VOL. III NO. 3

SOUTHEASTERN COMMUNITY COLLEGE

FEBRUARY, 1977

Construction On Campus Growing

Mr. Bob Stanley, business manager of Southeastern Community College, has been busy helping to establish the process of a million dollar plus construction project. New projects are on the way.

The building by the technical building is a multi-purpose building. The building will be used as a shop area for welding and body work. Welding will be moved to this new building. The body shop and sewing classes will be moved on campus when completion of the building is made. This building will give us additional classroom space for Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. On these days classes go on continuously from 8:30 - 11:30; no vacant classes are to be found. Additional vocational and technical courses will be taught in this building. The building also will be used for daytime meetings brought to us from the public. It will also provide a place for workshops that are offered.

The art area in the auditorium has been too small for its demands. The building extension will consist of an art studio and ceramics laboratory.

The deadline for the completion of both buildings is August of 1977.

The new projects that are to be planned are to extend the campus roadways, put up more street lights, develop a water loop on campus, and also a parking lot extension.

Special Services Gives Dinner

The Special Service staff extended their congratulations to fourteen very deserving students by giving them a dinner at the Chadbourn Motel Restaurant, Chadbourn, North Carolina, on Wednesday night January 26, 1977.

These fourteen students made either the dean's list or honor roll for fall quarter 1976-1977.

The members of Special Service who received the dinner asked the Rams's Horn to thank the staff director, Harold McMillian, and the counselors: Brenda Ebron, Judy Sarvis, and Robert Brooks (who played comedian of the night), for such a wonderful treat.

The students who made the dean's list and honor list were: Peggy LeSane, Ammie McKellar, Patricia Piggott, Wanda Grissett, Marjorie Jacobs, Helen Johnson, Joel Jones, Debra McCrae, Audrey Maultsby, Steve Purvis, Joyce Rouse, Clara Washington, Annie Williams and Jo-Ann Munn. Some of the students did not make it to the dinner. We must say to you that you missed a great evening.

The Special Services offers free tutoring to students, career information, transfer information, and also trips for entertainment.

RSL Hosts Conference

RSL hosted to a national conference held in Washington, D.C. on December 8 through 10. Persons on the staff attending were as follows: Mrs. Thelma Barnes, Mrs. Brenda Carter, Mrs. Winnie Cooke, and Dr. Vern Marlin. Dr. Dan Moore, Dean of Student Development, was also present.

SCC is one out of ten colleges chosen to participate in this program. Identified by the Fund for the Improvement of Post-secondary Education, SCC welcomes the open-door program. Representatives of nine other colleges also hosted Alternatives to the Revolving Door: A National Conference on Exemplary Programs for Underprepared Students.

There were thirty different workshops and panel discussions that carried over a period of three days. The sole purpose of this workshop was to find ways to prepare the unprepared. Some of the sessions included such things as: evaluation of special programs and their components; how to win local, state, and federal support for this program; and designing programs for the underprepared student.

In addition to the workshops conducted by other National Project II Associates were presentations by such nationally known persons as Dr. K. Patricia Cross, author of Beyond the Open Door: New Students to Higher Education; Dr. Samuel Ball, co-author of the Encyclopedia of Educational Evaluation; Dr. William Birenbaum, President of Antioch College; the Honorable Shirley Chisholm, U.S. House of Representatives; and Dr. Edward Aquirre, U.S. Commissioner of Education.

National Guard To Have Helicopter Display At SCC

The North Carolina National Guard sponsored a static display of a UH-1 helicopter on the Southeastern Community College campus on Monday, February 7, 1977. The purpose of this display was for recruiting and retention in the Guard. There were recruiters from the Whiteville unit and also from Raleigh. CW2 Terry Blackman and CW2 Carl Reaves were on hand along with a flight engineer to answer any questions about the aircraft, maintenance, or support areas. Many persons interested in joining the National Guard or those curious to see the cockpit of a "Huey" stopped by and had a look during their free time. The aircraft was parked in front of the main building for several hours.
