

Elon Will Meet Guilford In Thanksgiving Game

Oak-Carlton Wins Campus Grid Honors

The Oak Ledge-Carlton House tag-football outfit walked off with all honors in the intramural grid-iron battles during the fall season, copping the championship in both halves of the intramural league and then defeating the All-Stars, chosen from the other teams in the league by a 6 to 0 score in a thrilling battle under the lights.

After winning the first half crown come weeks ago, the boys from the eastern edge of the campus clinched the second half crown on the final day of the season when they licked the ITK-Vets Apartment combine 6 to 0. They were then matched against the All-Stars in a benefit game, proceeds being sent to Chips Chabelko, a former Christian sports star who has been ill in Norfolk for more than a year. The game netted $15 in donations.

The champions proved that their winning both halves in the regular league race was not a fluke when they battled out a one-touchdown victory over the pick of the hoop in the All-Star engagement last Wednesday night. Worth Womble tossed a pass to Emmett Sawyer for the lone touchdown in the third quarter. A pass to Henry Hoppe for the extra point failed.

The game, which climaxed the tag-football season, furnished plenty of thrills for the spectators as both teams threatened in the see-saw battle. Len Fesmire contributed one feature when he intercepted a pass on his own forty and raced to the Oak-Carlton five-yard marker. The threat failed there. The All-Stars threatened again in the final period when they moved to the five, but Addison intercepted a pass to block the threat.

Girls Will Meet U.N.C. In Hockey

The girls' Hockey Club will play host to the University of North Carolina coeds here on Wednesday, December 6th, when the rival stick-wielders will tangle in a contest to be played on the field at the Elon Ball Park. This will mark the first appearance of a girls' team from another college at Elon in recent years.

Plans for the contest were announced by Jeanne Pittman, president of the Womex's Athletic Association, who stated that the game will get underway at 3:30 o'clock and that there will be no admission charged. The Elon girls will entertain the Carolina girls at dinner.

Elon girls who will participate in the game include Jeanne Pittman, Aleane Gentry, Faye Cadwell, Dolly Westmoreland, Jean Thompson, Patsy Milam, Zeda Crogan, Doris White, Louise Spence, Lois Walker, Gaynelle Dyer, Laciala Wilkins, Virginia Jeunigan and Sophie White.

Old Football Foes Meet In Burlington Thursday

Another Elon football season will pass into history after Tuesday afternoon, when the Fighting Christians tangle with their old rivals from Guilford in the Burlington Memorial Stadium. This game will mark the first day-time appearance for the Christians this season and will be the great Turkey Day sports attraction for this area. Kickoff for the game is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock.

This is the twenty-eighth renewal of the oldest football rivalry in the North State Conference, and no holiday game among the South's smaller colleges packs more intense rivalry between the contending teams. The dope-sheet always goes out the window when the Christians and Quakers meet, and the underdog outfit has frequently pulled an upset.

Neither of the old rivals can win the Conference championship this year, for both have already been eliminated from the race. However, a victory for either in the game on Thursday afternoon will go far to erase the memory of defeats suffered in previous games, and coaches Jim Mallory and Eddie Teague have been driving their squads to the limit this past week in an all-out effort to win this contest.

The Christians boast a somewhat better record for the season, for the Maroon and Gold eleven has chalked up six wins against two defeats and one tie this year, while the Quakers have an even split to date with four wins and four losses. However, Guilford defeated Emory and Henry 21 to 20 to break a long string of Wasp victories, while the Emory and Henry outfit swamped Elon 33 to 12. It all stacks up as a terrific battle ahead.

This game will mark the end of the road in collegiate football for some of Elon's brightest stars. Among seniors playing their final game are Co-Captains Pete Marshall and Joe Erickson, along with Mal McCracken, Archie Brigran, Ed Watkins, Jim Snow, Hank DeSimone, and Arnold Ward. Bill Johnston has another year of eligibility, but he leaves soon for duty with the Air Forces.

These boys will be giving their all to win up their careers in a blaze of glory, hoping at the same time to add another victory to the wide margin of wins which Elon holds in the Guilford series. Records show that Elon has won 17 games, lost seven and tied three in battles with the Quakers since the series first started back in 1919.

Spying On Sports

by JOE SPIVEY

What happened on that fateful night of November 11th shouldn't happen to a High Pointer. By the way, "Wha happen?"

The Christians were rolling merrily along in the North State Conference, hoping for at least a tie for the football crown, and then a two-time loser stomped the living daylight out of all chances. Of course Appalachian had to show off and beat the A.C.C. doormat, clinching the crown. Never let it be said that we're poor losers though. Heartiest congratulations to the Mountaineers, and may they bring glory to the North State Conference in their TWO bowl games.

My opinion is that Lenoir-Rhyme has been the most underrated team in this Conference. How she ever lost to Eastern Carolina and Appalachian is an unsolved mystery. If Coyne could have kicked extra points against the Mountaineers like he did against the Christians, the score in that game might have read 21-20. Yes, and IF the dog hadn't stopped, he might have caught the rabbit.

Another of my unimportant opinions is that the Christians' downfall came as a result of poor pass defense. I mean this for the whole season, too. High Point is the only team that failed to score on the Christians thus far. The others scored and at times threw a scare into the Elon followers.

That boy Frye, in the Lenoir-Rhyme game, is a good example. He passed for FOUR touchdowns and brought the Bears into position for Trudnak to score the other two. The other big blot is in the fact that a third-stringer, last name of Gabriel, completed two passes in almost as many minutes to bring Appalachian a tie and, as a result, the championship.

The biggest shock of my short college career has been the way the people of Burlington stay away from athletic contests. I dare say one could find no better brand of competition in any other conference, and the prices seem reasonable. I have listened meekly to many comments from out-of-towners in wonder at the small attendance. My flimsy excuses are to no avail, so I just try to avoid them now.

The thump of basketballs is resounding through the gym once more, and the Elon quint opens its season against Carolina on December 2nd. An exhibition game against the Grand Rapids Hornets disclosed promise of a good season for Dock Mathis and his boys, and big George Glamak hailed the Christians as one of the finest teams his pros had faced. This was before they faced N. C. State.

Ersel G. Moleskin wound up the next to last week of predictions by missing only one. We don't care to discuss which one that was. He did say that Elon would beat Guilford in the annual Thanksgiving game. Big boy, I hope you're right this time. Ersel does want to remind everyone that, whether we win, lose or tie, we must be good sports. See you at the Guilford game!

Big Sal Gero brought honor to himself and to Elon last week when his name came up on the "Lineman of the Week" list of the Associated Press. Gero was one of nine tackles from all over the nation, and this happens seldom to a player of the smaller colleges. Congrats, Gero! You surely deserve it!

Footnote: Who said athletes..... Footnote: Who said athletes are all brawn and no brain? Just look at Elon's football men on the Dean's List this time, such as Bill Blackstone, Branch Bragg, Joe Erickson, Ernie Gero and Sal Gero... and glance at the other lettermen of last year on the honor list, including Paul Causey, Jim Elkins, Art Fowler, John Spirko, Gene Hardy, Claude Manzi, Bill Perry, Luther Reece, Lou Savini, Lester Foster and Larry McCaulley. When the Lenoir-Rhyme Bears left Burlington Stadium on Saturday night, November 11th, all Elon hopes for even a share of the North State Conference laurels for 1950 went right out the gate with them. The Christians remained behind, writhing in the throes of a 42 to 13 defeat.

The Bears could do no wrong, and the Christians, it seemed, could do no right. The Bears started scoring early and kept it up too long. In fact, they rolled to five touchdowns in the first half and went to intermission with a 35 to 0 lead. They added a sixth score before the Christians broke the scoring ice late in the game.

After an exchange of punts, the Bears started the fireworks. Moving from their own 44-yard line, the visitors ate up yardage, with Trudnak running and Frye dumping a pass into Little's willing arms on the six, and Trudnak scored from there in three tries. Coyne booted the first of six successful placements.

An Elon miscue cost another touchdown minutes later, with Abee covering Brigran's fumble on the Elon forty-five. Three pass plays later the Bears had another tally, with Frye passing to Kirkpatrick for the big one. Jerry Robinson intercepted an Elon forward on the Elon thirty and raced to the six to set up the next touchdown, with Garrett taking Frye's toss in the end zone for the tally. Coyne kicked again, and Lenoir-Rhyme led 21 to 0 as the quarter ended.

Lenoir-Rhyme added two more TD's before the half. Jerry Robinson turned in another timely interception and romped to Elon's twenty-eight. Not even a 15-yard penalty could halt the Bears for Kirkpatrick raced for twenty, and Frye passed to Little for another score. Trudnak bucked over the next one from the four after Frye put the ball there on a pass to Garrett. Coyne's fifth kick made it 35 to 0 at half-time.

The second half began much as the first had started. After an exchange of punts, the Bears marched from their own thirty-five, with the same old formula of Trudnak running and Frye passing. The score came on a lob pass from Frye to Coulter in the end zone. Once more Coyne was on the beam, and it was 42 to 0.

The Christian scores in the final quarter were just "too little and too late." With the Bears' second stringers in play, Lee and Watkins blocked Coulter's punt on the fifteen, and Marshburn hammered the line five times in a row, driving over from the one. Sal Gero booted the point, but the score was still 42 to 7.

The waning minutes brought an 30-yard drive by the Christians, with Tingley, Rochelli and Marshburn carrying to the Bruin eight. Then Rochelli passed to Len Greenwood in the end zone for the touchdown. Gero's point missed, and that was it, all title hopes buried 42 to 13.

Frosh Girls Win Annual Hockey Tilt

The Freshman girls' hockey team battled out a hard-fought 1 to 0 victory over the Upperclass-girls in their second annual game, which was played under the lights at the Elon Ball Park last Wednesday evening, November 15th. A godly group witnessed the contest.

Each of the teams threatened to score numerous times, but clever defense halted the threats outside the scoring area. The lone score, which clinched the victory for the freshmen, was off the stick of Betty Comer, who drove the ball through the goal after ten minutes of the first half.
