

NEWCOMERS ON ELON MATH AND SCIENCE FACULTY

REID THIS!

Tom Corbett grew up at Elon.

To about six feet tall, I recall.

He may have also matured as a person.

In young Tom, I never saw a more devoted Elonite nor a worse speller.

I suppose the latter qualified him as a newspaperman for one of the Charlotte papers. When he was with the Maroon and Gold staff, he used to get immeasurably provoked with me if I didn't pick his stories apart. By this time, he was solidly on his perfectionist kick.

The other day I called him about a job.

In putting me down, he said he thought he might repent all his Elonic sins at a chapel program, which, if you discarded your homework and stayed awake, you may have heard. I suspect you did. Young Tom can be an eye-opener.

He probably told you he was a minor tosspot as well as he reported on his transgressions. All this, I know, was offered at his own time and at his own expense to help you shape up.

"You know, if my sorry example helps just one of you avoid some mistake that many of you are going to make before it's all over, then confession of the whole bit will not have been in vain."

That, he meant!

This sincerity is where I admire Tom Corbett immensely. I broke a few rules myself down there, and a classmate of mine, a rotund farm boy by the name of Danielely may have too, although all that comes to mind is Thumpin' Earl broke up a no-hit baseball game.

I think Elon rules might be where you hack it or tumble. If you can cope with them, like 'em or no, you might make some real sense out of Marylander Corbett's chapel philosophy:

"Elon helped me. Before it was over, I think that I realized who I was, where I was and where I wanted to go. Because I went to Elon, the why was possible."

Sage stuff, that, really, but I bet you all sure did have a good time Saturday night.

Homecoming Plans

Plans are already in the making for another outstanding Elon College Homecoming Day observance on the final weekend in October, with a full weekend of activities scheduled for the many old grads who are expected to return to the campus for the annual event.

Candidates for the Homecoming Queen will be nominated on October 16th, with the winner announced at the annual talent show on Friday night, October 27th, preliminary to the full day of festivities on Saturday, October 28th.

dances sponsored by the SGA in the gym.

At present $1550 has been paid. No one seems quite sure how much work has been done, but the figure we heard most often was $4,000.

Now the Student Senate has passed a bill stopping further payment until, in the words of the bill, "satisfactory progress" has been made on the project.

If this seems to be a vague report of what is not known, it is simply because no one seems to have that information. What exists is a half completed project of obscure nature and cost. The completion date and date for payment as well, are unknown. It is a circus of undefined confusion on the part of the SGA, and non-commitment by the administration.

The only thing sure to this point is that the SGA owes $12,000 from concert profits. The recent bill however, ends even that small certainty.

There seem to have been some very serious deficiencies concerning the program in the past. In the first place it is incomprehensible that an arrangement concerning the transfer of $12,000 would be made by "verbal agreement." Such irresponsible planning must not be allowed to recur.

While we realize it was not entirely the fault of the administration that SGA officials did not insist upon a written agreement it seems equally incomprehensible that one was not prepared as a simple matter of form.

Obviously the blame for this situation must rest equally upon the SGA and the college administra-

New additions to the Elon College mathematics and science faculty for this 1967-68 term are shown above. They are Prof. Frank Harris (left), a native of Roanoke Rapids and an Elon graduate, who holds the master's degree from Wake Forest, who joins the physics department; Prof. Thomas Russ (center), a native of Wilmington and also an Elon graduate, who holds the master's degree from Appalachian, who joins the biology department; and Prof. Burton W. Stuart (right), a native of Panama Canal Zone, who graduated at UNC-CH and holds the master's degree from the University of South Carolina, who joins the department of mathematics. All will be assistant professors in rank.

Then there is the person who says, "Cigarette smoke is very offensive to me and I don't want to be around it." Well, answer me this! How does he get to class, scale the outside walls of Alamaance? The only other way I know is to walk down the hall in which the surrounding air is bound to contain some form of smoking "aroma". Suppose he is the type of person who enjoys dining out occasionally. I haven't come across a restaurant yet which displays a NO SMOKING sign. Not even the original "Hot Shoppes."
