Oak-Carlton Wins Campus Grid Honors

The Oak Lodge-Carlton House tag-football outfit made a clean sweep of all honors in the intramural gridiron season during the 1951 fall season, copping the championship of the intramural league during the regular campaign and then defeated a strong All-Star outfit chosen from all other teams in the league in a thrilling 25 to 12 battle under the lights.

The Oak-Carlton grid combination, built around a strong nucleus from last year's powerful team, was strengthened by a number of new men, and the lads from the eastern edge of the campus swept through the regular league season in impressive style.

They were then matched against the All-Stars in the season finale, which was played as a night contest on Tuesday night of last week. This game was put on with all the trimmings, with public address ably handled by "Scoop" Scott, who furnished them music for the occasion (even including a spirited rendition of the National Anthem preceding the kick-off), and with sponsors for each of the teams presented on the field at half-time.

The champions proved that their titular victory in the regular season was not a fluke when they pushed over four touchdowns to gain their 25 to 12 decision over the picked players of the loop. This win, however, was not without its thrills, and the Oak-Carlton combine had to come from behind in the final half to win.

Oak-Carlton tallied first in the opening quarter when Henry Hoppe tossed a pass to George Etheridge for a touchdown, and Sonny Addison slipped through the line behind some perfect blocking to tally the extra point. This gave the champs a 7 to 0 lead, but the margin was cut in the second quarter when Sammy Nelson intercepted one of Lefty Taylor's passes and romped fifteen yards for a touchdown. Try for point failed, and Oak-Carlton led at half time 7 to 6.

The All-Stars went ahead at 12 to 7 early in the third period when George Nall whipped a bullet pass to Charlie Gibson, who made a circus catch as he stepped into the end zone. The play was good for twenty yards. This lead was short-lived, for Leon Long leaped high to spear a long Henry Hoppe pass on the All-Star four, and Sonny Addison circled right end for the score that sent the champions out front 13 to 12.

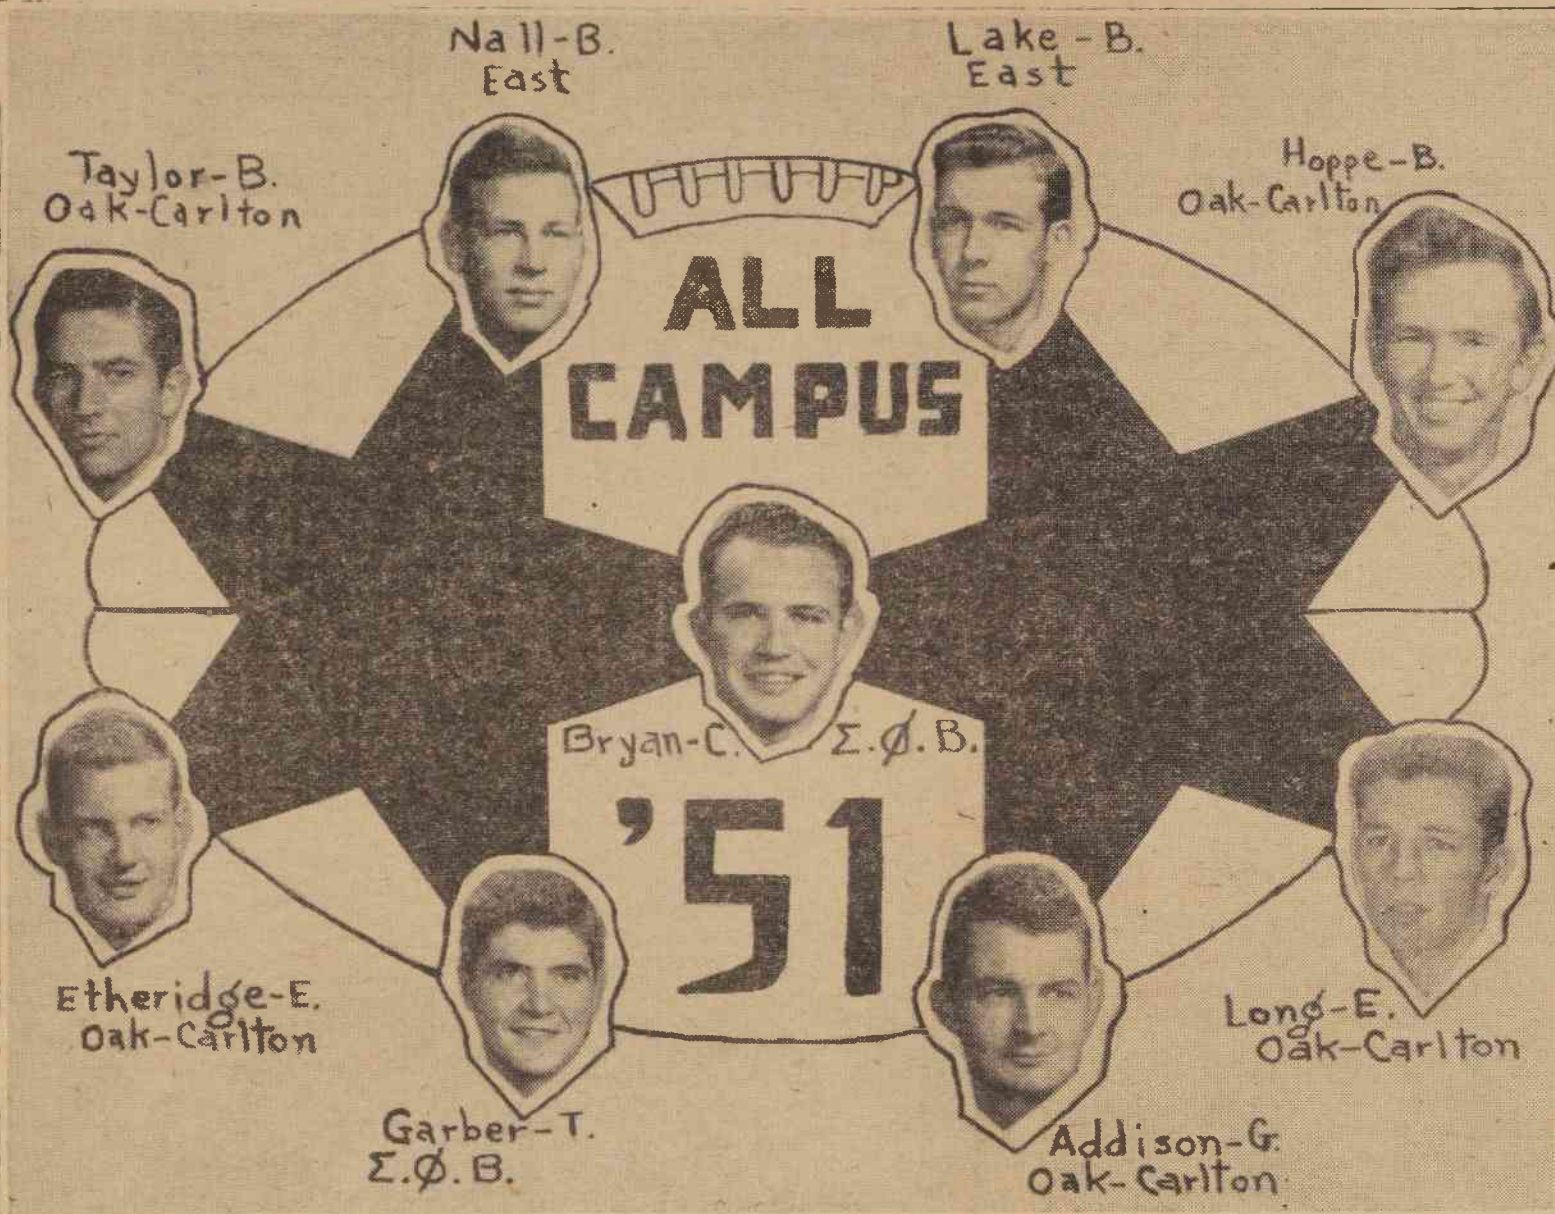

Two other Oak-Carlton scores stretched the lead. Buchanan blocked an All-Star punt late in the third period, and Charlie Burrus recovered in the end zone. The final score was on another scoring toss from Hoppe to George Etheridge, who speared the ball in the end zone.

The line-ups:
Pos. —Oak-Carlton All Stars
 E—Etheridge Gough
 G—Painter Grant
 C—Sears Bryan
 T—Coyner Taylor
 E—Long Gibson
 B—Addison Nall
 B—Levine Lake
 B—Hoppe Nelson
 B—Taylor Campbell

Score by periods:
 Oak-Carlton 7 0 12 6—25
 All-Stars 0 6 6 0—12

Oak-Carlton scoring: Touchdowns—Etheridge 2, Burrus, Addison. Extra point—Addison.
 All-Star scoring: Touchdown—Nelson, Gibson.

Substitutes: Oak-Carlton—Burrus, Buchanan, Kennedy. All-Stars—Garber, Golden.

Spying On Sports

Well, the Conference championship in football has virtually slipped through the shaky fingers of the Christians. The only hope left is an upset by Catawba on "Turkey Day" when the Indians tangle with the Bears from Lenoir Rhyne at Hickory. That would throw the race into a tie, but, confidentially, I believe we can start tossing orchids to the Bears.

The only bright point from the Christian's view was the fact that tail-back Lou Rochelli surpassed the 1,000-yard mark in total offense for the season. Rochelli's offensive total is now 1,185 yards.

Here are some thumb-nail interviews with a portion of the Christians that saw action in the Lenoir Rhyne game. Fred Biangardi: "They had a good downfield blocking team. When they pull, they really block."

Sal Gero: "If we had gotten the jump, I think we could have beaten them. They got the jump and kept going."

Jack Christy: "They did everything right. We got beat by a better team."

Marvin Moss: "They have a good team. Period."

Bill Blackstone: "They outscored us."

Editor's Note: I wondered why we lost.

Bobby Rogers: "They beat us good."

Hal MacRae: "It was a well-played game by Lenoir Rhyne. Our defense was spotty. If we had had the ball more, we might have scored more."

Raleigh Ellis: "They love to play that game called football."

Bob Reece: "They could have beaten Carolina that night. A great ball club."

Fred Burmeister: "Best ball club that we played against all year."

Charlie Atkins: "They did everything right, and we did everything wrong."

Bill Renn: "We got beat by a superior ball club, but we played one of our poorest games of the season. We really appreciate the support from the home fans."

Lou Rochelli: "Lenoir Rhyne was at their best, and we played our worst, I guess, but I believe we are a better ball club than we showed Saturday night."

Mike Moffo: "They must have a jinx on us. It happens every year."

I must quote Dean Bowden to sum up the works for your reporter:

"At the end of the first five minutes, I thought that it can't be. At the end of the half, I said I don't believe it. At the end of the game, I thought that it just isn't so. I do believe that the boys played a hard game, and they deserve a nice hand."

The game with Guilford on Wednesday night will wind up things for the season for the Christians on the gridiron. A win will leave the record for the current year at seven won and two lost. That's the way I think it will end, and a very enviable record it is.

As for Mr. Lloyd Whitfield, who is the capable Sports Editor for the Teco Echo of East Carolina College, I must remind him that a good reporter gets all the facts

Tag-Football Aces Honored, As . . .

ALL-CAMPUS SQUAD IS ANNOUNCED

Three strong tag-football squads garnered all the berths on the 1951 All-Campus honor squad, with the championship combine from Oak Lodge-Carlton House again showing the same domination that characterized its play on the field. The champions placed five men of nine, with the strong outfits from East and Sigma Phi Beta each getting two of the other four posts.

The Oak-Carlton outfit placed two of the four men in the backfield and three of the five places in the line, while East placed two of its fleet-footed backfield stars, and Sigma Phi Beta claimed two of the All-Star line positions. The honor group, in keeping with and then prints them. His remarks about Coach Mallory are nothing short of libel. And isn't it rather odd that Mr. Kirkland should happen to think of Bob Lewis just before the Catawba game? Two Conference games had been played prior to that time, but maybe the fraternal feeling among fellow coaches didn't come strong enough for Mr. Kirkland to inform his rival coaches of Lewis' questionable eligibility. I think it was a good deduction that Elon would remove two stumbling blocks for the Catawba Indians, and that Lewis would be instrumental in this. He did, didn't he? You probably moaned while the Pirates took a trouncing.

As for the rules being so "stupid," I would venture to say that some representatives from East Carolina helped to draw them up. Change 'em all big boy, Elon will keep on beating East Carolina.

An apology is due to Mr. Crutchfield from Mr. Whitfield. He knew as much about the deal as anyone else, and I can safely say that there was no cover-up. He got the facts before he printed them. You should take a note of this wise example.

Whether we win or lose, keep on being good sports.

the custom inaugurated last year, was chosen by a vote of the members of the Intramural Council.

Speed was the keynote in the choice of the All-Campus group this year, but the honor squad also boasts plenty of height in key positions and a rugged toughness that stood out in the play of the various individuals throughout the season.

George Etheridge and Leon Long, who teamed at the ends for the Oak-Carlton crew, claimed both the flank positions for the champions. Both tower well over six feet, and both have the speed that gets them downfield under passes. Etheridge was the only repeater from last year, having gained the honor while playing with the ITK-Vets Apartment club last fall.

The other line posts show Al Bryan, stocky and tough little Sigma Phi center, at the pivot position, flanked on each side by Pete Garber, a rugged tackle from the same Sigma Phi combine, and Sonny Addison, a fleet-footed star from Oak-Carlton, who played backfield and was named at guard.

The entire backfield was chosen from the Oak-Carlton and East grid squads. Henry Hoppe and Lefty Taylor, both standouts from Oak-Carlton, were honored from the league winners, while Elbert Lake and George Nall win honor berths for East Dorm. Hoppe and Nall rated as the top passers in the league.

Christians And Quakers Clash To Close Season

Elon's 1951 football season will pass into history after Wednesday night, when the Fighting Christians battle their old rivals from Guilford in a Thanksgiving Eve contest in Greensboro. The game was originally scheduled for Thanksgiving afternoon, but it was changed when the stadium proved unavailable at that time.

This is the twenty-ninth renewal of the oldest football rivalry in the North State Conference, and no holiday battle among the South's smaller colleges has packed more intense rivalry between the contending teams. The hope-sheet always goes out the window when the Christians and Quakers meet, and the underdog outfit has more than once pulled an upset.

Neither of the two teams can win a championship this fall, for the Elon Christians saw their title hopes go up in smoke after an overwhelming defeat by Lenoir-Rhyne, and the Quakers have failed to win a game in the Conference. However, that is all the more reason why the Quakers want to win this game from Elon. An upset win for them now would redeem many of the losses suffered so far.

The Quakers almost pulled one

Lenoir-Rhyne Bears Swamp Elon 48 To 14 In Championship Contest

By JOE SPIVEY

The Christians went up to Hickory on November 10th loaded for Bear, but the gun must have been loaded with blanks, for the Lenoir Rhyne Bears kept their conference record unblemished as they set the Fighting Christians back to the tune of 48 to 14. It was the Christians' first loss in North State competition this season, and the Bears went to the top of the heap.

Despite the fact that Elon tail-back Lou Rochelli picked up 24 yards in 15 rushes, completed 9 of 22 passes, one for a touchdown, and caught 2 passes for 16 yards to gain individual offensive honors with a grand total of 174 yards and two touchdowns, as the Christians led in gains, from scrimmage with 303 yards to 299 for the Bears, but the score still stands 48-14.

The Christian defense crumbled like the Walls of Jericho, and the Bears poured through almost at will to strike time and time again through breaches opened by some great interference. The Elon offense slipped and stalled as the pressure was on in this all-important game. A good block couldn't be bought, and the Christians never got out of hot water for the first three quarters.

the early minutes of the game when Jim Garrett set up the score with a 26-yard run from a buck lateral series, and Garrett himself, carried 12 more yards for the tally. Trudnak made the point after from placement to put the Bears ahead 7-0.

The second score of the night was also by the Bears, with Garrett plunging the last eleven yards to climax a 47-yard drive. Trudnak made good the placement once more to run the lead to 14-0. Still in the first quarter, Garrett scored for the Bears on a 22-yard run that came in the final second of the first period. Trudnak kicked again, and the score read 21-0.

The Bears were held to one TD in the second quarter, and that came when Trudnak hit the center for the final yard. Previous to this, Trudnak had raced forty-one yards to the Elon eighteen, and Jerry Robinson carried to the one. Trudnak missed the point, but the Bears went to the dressing rooms at the half with a 27-0 lead.

The fireworks continued unabated in the third quarter when the Lenoir Rhyne eleven pushed across two more scores. The first one came after Trudnak had moved the ball 33 yards on a run that carried to the Elon twenty-six. Four cracks at the Elon line moved the ball to the five, and Bill Robinette went wide for the remaining distance. Trudnak added the point to make it 34-0.

Reid fumbled the next kick-off, and Gene Robinson recovered to give Lenoir Rhyne the ball on the Elon twenty. On the next play Jerry Robinson cut inside right end on a reverse and raced the remaining distance untouched. Trudnak converted to make it 41 to 0.

Elon finally came to life at this point in the game. It was a 47-yard drive that featured the running of Fred Biangardi. The Bull got things started with a seven-yard plunge, and Frank Tingley picked up two more. Rochelli unlimbered the old passing arm and connected to Greenwood for
