

REID THIS!

It was about this time of year, Leopold Malcolm Smith, a 16-year-old sophomore from Bluefield, W.V., and I, a run-down junior from Norfolk, lightly turned our fancies to a garden hose which somehow had been left in the gym of old North Dorm.

Leopold said he could play water higher than I could. He said he was a cinch to make the second floor indoor track, and if he worked the nozzle properly, he could sideswipe Jack Johnson's door on the floor above.

Well, Leopold about made it, only a passing professor cut off his water.

The teacher was so annoyed that he straightaway repaired to the president's office then tended by Dr. Leon Edgar Smith.

It has been 22 years since all this happened, and my recounting of the conversation may be remiss, but it went something like this:

Professor: "There they were, training the water hose on the walls of North, trying to see how high they could go."
Doc Smith: "What did you do?"
Professor: "Why, I hit the ceiling!"

Doc Smith: "Ahem. Why are you complaining? You won, didn't you?"

I attended an alumni meeting in Newport News not long ago. The president of the Elon Student Government Association, C. V. May, was there trading banter with another president you have around the place, a fellow by the name of Dr. J. Earl Danieley.

The people in the crowd heard about how much money the school needed and how much it already had in the bank and how cultural we have been getting with seminars and all that stuff. Then, somebody asked a candid question: "Do we have any beatniks and screwballs around campus such as you'd find in California?"

"I believe," the young student official said, "You will not have to worry about oddballs at Elon. There are a number of students with their head in the clouds . . ."

"Oh-oh, I thought. . . ."
"But they have their feet firmly on the ground."

Elon Golf Team Loses 4 Meets

The Christian golf team, struggling through a rugged season, dropped four matches within the past two weeks, including Carolinas Conference duel engagements with High Point twice and single tussles with Appalachian and Catawba.

The High Pointers triumphed over Elon 20 to 4 at High Point on April 19th and then eked a 13 1/2 to 10 1/2 victory over the Elon course. The Appalachian linksmen won a meet at Elon by a 17 1/2 to 6 1/2 margin and Catawba also won a close one here by a 14 1/2 to 9 1/2 count.

WAA Groups In Two Play Days

The Women's Athletic Association sent two girls to Chapel Hill on April 16th to represent Elon in an inter-collegiate tennis tournament, with Gail Campbell and Betsy Jones carrying the Maroon and Gold colors in the net play in which both dropped close first round matches. Duke won the doubles honors while UNC-G clinched the singles title.

One week later on April 23rd the Elon All-Campus volleyball team brought back third-place honors from a volley ball play day at UNC-G in which seven teams played. Players from Elon were Sandy Bergman, Lou Green, Eveline Garrison, Carol Popowski, Karen Reider and Pat Wilson.

Elon Net Squad Topples Ferrum

The Elon College net squad continued to show improvement over the Christian tennis play of recent years as the Elon racket wielders rabbed a 7 to 2 win over the Ferrum College outfit from Virginia in a meet played here on April 23rd. This was the only win in four meets played in the past two weeks, but the Elon outfit made fine showing in the other contests.

Other meets played within the past two weeks showed The Christians dropping a 9 to 0 decision to the powerful Carolina Freshmen, but the game scores were close in some sets. Other losses were to Atlantic Christian at Wilson by a 5 to 2 count and to the High Point Panthers at High Point by a 4 to 3 margin.

Elon Tracksters Defeat Atlantic Christian 79-61

The Fighting Christian tracksters marked their first victory of the '66 campaign when they grabbed the first places in sixteen events and added nine seconds and nine thirds to turn back the Atlantic Christian Bulldogs 79 to 61 at Wilson on Saturday afternoon, April 29th.

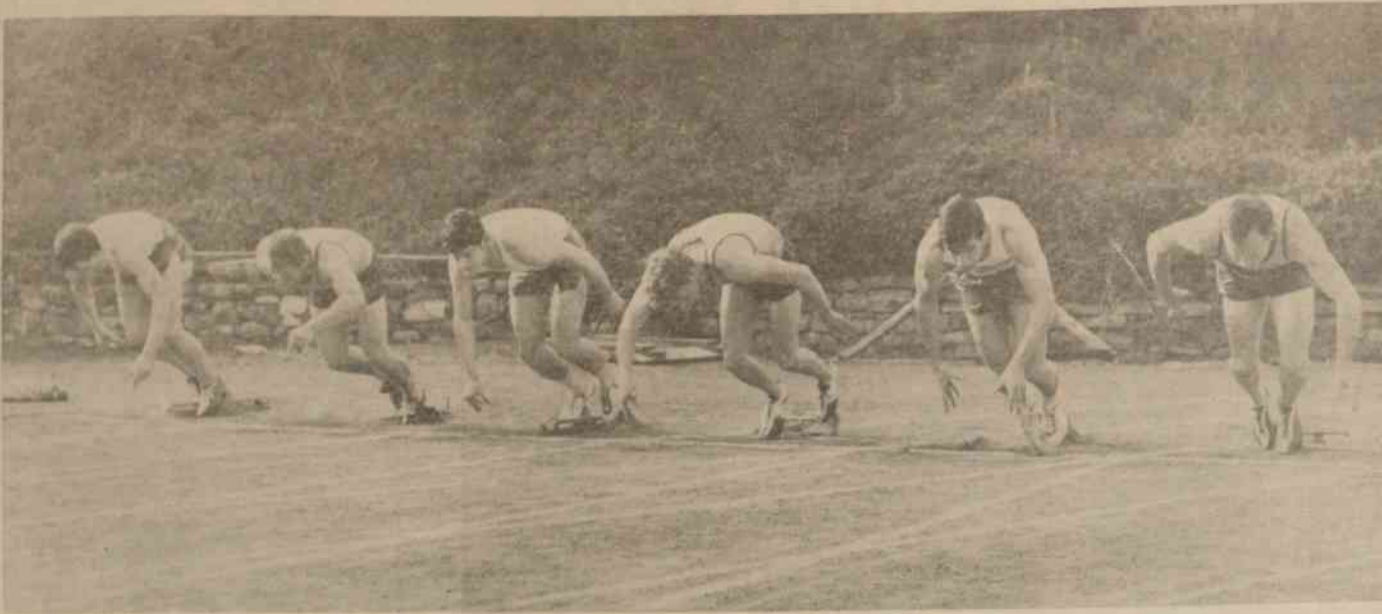

The Elon cindermen grabbed six firsts in the running events, and Bobby Ferrell, Wes Gilliam and Perry Williams teamed to grab first in all three of the eight events as the Christians broke into the victory column for the first time this spring.

Christian Cinder Squad Loses To W-L Outfit

The Fighting Christian tracksters won five first places against Washington and Lee on April 21st at Lexington, Va., for their best showing of the year, but the General cindermen chalked a 92 to 53 win over the Elon outfit in the dual meet on the Washington and Lee track.

David Oliphant, Elon speedster, won both dashes; Bill Frank won the high jump; Bobby Ferrell topped the shot putters; and the Elon 440-relay quartet of Wayland Pond, David Oliphant, David Gentry and Don Goldberg, won the print relay. Elon swept all three pots in the hundred and the first two places in the two twenty dash.

Elon Has Strong Freshmen

BOB HUGHES (5-10, 175) — A fine halfback, with speed and defensive ability, from Madison, N.C., who prepped at Greenbriar Military Academy.
DEWEY CAPPS (6-1, 180) — An end from Myrtle Beach, S.C., who was recruited primarily for his punting ability.
BILL BAKER (5-10, 175) — Halfback from Charleston, S.C., who is extremely fast and a good receiver and looms for service as a flanker back and defensive corner man.
TOMMY JORDAN (6-4, 185) — A great defensive end from Greenville's Rose High, who also prepped at Hargrave Military Academy.
MIKE STRAKD (6-1, 190) — A strong end from Oakland, N.J., who won All-Sururban honors as a flanker.
JOE PADGETT (6-0, 195) — A tough and aggressive center from Marion, N.C., selected to play in the Lion's Bowl All-Star game.
HAROLD SMITH (6-2, 205) — A big guard from Winston-Salem, who prepped at Hargrave Military Academy.
KENT CRAFT (5-10, 783) — A Marine veteran halfback from Newport News, Va., who is a transfer from Austin Peay State in Tennessee.
MIKE KOZAKIEWICH (5-11, 190) — A tough tackle from Hazlet, N.J., who is the son of a former Fighting Christian star.
MIKE STATEN (5-11, 200) — A guard from Lewisburg, West Va., who prepped at Greenbriar Military Academy and is also the son of a former Elon grid star.

Military Academy and is also the son of a former Elon grid star.
GLENN JONES (5-10, 165) — An All-Conference and All-Eastern halfback from Sanford, who has been chosen for the N.C. All-Star game because of his tremendous desire.
KERRY CAPELL (5-8, 160) — All-State halfback from Wadesboro, who was chosen as his Conference's most valuable player. Has good speed and should make great flanker back.
FRANCIS FERRY (6-0, 200) — A New Jersey All-State and All-District guard from Gloucester, N.J., who has played semi-pro ball and should bolster guard posts.
ROGER NORMAN (5-10, 180) — A hustling and hard-hitting guard from Surry Central High at Dobson.
TONY HUNT (6-0, 190) — A driving fullback from Thomasville High, who has great strength and desire.
DANIEL GIBSON (5-10, 170) — A quarterback from Sanford High a school which has furnished Elon with many fine athletes.

Lenoir Rhyne Outlasts Elon In 11-Inning Tilt

The Lenoir Rhyne Bears used an unearned run in the eleventh inning to eke out an extra-inning 5 to 5 victory over the Elon Christians here on April 29th. The Bruin win evened the season series between the two old rivals, for the Christians had won a 2 to 1 verdict at Hickory earlier in the week.

The Christian outfit moved to a commanding 5 to 0 lead in the first five racks, and it appeared that Herbie Johnson was on the way to an easy victory, but the Elon outpaw ran into a wild streak and walked three as the Bears plated a solo run in the sixth. Then came a three-run uprising by Lenoir Rhyne in the seventh, which forced Johnson to the showers.

The Bears knotted the score with a single run in the ninth off Burgin Beale, Elon reliever, and then neither team could score in the tenth. The winning Bruin tally in the eleventh came when George Truesdail saw life on a error, stole second and raced home on David Matheny's single.

Fincher was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Fincher, of Candler. They survive, along with three brothers, John Fincher, of Asheville, Arnold Fincher, of Candler, and Gene Fincher, of Siler City; and one sister, Mrs. Roger Talbot, now in Germany.
Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Francis Asbury Methodist Church at Candler, with burial in the cemetery there.

Several Elon Art Winners In Festival

The Elon College student body and faculty was well represented among the winners in the tenth annual Alamance County Arts Festival, with one honor award, five firsts, three seconds and two thirds in various classifications of art or literature.

Prof. Edwin Daniel, Elon art teacher, won both first and second places in print making with his entries entitled "Vacancy" and "Pensive Youth," and several of his students brought home trophies.

Susan Boswell, of Burlington, won firsts in both the oil painting and pastel groups. She also won first in the crayon drawing division and second in the crayon drawing, and she received the honor award for her painting entitled "Landscape With A Yellow Field."

Adele Catherwood, also of Burlington, a second place award in the ink drawing group, and she took third place in the oil painting division.

In the literature division of the festival, Laura Rice, Elon senior from Burlington, won first place and third place in the short story group and added a second place award in poetry.
