ELON COLLEGE, N. C., SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1943

NUMBER FOUR

Religious Emphasis Week To Be Observed November 8-12

Co-Eds Celebrate Annual Sadie Hawkins Day Today

Party To Climax Sadie Hawkins Day Festivities

On Saturday afternoon, November 6, those "Daisy-Mae" co-eds of Elon will start the annual chase, characteristic of Sadie Hawkins' Day. With the scarcity of men, the events this year will prove even more fruitful than in previous similar occasions.

A most appealing and entertaining program has been planned for the affair. To start things off, Lil' Abner's will make a dash for it, with those Daisy Mae's close behind. When all those of the fairer sex have subdued those long-legged swift, handsome victims, then the excitement really begins.

Now the more sporty side of the afternoon takes its turn in the form of a softball game, boys vs. girls. Of course, everyone knows the girls will win. Then the real thriller comes about supper time, when everyone gets together for a good old campus picnic, after which, there's going to be one of those "Oh, what a wonderful night" parties up there in Society Hall.

Of course, along with all great entertainment, an award of merit is usually presented. So, never to be outdone, the Elonites have planned to select from the many competitors the homeliest faculty couple on the campus.

So let's everybody be out there to join in on the fun and the run.

FALL VACATION DATES ANNOUNCED

According to an announcement by Dean Messick the fall quarter will end at noon on November 24. At that time students will be dismissed for their fall holidays which will last through November 28. The winter quarter will begin November 29.

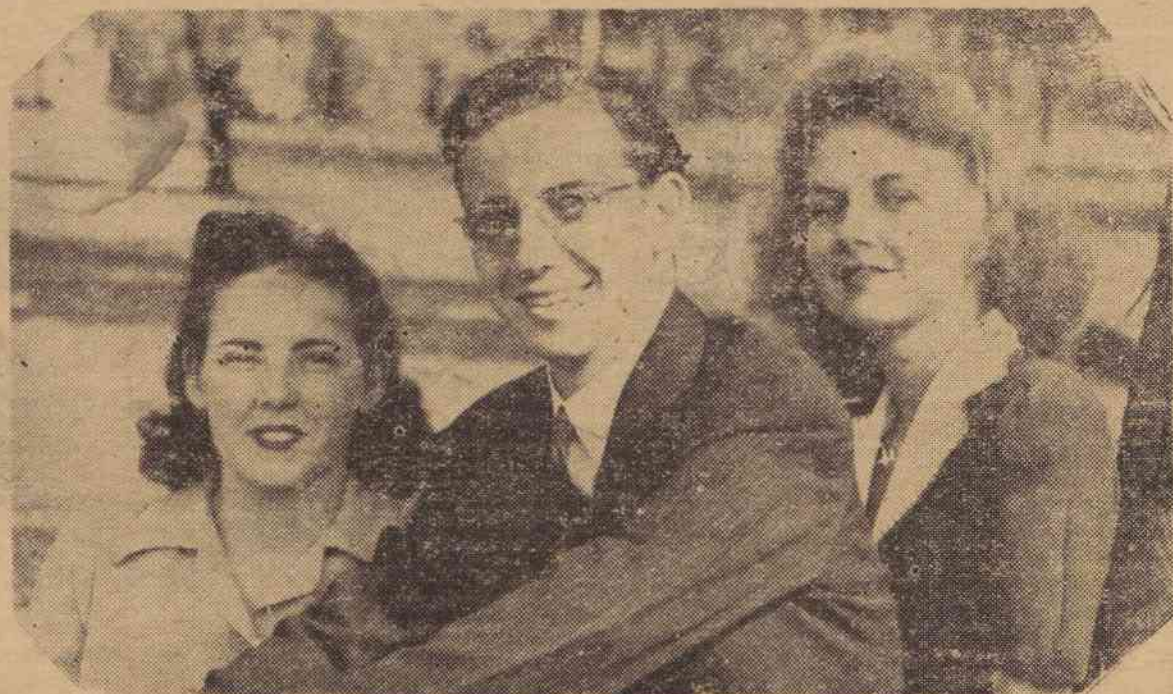

It is called to the attention of the seniors that the subjects for the senior essays were due on October 13. The first draft of the essay or the comprehensive completed is due by December 1.

The college will close December 15 at noon for Christmas holidays. This vacation period will continue through January 3, and classes will be resumed at 8:00 on January 4.

Shown above is Dr. Roscoe Stinertorf, who has been elected head of the Department of Mathematics at Elon. Dr. Stinertorf holds his A. B. degree from Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana, and the M. S. and Ph. D. Degrees from the University of Pennsylvania, in Philadelphia. He has taught in a boy's secondary school, Ram Alla, Palestine, Southern Union College, Wadley, Alabama; Lander College, Greenwood, S. C.; and Bates College, Lewiston, Maine.

Phi Psi Cli Staff

Jackson And Taylor Crowned King, Queen

The Elon College Society Hall held an atmosphere of royalty Friday night, October 29, as Maxine Jackson and Wayne Taylor were crowned Queen and King of the Freshman class at the annual Sophomore-Freshman Reception. The King and Queen were chosen by the non-commissioned officers stationed here with the 325th CTD of the college.

Gene Poe, president of the Sophomore class, was in charge of the program. Immediately after Edward Butler, president of the Student Body, had crowned Miss Jackson, she was presented with an arm bouquet of flowers by Helen Newsome on behalf of the Sophomore class.

The two most ideal couples were also chosen. They were Joe Franks and Henrietta Yoder for the college students, and Mary Turner and A-S Karl Kuckerman for air cadets and dates.

Other events of the evening included dancing and a grand march led by the ideal couples under the direction of Mary Ellen McCants and her escort, A-S C. C. Sanders.

The refreshments consisted of punch and cookies served by the members of the Sophomore class.

Chaperones for the reception were Dean Messick, Dr. and Mrs. French, Miss Bussel and John Westmoreland.

STINERTORF TO HEAD MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT

According to an announcement by President L. E. Smith, Dr. Roscoe Stinertorf has been elected head of the Department of Mathematics at Elon, and will begin work November 29, at the opening of the winter quarter.

Dr. Stinertorf was born in Rockford, Illinois, but has spent a part of his life in the South. He holds his A. B. Degree from Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana, and the M. S. and Ph. D. Degrees from the University of Pennsylvania, in Philadelphia. He has taught in a boy's secondary school, Ram Alla, Palestine, Southern Union College, Wadley, Alabama; Lander College, Greenwood, S. C.; and Bates College, Lewiston, Maine.

Dr. Stinertorf has done a considerable amount of lecturing. He has also traveled in the Near East and can speak German readily. He will be an asset to the college and the students are looking forward to his arrival.

Elliott, Violinist, To Initiate Concert Series

A concert course of four musical attractions has been provided by Elon College this fall in lieu of the course formerly sponsored by the Burlington-Elon College Cooperative Concert Association. All college students who take care of their fees at the Business Office, as well as holders of last year's season tickets for this Cooperative Concert Course, will be admitted free.

Robert Elliott, 20-year-old violinist accompanied by Charles Graneville, will open the concert series Monday evening, November 15, at 8 o'clock in Whitley Auditorium.

Mr. Elliott is an American-born violinist and has appeared as soloist with the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra. Karl Krueger, internationally known conductor, says of Mr. Elliott: "Robert Elliott is a young artist of undoubted gifts. I am sure he will go far."

Other numbers to be included will bring Franz Bodfors, pianist, Maria Husa, soprano, and the Serenadaires Male Quartette. All music students will be required to attend these musical attractions.

Season tickets for the four attractions will be on sale for $2. Single admission to any of these concerts will be $1.

REHEARSALS FOR MESSIAH COMMENCE

The date for the Christmas Vespers has been set for Sunday evening, December 12, at which time the Christmas portions of Handel's "The Messiah" will be presented. Carols of different nationalities will also be sung by the women's chorus on the same program. Rehearsals of the Christmas music will be held on Tuesday and Thursday nights. As a large choral group is needed for a successful rendition of "The Messiah," it is hoped that college students as well as townspeople will avail themselves of the opportunity of singing in this oratorio.

Darden And Rippy Commissioned Ensigns

James Darden and William Rippy, both of the class of '43 at Elon, have completed training at the Northwestern Naval School in Chicago, and have received commissions.

The United States Navy has a system second to none for thoroughness and the Chicago unit has a reputation for excellence. There is no time wasted in the daily program of its 2200 midshipmen. Navigation, gunnery, seamanship and all necessary related subjects are being given to the trainees double-time and according to the strict code and traditions of the service.

Add two more to the long list of Elon's men who are now in active service and upholding the name of our college and the traditions of the army and navy.

Darden's home is in Suffolk, Virginia. He expects to continue training at Norfolk, and to be put into the amphibian speed-boat troop-landing operations.

Rippy is from Gibsonville. He will probably be on East Coast service, but we have no exact information on this, and all report of this nature is unconfirmed and subject to orders which may change at any time.

BARTLEY AND LeVAN PRESENT PIANO RECITAL

Received with great interest and appreciation, the duo-piano recital given by Miss Lila LeVan and Professor Bartley, members of the Elon music faculty, was an outstanding event of Wednesday night, November 3.

The recital was composed of three groups of varied selections. Grieg's Concerto in A Minor was well rendered by Professor Bartley with Miss LeVan playing the orchestral parts on the second piano. The Dance Macabre, by Saint-Saens, was truly representative of the atmosphere of a weird and ghostly night, and was made even more effective by the use of additional sound effects. The crowing of the cock in the distance made the audience feel that morning had arrived.

Following the recital, a reception was given in the parlor of West Dormitory, at which time guests extended compliments to the artists. Refreshing hot tea and cookies were served by Dean Kraft, Miss Whittington, head of the voice department and by several of the music students.

Dr. John G. Truitt Will Conduct Services Monday Through Friday

Jeffreys To Edit College Yearbook

Virginia Jeffreys, class of '44, has been approved by the Publications Board to fill the office of editor of the Phi Psi Cli, college yearbook. This position was left vacant by the resignation of Charlotte Husted. Qualifications considered by the Board were ability, experience, scholarship, and character.

Before selecting an editor, a group of seniors met with Dr. Smith to discuss the advisability of publishing a yearbook this year with conditions as they are. It was decided the college should have an annual even though the shortage of materials and high costs might prevent its being up to the usual size and standards of previous years. Because of the rise in prices students will be asked to pay one dollar over their activity fee in order to help defray the cost.

Other members of the staff are Gene Poe, business manager; Elizabeth Holland, assistant editor; Rachael Crowell, editorial assistant; Charlotte Husted, copy editor; Mr. Charles McClure will serve as adviser.

Though the staff has a late start, it has begun contacting the various photographers and hopes to be able to take the pictures in the near future.

N. C. COLLEGE CONFERENCE DISCUSSES POST-WAR EDUCATION FOR SERVICE MEN

Dean J. D. Messick, Professor A. L. Hook, and George D. Colclough attended the North Carolina College Conference held in Greensboro November 3 and 4. The most important question before the conference dealt with post-war education.

The most interesting issue discussed by the group in relation to the main issue, according to Dean Messick, concerned the service men after the war who wish to pick up their education where they left off. The representative of the United States Office of Education was present to discuss proposed measures before Congress relating to these men.

It has not yet been determined whether all established colleges will be accredited as instructional units nor how the number will be selected or financed. Something definite is to be done in the near future. It is thought that approximately 2,000,000 men will want to benefit from either the short or long courses immediately after the war.

The general opinion seems to be that the service man will be able to go where he elects and that the government will defray the expenses. There is no assurance yet as to just what plan will be formulated and followed.

MESSICK TO ATTEND EDUCATION CONFERENCE IN WINSTON-SALEM

The Western North Carolina Education Association will hold its annual meeting in Winston-Salem Monday evening and Tuesday, November 8 and 9. J. D. Messick will participate in the conference. Dean Messick is head of the Education department at Elon and is also a member of the North Carolina Education Association and the National Education Association.

Religious Emphasis week will be observed on the Elon campus November 8 through November 12. Services during the week will be conducted in Whitley Memorial Auditorium by Dr. John G. Truitt of Suffolk, Virginia. Dr. Truitt graduated from Elon with the class of '17 and then went Princeton University for his theological training.

The week will begin with Dr. Truitt speaking at the regular chapel service November 8. He will conduct a service at 12:00 Monday through Friday in the chapel. There will also be a short service each night from 7:15 to 8:00 in the auditorium which the students are urged to attend. The Junior choir will sing thirty minutes each evening before the regular service at 7:15. Everyone is invited to attend the services, both morning and evening.

One week each year is set aside as religious week on the campus. The program has as its purpose the deepening of spiritual life of all and particularly for those who are not professing Christians. The services were worked out through the efforts of Dr. Smith and are under the auspices of the community church.

Dr. Truitt will be available for conferences with students any time during the week. Any students who have problems they wish to discuss with him should make appointments with him for a conference.

The Student Christian Service will conduct Morning Watch each morning during the week from 7:15 to 7:30 in Whitley. The service will be carried out by members of the organization. The Religious Emphasis Week will come to its close at the regular church service on Sunday, November 14. With world conditions in the state they are, it is well to take time out to consider the spiritual side of the campus life, and it is hoped that the meetings will be successful and well received.

Shown above is Dr. John G. Truitt of Suffolk, Virginia, who will conduct the services during Religious Emphasis Week on the Elon campus. Dr. Truitt is a graduate of Elon and the Princeton Theological Seminary.
