

On the Hill

Misses Victoria Adams and Bertha Paschal spent Sunday in Gibsonville, where Miss Adams delivered an address at the morning service at the Presbyterian Church.

Misses Mabel Cheek and Lelia Walker spent Sunday at their homes in Graham.

Misses Hallie McPherson, Annie Cooper, Ola Perkins, Margaret and Louise Homewood spent the week-end at their homes in and near Burlington.

Mr. Holt Hunter spent the week-end in Greensboro with relatives.

Misses Ruth Lloyd and Jennie Gunter visited relatives in Greensboro the past week-end.

Misses Maude Kendrick, Lula Overton and Annie Misenhammer spent the week-end at Whitsett with Miss Gladys Taylor.

Miss Mildred Spainhour had as her guest Sunday, her brother, Mr. Mack Spainhour, of Summerfield.

Mr. J. D. Hardy, of the class of '19, now a student at Western Maryland College, spent the week-end on the Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Garrett and little daughter, Vista, of the M. P. Children's Home, at High Point, spent Sunday afternoon here with friends.

Miss Maude Sharpe spent the week-end at her home, near Burlington.

Misses Janice Fulgham and Deloris Morrow spent the week-end at the home of the latter, at Burlington.

Miss Sara Carter spent the week-end at her home in Henderson.

Messrs. Watson Garrison and C. L. Walker spent the week-end at their home, near Burlington.

Mr. O. C. Johnson spent the week-end at his home, near Durham.

Messrs. O. C. Johnson and William T. Scott spent Friday in Greensboro on business.

Mr. W. W. Woody was called home Monday by the death of his mother. Mrs. Woody had been seriously ill for some time, and was not expected to live. Mr. Woody left Elon Monday for his home, near Siler City.

The hearts of the students go out in sympathy in this great bereavement of their fellow. Mr. Woody, in the few weeks that he has been with us, has won for himself a place in the college life. It is earnestly hoped that he may resume his work here.

PROCTER COMPANY.

In presenting Mr. Harold Procter, the eminent Irish tenor, and supporting artists, Miss May Rees, violinist, and Miss Fleta Lawrance, pianist, the Redpath Bureau predicts that every community which enjoys an artist trio of extraordinary attainments, acknowledged ability and superior accomplishments, will find this company meeting or surpassing every expectation.

Mr. Harold Procter has sung throughout the British Isles, singing in concert and oratorio under such men as Hans Richter, Gaul and other great English composers and conductors and in company with the leading singers of England. He later traveled throughout the United States in companies headed by Kitty Gordon, Fritz Scheff and Charlotte Greenwood. For two years he was tenor soloist at the Temple Baptist church, Los Angeles, the largest church west of the Mississippi.

Miss May Rees is of Welsh descent, coming from a noted musical family. She has studied with the masters of both America and Europe.

Miss Fleta Lawrance is well equipped by nature and training for the important place she has in the program of the Procter Company. As an accompanist, she is dominated by that fine spirit of understanding and sympathy so necessary as the background of an artist. As a pianist she displays in her solo numbers a power and technique which insures for her a future of unusual brilliancy.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

"Our Church Privileges and Obligations."

The Psalmist has a very high opinion and a sincere desire to attend the services in the Lord's house. He prefers to be the sexton in God's house rather than dwell in the luxury and ease of the wicked. Are we zealous to worship in the house of God every time the opportunity is ours? Are we not more interested in hearing the dinner bell than the tolling of the bell for the hour of worship? It should be our purpose to attend the Lord's services that our souls should receive the heavenly and spiritual food which is even more essential than the material food. Indeed in this life we should not neglect either foods for both are essential elements to real service for the Master.

Being a Christian involves certain obligations unto Christ, but why not enter into the performance of these duties with a spirit of an anxious loving service to the extent that everything we do for the Master will be a most joyous privilege.

The honest, sincere heart desires, yea, longs for sweet communion and fellowship with God. But oftentimes our flesh desires to be away from the church and engaged in some social event. Can we expect the Master to strengthen and bless us when we put our own selfish interests first? Can we ever hope to scale the heights of Christian experience, enjoy the sweet association with Jesus Christ, if we seek first the satisfying things of this world? May it be the prayer of each student of Elon's Christian Endeavor that he or she may receive a larger conception of the privileges of being an humble and useful servant of the lowly Nazarene, who said, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things will be added."

Miss Chiyo Ito, our Japanese student, rendered a vocal solo at the First Christian Church, Burlington, last Sunday evening.
