Wake Forest, 48; Guilford, 6.

Wake Forest, 27; Elon, 0.

Say, who's gonna win that Guilford game?

With even breaks, we would still have lost the Wake Forest game. But the score would have been 14 to 21. We have used up all the bad luck that's coming to us this season. In our next three games Elon will come out victorious.

All aboard for Trinity! Big show starts about 4:00 p. m.
Make your reservations early.
Special coach on train 144 for Elon students.

According to a Trinity student, the Trinity team has picked out teams that they are sure of beating for their first year's football schedule. How about it, old team? Let's upset the dope this time. What do you say?

Fall in line! Sign up! That special train to Greensboro for the Guilford game must be secured. We did it last year, when we were due to lose, and the old team held the opposition to a single touchdown. This year we are due to win. So let's all go with the team, on our special train, and urge them on to victory.

And When Thanksgiving Day rolls around, we want the entire student body on the hill for the concluding game of the season, with Atlantic Christian College, to be played at home.

Rev. R. O. Smith spent the week-end at his home in Kemp's Mill.

BEAT GUILFORD COLLEGE.

Just about the biggest bit of old gridiron lore that Elonites have in store this year is the game with Guilford on Saturday, November 20. That every student here would rather win that game than to eat or sleep is evidenced by the prevailing spirit. On all sides can be heard, "Beat up Guilford." And Beat Guilford We Must.

"Beat up Guilford." Of course we want to do it. And we hope to do it. But one thing must be remembered. Guilford is just as anxious to win as we are. They are not only going to put a worthy team on the field to oppose ours, but everyone connected with Guilford College is going to that game determined to win it or "bust." Let's let 'em Bust.

They are laying in wait for us and it will be necessary to exert every ounce of strength we can put forth, both as a team and as a student body. "Beat up Guil-
Can.

Don't be over-confident. The game will be no cinch. No one realizes this better than the team itself. Instead, bend all your energies toward letting our team know you are behind it. When we do this, that old pigskin will wal-low around Guilford's goal like a pet pig around his favorite mud-hole.

Rah! Rah! Beat Up Guilford.
We Must. We Can. We Will.
Guilford est de lenda!

IS REMINISCENCE A SIN?

The only joys I'd live again, Are the joys of long ago.
The only pains I'd live again,
Are the pains in days of yore.

Oh the balmy days,
Oh the palmy days,
Oh the days of youth!

Oh the dashing days,
Oh the slashing days,
Oh the days of youth!

ELON PHYSICIANS.

The first alumnus of the college to enter the medical profession was Dr. W. H. Boone, Durham, N. C. Dr. Boone has achieved a large distinction in his profession.
He began as a general practitioner, but his practice became so heavy that he soon confined himself to office work and later to office work for the eye, ear, nose and throat. Dr. Boone graduated in the class of '94 and is now a trustee of the college.

The next doctor of medicine belonged to the class of '96. Dr. J.
E. Rawles is also a member of the board of trustees. He is senior surgeon of the Lakeview Hospital, Suffolk, Va., and confines his practice to surgery in the hospital only. Dr. Rawles is owner of the Hospital, together with his brother, Dr. D. L.
Rawles, also an Elon man, and Dr. D. L. Harrell.

Dr. C. M. Walters, '04, Burlington, N. C., worked his way through College and through the University of North Carolina. He began to practice at Union Ridge.
During the first "flu" epidemic, he overworked himself. He then moved to Burlington, where he is popular and successful.

The next doctor is a woman, Dr. Anna Irene Helfenstein, '06, Koekuk, Iowa. She practices medicine in the social service way, i. e., not as a means of livelihood, but for the service she can render.

Dr. J. C. Wilkins, '07, Haw River, N. C., is really a community servant in more ways than professionally. His wife, nee Miss Bessie Gilliam, also an Elon student, died February 8, 1920. She left an only child, Bessie Beatrice, born February 28, 1918.

Dr. A. Liggett Lincoln, '10, of 163 East 36th street, New York City, has the distinction of being two doctors. That is to say, he married a doctor, Miss Edith Maas. Dr. Liggett served as captain in the A. E. F. They are both practicing physicians in New York City now.

Dr. J. S. Lincoln, '11, of New York Hospital, New York City, also served as captain in the A. E.
F., and distinguished himself for his endurance and bravery in action. He now holds a rare hospital appointment.

Dr. G. G. Holland, '14, Holland, Va., has recently graduated from the Medical College of Virginia, and entered upon his practice as partner of his distinguished father.

Dr. F. M. Aycock, '15, 400 North Tenth street, Richmond, Va., has recently graduated in medicine.
He is in love with his profession and will achieve a good success.

R. A. Wilkins, '18, and H. T.
Floyd, '19, are medical students now in Baltimore, in the University of Maryland and Johns Hopkins Medical College respectively.

This list does not include the Elon men who have entered medicine as a profession, taking up their medical studies before receiving their college degrees.
That list would be too long for publication here. Elon is proud of her medical alumni, every one of whom is active in Christian work.

DR. J. O. ATKINSON ADDRESSES THE STUDENT VOLUNTEERS

With 25 persons present the Student Volunteer band heard Dr.
J. O. Atkinson on November 9.
As is always the case Dr. Atkinson's speech was a very inspiring one.

"No service can be enjoyed unless it is sealed with sacrifice," he declared. He spoke of the marvelous awakening to the need of missions in the Church, and told of a young man who wanted to go into the foreign field some years ago, but could not because there was no money in the treasury.
"We have money enough now to send you," he told the volunteers.

The speaker then turned to missionary books which was his real subject, and suggested Robert E.
Speer's "Servants of the King," and "Some Leaders in the World Movement" as fine books which every volunteer should read.

He mentioned "Fifty Missionary Heroes and Heroines." "I want you to read some such books as 'Anne of Ava,' and 'Under Marching Orders,'" he said. "You can't touch life at its sweetest and best unless you read books like this," Dr. Atkinson went on.
"What a pity that we don't have more missionary fiends!" he exclaimed.

"The world is calling for Christian workers. We have the money, but where are the men?" He suggested that the band attempt to put some real missionary books in the library. "I want you to read a real hero book."

After assuring the band of his prayers, he declared, "You can't know life at its sweetest and best except through sacrificial service."

The Student Volunteers are down at work prayerfully and earnestly. Misses Adams, Burgess, Massey, and Lilly will lead at the next four respective meetings. Everybody is invited to attend.
