance."

The Office of Publications is soliciting orders now from university departments, and the deadline for ordering is July 7. The folders must be ordered in lots of 100. The cost will be under 10 cents each, but the exact cost will be unknown until the printing volume is established by the orders placed. The larger the printing, the smaller the per-item cost.

Questions about the folder may be directed to Bob Veteto at the Office of Publications, 684-2490.