

FINE ARTS EXHIBIT

MAY 20-21

MISS DALE HENSLEY

Annual exhibit of the Fine Arts Department of Elon College in the arts' rooms of Alamance Hall on May 20-21 will feature the paintings of Miss Dale Hensley, a resident of this community.

The showing on Tuesday, May 20, will be by invitation, it was announced today by Miss Lila Newman, director of the department. On Tuesday evening and on Wednesday, the gallery will be open to the public.

The studio's open house will also include a showing of work by all members of the department.

Miss Hensley's exhibit will consist of oils, water-colors, pastels, charcoal sketches, tapestries, and china. The artist is herself prominent in student affairs, being a member of Pi Kappa Tau and president of three organizations: the Fine Arts Club, the Day Students, and the Players Club.

Day Student Sketch-Book

Well, it seems like this will be the last time that I'll have the opportunity of writing this chit-chat for you, and it has been nice—at times. No kidding all of us dignified seniors will miss being around, but I can't say that I'm really sorry, and you most likely can't either. There is always someone to take one's place, but here's hoping that you won't forget us, entirely. Some of the folks that you won't be seeing around this year (or we hope that you won't) are Helen Cobb, Catherine Cooper, Lois Casey, Tom Hoffman, Pat Hook, Jimmy Westmoreland, Anne Strader, Leon Hinton, Mac Welch, Martha Franks, and Anne "Hubba Hubba" Pfisterer. There are probably many others, but the brain, which I'm supposed to have, just won't function anymore.

She isn't a senior, but she doesn't plan to be back next year, and I can think of no one who deserves orchids more than Kathy Young, Alabama's gift to Elon for the past three years. Kathy is one of the best all-around girls ever.

While at Elon she has been active in many things, such as president of Elon Players for the past two years, and sub-director of the Delta Psi Omega. She has been one of the most outstanding persons in the Dramatics Department and was the winner of the award for the best actress last year, vice president of the Art Club and lab instructor; treasurer of the PhiPsiChi and Maroon and Gold staffs, and a member of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." Her likes include football, dancing, tennis, and GOOD MANNERS. To you, Kathy, here's wishing you the best of everything (including "Ken"), because if anyone ever deserved it, you do!

L'il Polly Qualls is really busy these days; it keeps her busy going from Burlington to Wake Forest and Carolina to dances.

If you want to hear a "Tall Tale" about the trip to the science meeting, see Jimmy Westmoreland. Be sure he doesn't leave out the part about the corn cob pipe and the cigar.

Just because we aren't around, do not forget us, because we'll remember you.

Bye, DALE.

ABOVE: Miss Lucille Morgan, pianist of Hampton, Virginia, will give her Senior Graduation Recital in Whitley Auditorium, Sunday evening, May 18, at 8:30. Miss Morgan is an active member of the Tau Zeta Phi sorority and of Pi Gamma Mu Social Science Fraternity. She has been a member of the Elon Singers for the past four years and served as president in her junior year.

BELOW: Miss Violet Blackmon, pianist of Four Oaks, N. C., gave her Senior Graduation Recital on Sunday afternoon, in Whitley Memorial Auditorium. She was president of the Elon Singers this year, and in the Student Musician's contest Miss Blackmon won second place in the state, in the vocal division.

SENIOR COMPREHENSIVES

Comprehensives in major fields have occupied the attention of many seniors for the past few weeks. As a tip to other students, the Maroon and Gold will next fall quarter carry announcement of a faculty ruling which places Elon in accord with practice at all major universities and colleges: namely, hereafter all papers will be subject to review as to proficiency in composition, and students who fall below college proficiency level will be required to do remedial work in English usage.

WAYNE MOORE SOLOIST IN MUSIC FEDERATION

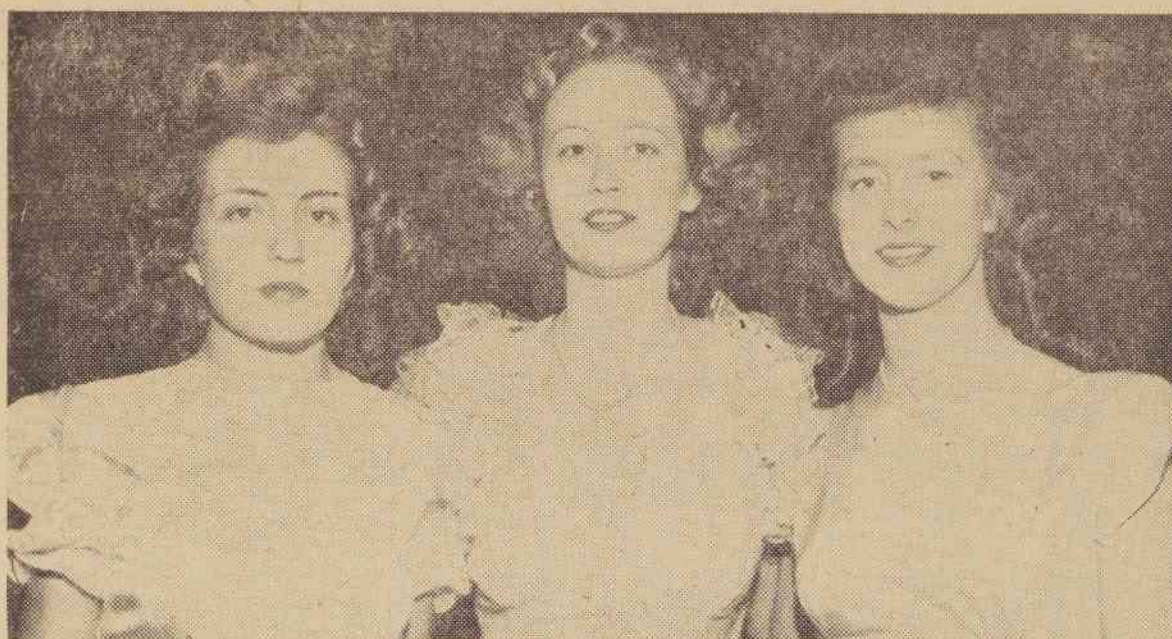

Wayne Moore, music major and member of the sophomore class, appeared before the state convention of the Federation of Music Clubs as organ soloist last Wednesday evening. His numbers included works by Bach, Karg-Elert and Widor. This particular program, held in the First Baptist Church in Gastonia, was given over to performances by college students of North Carolina. Other colleges represented were High Point, Lenoir-Rhyne and W.C.T.C.

CONNIE COMPLIMENTS

One of the most interesting personalities around here is Bill Duncan, Elon's photographer, who is definitely an asset to the college.

Mr. Duncan works quietly, patiently, and efficiently in the manner of a man who is confident of his ability. He was born in Bellrose, Long Island, New York, and moved here in 1941. His interest in the business began as a hobby, and did not develop into anything serious until he joined the army, where he did military photography and gained experience.

His schooling includes the New York Institute of Photography, Blue Ridge College in Maryland, and Elon where he took two courses in photography, and is now a staff photographer in charge of the college studio for Maroon and Gold and the News Bureau.

After graduation from the New York Institute of Photography, Mr. Duncan was an instructor of photography there. Upon his release from the army, he did commercial work for the office of Scientific Research and Development, which is managed by Columbia University. When he was in New York he obtained a position with Look Magazine in the daytime, and at night attended photography school. Proof of his ability lies in awards won in professional state and national photographer's competition.

Mr. Duncan's residence, since January, has been Elon's Veteran's Village, where he lives with his lovely wife, the former Ruby Wright, a graduate of Elon. They have a daughter eighteen months old who has proved herself an apt model for the man behind the camera.

Mr. Duncan's plans for the future are not definite, but he will probably go into the field of advertising illustration.

CONNIE CONTEMPLATES:

We've been reading a lot lately about a certain well-publicized crooner and his antics. For some strange reason, this crooner had his orillard dropped by his sponsor, P. Lorillard, who manufactures a product which is habit-forming. Now we read further, that the reason for dropping his option is that his program is not bringing enough profit. So the little star begins to fall.

DEAR DIARY:

It is practically summer now, and time to say goodbyes—for us, it is goodbye for a little while to the ROYAL FAMILY: King Cosmic, Queen Consort Compere, Little Prince Philpot, and Little Princess Penelope. But we'll be back again for another year to keep the Prince out of Cosmic's garden and to dry the tears of sensitive little Penelope.

CONNIE.

MAROON AND GOLD RECEIVES AWARD

To the wartime staff of the Maroon and Gold, the present staff forwards the compliments of the United States Navy for services rendered to naval personnel during the war.

In a recent ceremony at the Naval Reserve Headquarters in Greensboro, N. C., the commanding officer presented a certificate of merit to the editor, which reads as follows:

"United States Navy Bureau of Naval Personnel takes pleasure in presenting this certificate of achievement to the Elon College Newspaper in grateful recognition of outstanding services to the naval personnel during World War Two."

The Maroon and Gold, according to the Naval authorities, was well represented overseas, and did much to keep the boys over there informed of the home front and the current standing of the school in sports and other fields.

TO GIVE RECITALS

The Elon College Music Department winds up the year with the following recitals, to be presented in Whitley Auditorium Sunday afternoon at 4:00: Miss Dorothy Shepherd, soprano, at 8:30, Miss Lucille Morgan, pianist; on Monday evening at 8:30, Wayne Moore, Miss Mary E. Browning, and Miss Elaine Pace, pianists, and Miss Mary Louise Little, contralto.
