

OFFICERS OF S. A. M. ARE ACTIVE CAMPUS GROUP

REID THIS!

Suzy The Stinger

Suzy Smith, cute as a bug and sitting down like one, cross-legged on the floor, looked at some antediluvian Elon slides I was showing in Mooney.

She was wearing a floppy sweatshirt and stage set paint to match. She'd been working on props for the Elon Players' latest smash.

"See our new power saw?" The Sophomore from Alexandria, Va., had asked me earlier. "Isn't that just great? We can turn out just about anything with it."

I agreed and when she turned and walked away, I started to get sharp and hint that she herself, was a classic case of the end justifying the means, but didn't.

So, anyway, we were all rallied 'round the silver screen and watching projections of Senior Oak 20 years ago, Burlington's downtown of the same era and North Dorm. "What's that?" Suzy asked.

Well, that slowed up even Dr. Earl Danieley. "Young lady," he explained with admirable patience. "That was the best gym in all the South when it was built just before World War I."

North Dorm meant a great deal to some of us who lived in it. You see, it was a dorm as well as a gym. Here was a young lady who had never heard of it.

"Yeah, it was a dandy, all right," I said. "Even if the plumbing was outside to begin with."

"Where was it -- the dorm -- not the plumbing?"

"It's about where the parking lot near Alamaance is now."

"Oh..."

I still don't think she knows.

Then, I showed a picture of Ladies Hall.

"Was that a dorm?"

"Umm. Yes," I said.

"Not much of one, but it was where the girls were."

It was also where I was much of the time, but I thought twice about admitting that.

When showed the old train station, Suzy really got steamed up.

"Why can't we have trains stop here now?"

And the slide of the post office did it.

"Post office?" Suzy said. "You're putting me on. That's the Kue Klub."

"No, that was the old post office. Then there was one next door to that where painted class numbers..."

"But that's the furniture store."

"What used to be used to was--now it ain't."

Young Suzy had just made me feel 700 years old.

Monograms Are Given To Gridders

Thirty-six members of the Elon College football squad were listed as winning letters or stars for their service with the Fighting Christian grid squad, which battled Lenoir Rhyne in the deciding game of the Carolinas Conference title race to climax Coach Red Wilson's first season as head coach for the Maroon and Gold squad.

Nineteen of the 36 Christian grididders received stars as repeat awards, and 17 others received their first monograms. The monogram winners included seven seniors, two juniors, 14 sophomores and 13 freshmen.

The award winners, listed in alphabetical order, were Wright Anderson, Burgaw; Burgin Beale, Danville, Va.; Marty Bonnett, Newport News, Va.; Don Crews, Greensboro; Ren Foresta, Brooklyn, N.Y.; Bill Gee, Burlington; Roland Gill, Durham; Wes Gilliam, Elon College;

John Goins, Winston-Salem; David Goodman, Portsmouth, Va.; Dempsey Herring, Whiteville; Tom Jernigan, Fayetteville; Lee Johnson, Asheboro; Gary Jordan, Suffolk, Va.; Lloyd Kanipe, Charlotte; Pete McDaniel, High Point; Richard McGeorge, Roanoke, Va.;

Frankie Mensch, Siler City; Emery Moore, Schenectady, N.Y.; Roger Norman, Elkin; David Oliphant, Mooresville; Mike Overton, Edenton; Larry Raines, Mebane; Joe Rinaca, Shenandoah, Va.; John Romano, Virginia Beach, Va.; David Rudder, Roxboro; Dover Sharpe, Burlington;

Bob Stevens, Broadway; Douglas Thomas, Asheboro; Wayne Thrift, Thomasville; Ron Tingen, Goldsboro; Jim Waller, Winston-Salem; Danny Watson, Greenville, S.C.; Dicky Wilburn, Burlington; Perry Williams, Oxford; and Wade Williamson, Madison.

The letters and other special football awards will be presented at the annual football dinner, which will be held at a soon-announced date in McEwen Dining Hall.

SPORTS SPOTS

Other starters for the Panther pack include Steve Tatgenhorst and Ron Horney at the forward spots and Jim Colbert, who pairs with Gene Littles as a starting guard. All three of these boys usually score in double figures and put tremendous pressure on Elon's defenders.

Here's hoping that many Elon students will join the cagers in that brief time off from exams and will journey to High Point to lend a bit of help in this week's bid for victory, and here's hoping too that the Panther gym is bigger than that cracker box at Guilford.

The Fighting Christians came back after Christmas and after a disastrous seven-game losing streak to defeat Wofford for the second time, but they resumed their losing ways against Lenoir Rhyne and then toppled Campbell in a victory that brought sweet revenge for an earlier defeat during December.

Two of the hottest teams in the Carolinas Conference were here the latter part of last week for games, with Atlantic Christian on hand last Thursday and the Catawba College Indians here last Saturday night, but the early portion of this week has seen the Elon cagers taking a brief rest in their schedule and turning their attention to mid-year exams.

There has been strong Elon interest so far this season in court action a long distance from the oak-shaded campus, for Elon students have watched with great interest the scoring antics of the old high-scoring All-American, Jesse Branson, who is playing with the New Orleans buccaneers in the American Basketball Association ranks.

In a recent game when the Buccaneers played the New Jersey Americans, Branson entered the game as a substitute and scored 34 points, which proved the big factor in leading the Buccaneers to a 134-116 victory over the New Jersey cagers. Branson hit on 12 field goals and 10 or 12 free throws. You can always tell a great Elon player anywhere.

BEARS WIN

Matmen Top Methodists

With David Oliphant and Emery Moore contributing quick falls as topfeatuures, the Elon College wrestlers turned back the Methodist College grapplers from Fayetteville in Elon's Alumni Memorial Gymnasium on January 6th by a 21 to 12 score.

Staging their first home wrestling meet in Elon College history, the Fighting Christian matmen turned in three decision victories in addition to the pins by Oliphant and Moore and thus won five of the nine individual matches.

123 POUNDS -- Spence (M) decisioned Allison.
