

Elon Scuttles Pirates 33 To 7 In Grid Game

to the Pirate twenty-eight, and Grayson passed to Hal Johnson for a first down on the fifteen. Three plays later Pete Marshburn lateralled to Grayson, who romped over standing up for another score. The placement was wide, but Elon led 13 to 7.

Two long passes, from Biangardi to Gentry and from Barger to Biangardi (carried to the E.C.T.C. seventeen, and Bill Barger, the "Burlington Bullet," raced over the goal to give Elon a 19 to 7 lead as the half ended.

Barger's run may have put the finishing touch on the first half scoring, but it did not end the thrills, for R. K. Grayson brought every spectator from his or her seat with a scintillating 68-yard dash over the goal as the intermission neared. The run was nullified, however, by a penalty.

Grayson was not to be denied, though, and shortly after the half he sprinted fourteen yards for another tally. This score came after Brigman, Marshburn and Barger had put the ball in scoring position with several nice gains. Raleigh Ellis and Hal Johnson throw the key blocks on Grayson's run. Reid added the point after this score, and Elon was ahead 26 to 7.

The vaunted passing attack of the Pirates failed miserably in the face of some alert defense by the Christians, and Elon climbed into the driver's seat again in the waning minutes. The final Christian tally came on an 80-yard sustained drive, which saw Marshburn, Grayson, Brigman and Tingley driving hard. Marshburn carried over from the ten, and Reid booted his third placement. The scoreboard read Elon 33, E.C.T.C. 7.

Defensive praise goes to Gentry, Gero, Melvin, Ludwig, DeSimone and Tingley, and the whole team contributed beautiful offensive blocking to make Elon followers forget the pointless exhibition against Appalachian just one week earlier.

Patterson Is In Legislature

President Tom Williams, commenting on the small attendance, urged that all day students attend the meetings of their group. He pointed out that there are over 300 such students, but cited the fact that there is almost never more than twenty to thirty at the meetings.

VETS' APARTMENT NEWS

By RAY HAYES

Things are really brightening up for the Veterans' Apartment brightening to the light from newly installed 250-watt street lamps, which James W. Hayes announced will be installed this week.

Also going into operation as an added convenience for the veterans' village is the newly installed public telephone, centrally located for all.

At a meeting of Veterans' Apartment residents, held on Wednesday night of last week, Mayor Ed Drew asked and was given a full vote of confidence for the present government of the little community. The vote signified the intention of all residents to "come out" and participate in Apartment affairs.

Plans were also mapped at the meeting for a new constitution for the Veterans' Apartments and for the holding of bi-weekly meetings, not to last more than one hour. The decision was made, too, to enter a team in the intramural football league, and those interested were asked to contact "Sheriff" Bill Davis.

A committee was asked, and volunteer members assigned, to confer with college administrative officials in regard to admission to Elon athletic events. Members of the committee include John Foust, Glenn King, Carl Wood, Francis Curley, Bus Wigmore and Joe Tomanchek.

Present officers of the Veterans' Apartment organization include Ed Drew, mayor; Ira Cutrell, secretary-treasurer; Bill Davis, deputy sheriff; adm Paul Causey, Edward Burkhead, Joe Tomanchek, Frank Moses, Jake Hall, Ray Hayes, Dave Richards, and Bill Perkinson, members of the community council.
