

SCORING

The Elon College basketball team, who open their bid for the 1956 championship of the North State Conference by meeting Appalachian in the first round of the Conference tourney at Lexington tonight, will carry a better than 90-point scoring average into the annual loop meet.

The Maroon and Gold cagers, who wound of their 1956 campaign by swamping Guilford 96 to 53 on Saturday night, posted a mark of 20 wins and 6 losses during the regular season and wound up the year with an average of 92.3 points.

The Christians, in posting their 92.3 average for the year, boosted Elon's average score mark by more than 10 points. They also set a new team scoring mark for a single game when they hit 124 points in down DuPont and Guilford. New Elon free-throw marks were set with 36 against Erskine and DuPont, and Dee Atkinson set up a new Elon single-game mark with 39 points and 18 field baskets against Western Carolina.

SWEAT RECITAL

ful work, however, became even more impressive when viewed from the standpoints of Prof. Sweat's versatility.

The direct antithesis of this masterpiece of Viennese classicism is found in the freedom of the style of a work like the Chopin Sonata in B flat minor, Op 35. Here, again, the artist's playing showed the thankful result of study and practice, combined to present a performance in which the audience was made aware of the bravura, the "grand" style of the work, without ever losing consciousness of the sensitivity of the genius who created the work. In their every shading and subtle nuance, both of these works were played with virtuosity, tempered with a keen sense of taste and musicianship.

The recital also included admirable performances of Bach's Toccata in G minor and Prokofiev's Sonata, No. 3 and particularly impressive interpretations of two of Schuman's piano works, "The Bird as Prophet" and C major Toccata, Op 7. This last work, incidentally, is not frequently performed because few pianists have Prof. Sweat's natural gift, hands large enough to meet the technical demands of the music. The pianist left his audience justifiably pleased with two encores, Hindemith's Interludium in G (Ludos Tonalis) and Chopin's "Revolutionary Etude."

Varsity Five Cops Victory Over Quakers

The Elon Christians posted an even 50 per cent shooting average last Saturday night as they rolled for a 96 to 53 victory over the Guilford Quakers in the final game of the regular season. The game, played on the floor of Elon's Alumni Memorial Gymnasium, left Elon in fourth spot in the North State Conference standings as the season ended.

The Quakers, playing their final game under the direction of Coach Dave Meredith, who submitted his resignation to the Quaker institution recently, made a close game of it for the first seven minutes. They hit the first bucket and had the score knotted four times before Ray Whitley dropped a push shot to shove Elon out front for keeps.

The shooting percentages on floor shots reflected the Elon superiority. The Christians hit 37 field baskets on 74 attempts for exactly 50 per cent, while the best the Quakers could do was 20 field baskets on 62 tries for a 32.3 percentage mark. The rivals were almost even in their percentages from the charity line, with each averaging in the sixties.

Ed Juratic racked 22 points to occupy the top spot for the Christians, Ray Whitley and Ben Kendall had 15, Jimmy Crump 14 and Frank DeRita 13 points for the winners. Don Hemric with 14 and Oswald Schmidt with 12 were leaders of the Quaker attack.

LAYMEN MEET

The laymen heard a report on the Moonelon Recreation Center by Russell Powell, of Greensboro, who pointed out that a new payment is due on the center soon.

More than 300 of the lay delegates remained for a banquet meeting in the Elon College dining hall at 6 o'clock, at which Dr. Odell Leonard, pastor of the Second Evangelical and Reformed at Lexington, addressed the group on the subject of "Hearts."

Dr. J. Earl Danieley, of Elon College, was elected as the new chairman for the Laymen's Fellowship, succeeding W. B. Williams, of Newport News, Va. Other officers elected included P. D. Howell, of Chuckatuck, Va., as vice-chairman; and D. Marsh McLeland, of Elon College, secretary and treasurer. Dr. Danieley had held the vice-chairman's post prior to being elevated to the top post, while S. H. Pell, of Ramseur, held the secretary-treasurer post last year.

AS ELON STUDENTS DANCED AT MID-WINTER FROLIC

One of the most elaborate decorative schemes in the recent history of the dance at Elon College was a feature at the annual Mid-Winter Ball, which was held in Elon Alumni Memorial Gymnasium last Friday night, February 17th. Using a Valentine theme, the student dance committee went all out in their efforts to change the appearance of the gym. The result was something beautiful to behold, and the music by Russ Carlton and his Orchestra did much to enliven the evening for the student lovers of terpsichore. All who attended branded the 1956 Mid-Winter Ball a success.

KOREAN YOUTH

War Is Ended

After long months of struggle, the armistice at Panmunjom failed to achieve the United Nations objective of repelling and punishing the communist aggressors, and the ultimate goal of unification is still far distant in Korea. Yet, a divided Korea is an economic and political anomaly which cannot survive. The Koreans are one people ethnically, culturally and politically, yet the two halves of the nation complement each other economically, and neither can long survive without the other.

The position of Korea in this modern age of geo-politics is such that no permanent peace can be had in the Orient until the nation is unified. Every Korean understands these basic facts, and whatever their other differences, all are determined that Korea shall be unified at whatever cost.

With the war ended, works of reconstruction and industrialization are moving ahead in Korea, a nation which has been mainly agricultural. Chang Gill Kim hopes, upon completion of his studies, to return to Korea and see it happy as it was before the war began, but there is a constant fear of a new outbreak.

He saw with interest the happiness and freedom and prosperity of the people of Hawaii at the time of his visit to that island and hopes that American influences may sometime make Korea as happy and prosperous.

He is enjoying much the modern way of American life and the life on the Elon campus. He finds that college education in America, as compared with college life in Korea, is much more pleasant. He is particularly impressed with the atmosphere of freedom in American education.

CAGE TOURNEY

since 1947, although Coach Doc Mathis has had his boys in the semi-finals four times and in the finals twice during the past six years. The Christians lost to Appalachian in the 1950 finals and then lost to High Point in the 1953 finals.

Despite the fact that the Elon squad only managed a fourth-place finish in the regular campaign, the Christians are highly rated by the sports dopsters who have made predictions on the results this week. With a squad average of better than 92 points per game, the Maroon and Gold cagers have shown greater balanced attacking power in most games than have other loop teams. The feeling is that they will be hard to stop if they hit a hot streak like that which won the Paris Island Christmas tournament for them.

Elon Senior In Business

Melvin Young, Elon senior from Mebane, is getting the jump on graduation by opening his own business right here in Elon College before completing his degree requirements. He has already opened the doors of his Young's Jewelry, which is located next door to Swift Cleaners and across from the college campus.

He has announced that until he graduates at the end of the present quarter, he will have his store open from 1 until 5 o'clock on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday and from 9 until 5 o'clock on Saturday. He will be open from 9 until 5:30 o'clock six days a week, beginning on Monday, March 5th.

A native of Mebane, he has been associated with his father in the jewelry business there and has had twelve years experience in watch repairing. He is carrying a full line of Bulova and Elgin watches and Westclox and GE alarm clocks, along with costume jewelry of all kinds for women and a complete line of men's jewelry. He urges his fellow students here at Elon to drop by, assuring prompt service for all needs in the jewelry line.

Cagers Drop Decision To Lenoir Rhyne

Using both height and speed to good advantage, the Lenoir Rhyne Bears turned back the Elon Christians by an overwhelming 99 to 70 margin at Hickory last Thursday night. It gave Lenoir Rhyne a sweep of the two-game series for the year, since the Bears had also won an earlier battle on the Elon floor.

The home-standing Bruins grabbed a quick lead over Elon and ran it to a 14-point advantage by half-time, which saw the Lenoir Rhyne outfit with a 43-29 margin. That spread continued to grow throughout the second half. In fact, the Bears worked out a 15-point edge in the second half to go with their earlier 14-point margin of the first half.

Bob Ortmyer, 6-foot 8-inch Lenoir Rhyne forward, racked 28 points and edged Raiford Wells, his 6-foot 6-inch teammate, for individual scoring honors for the night. Wells, leading individual scorer in the Conference, contributed 25 points toward the total.

The Christians had trouble getting a concerted attack underway, although four of the Elon players registered in double figures for the game. Frank DeRita had 16 and Earl Stone and Jimmy Crump had 15 points each to lead the Elon attack. Dee Atkinson, regular Christian center, was held out of action in this game and in the later Guilford game due to a slight injury but is expected to be ready for duty in the Conference tournament at Lexington this week.

LIBRARY NOTES

For any and all who may be interested in costumes for pageants or parties, the Elon College library has at least one new book that may come up with the answers.

The new book for those seeking the answer to a costume question is Mary Evan's volume entitled "Costumes Throughout the Ages," which is a revision and enlargement of an earlier and highly successful book on dress design, the atricial costume and social history.

In her new volume Mary Evans shows the close association of dress with art, literature and religion, and by numerous examples she has established the relation between evolving styles of dress and social, political, economic and geographic conditions.

The first section outlines the development of dress from the Egyptian, Greek and Roman times to the present day. The second section describes in detail the national costumes of the European countries, along with Russia, China, Japan, India, the East Indies Eskimos, Mexicans and Americans.

The new edition contains many additional illustrations and a whole new section on American costume from the Seventeenth Century to 1950. It has been described as "an exhaustive and entertaining survey, generously and attractively illustrated."

BULLDOG GAME

The Bulldogs gained a slight margin at 49-45 by the half-time, and that margin held for the victory, despite Elon's posting a one-point lead in the second half.

Dee Atkinson, Elon pivot star, was top scorer for the night with 32 points, and Ben Kendall racked 28 points to top the Bulldogs' John Marley for second rank.
