

Terrell Will Retire From Alumni Post

Reid This

A Winner

Pretty Joan Anderson may well have been bored. The Winchester, Va., junior, sat in the balcony of the gym during the 1967 commencement with her roomie, Elaine Sawyer of Washington. It was hot -- frightfully so -- and Joan looked around with feigned innocence and slipped off her gloves. She dropped them in the lap of her white dress.

Joan wondered how she had been selected usher at the finals. She wasn't a senior. Well, she figured, it was just one of those things you have to do for the old school. Besides, it wouldn't be much longer of a wait. Dr. Earl Danieley was intoning the degree recipient names late in the alphabet.

And, despite all the elongated rituals and the silly heat, it wasn't so bad. Neither was the school which she'd known about ever since she was a Moonelon camper. Not a very fancy place, perhaps, but Elon, Joan discovered, could do a lot for you if you just let it.

Dr. Danieley finished with the degrees.

Then he slipped back into his pseudo-formal academic routine, for he is, actually, archtypal Old Shoe.

"And now," Dr. Danieley said in Haw Riverized Shakespearean delivery, "I should like to announce the winner of the first Ella Brunk Smith scholastic award."

Joan stared absently at a big old buzzy-bug who'd flitted into the gym.

"As you may know, this presentation is made on the basis of academic work and religious interest."

The bug flew away.

"This year's winner is . . ." and Dr. Danieley paused so he could enjoy keeping his audience in suspense all he could. "Joan Anderson."

Elaine speared her elbow into Joan.

"That's you!" she shouted.

Joan stood up, only partly aware of applause that was now building. She dropped her white gloves.

It was one of the longest walks Joan Anderson ever made, from up there in the balcony to Dr. Danieley's podium at the back of the gym floor.

"I know you weren't aware you'd get this award," said Dr. Danieley, now sounding wholly the plainfolks he really is. "You did come a long way."

"Why, yes," said Joan, whose composure has been better at other oc-

William B. Terrell, who has served as executive secretary of the Elon College Alumni Association for the past eleven years, will retire from his post with the college after this college year, although he will continue his duties until June 30.

He became alumni secretary in 1957, coming back to his Alma Mater after many years of successful public school work in North Carolina, and since taking the post he has organized several new alumni chapters and reactivated other groups, all the while stimulating increased interest of Elon alumni in the Elon area and elsewhere in campus affairs. He has added approximately 2,000 new names to the college's alumni roll while bringing the alumni lists up to date.

Mr. Terrell, who entered Elon College after two years' service in World War I, graduated from Elon with the Class of 1925 and went immediately into public school work. He first served as principal of Tryon High School in Gaston County from 1925 until 1928 and then was principal of Elon College High School for fifteen years.

He became principal of Wadesboro High School in 1943 and after two years became superintendent of Wadesboro City Schools, going from there to Warren County Schools as superintendent from 1948 until 1957 when he retired and returned to Elon to accept the alumni post.

Always active in community affairs, Mr. Terrell has held offices in the American Legion, the Masons, the Rotary Club and the Elon College Community Church. He is a member of American School Administrators, the North Carolina Education Association and the Shrine Club. He has also been a leader in the Boy Scouts and was awarded the Silver Beaver Award by the Oconeechee Council in Raleigh.

During his years as Elon's alumni secretary, he has twice been honored for his work. In May of 1966 he received the college's Alumni Achievement Award and in 1967 the Phi Psi Cli, college yearbook, was dedicated to him.

"The most-talked about subjects at the average reunion are those who didn't come."

casions. "Thank you." That seemed the right thing to say, but the well-mannered brunette was still having trouble realizing just what was going on.

And the pity of it was, the news wire services missed picking up the story of Joan Anderson's scholastic triumph, as important, in its own way, as Elon's finest football moments. Joan Anderson's victory was, really, what school is all about.

VETERAN STAFF AND FACULTY MEMBERS WILL RETIRE

WILLIAM B. TERRELL

DR. JAMES HOWELL

PROF. J. C. COLLEY

Three veteran members of the Elon College staff and faculty will retire from active duty when the 1967-68 college year ends. Those who are retiring are William B. Terrell (left), executive secretary of the Elon College Alumni Association for the past eleven years; Dr. James Howell (center), for many years chairman of the English Department, who has been at Elon since 1942; and Prof. J. C. Colley (right), for many years chairman of the Education Department, who has been a member of the Elon faculty since 1948.

Elon Golfers Win 8, Lose 8

The Elon golfers finished in seventh spot in the annual Carolinas Conference links tournament, which was played at Appalachian on May 13th and 14th, with a total of fifteen teams participating in the combined Carolinas Conference and District 26 of the NAIA meets.

The Appalachian golfers, who had led the Conference in the regular season play, also grabbed top honors in the tournament. Top man in the tournament for Elon was George Watts, Christian sophomore from Wadesboro.

The tourney wound up the season for the Christians, who finished with an even-break mark of eight wins and eight losses in dual meet competition for this season.

The Christians won meets from Catawba 13 1/2 to 10 1/2 and 15 to 9, defeated High Point three times by 13 to 11, 14 1/2 to 9 1/2 and 21 1/2 to 2 1/2; and won single meets over Western Carolina 13 to 11, over Atlantic Christian 15 to 8 and over Guilford 19 1/2 to 4 1/2.

The defeats included two losses to Appalachian by 16 1/2 to 7 1/2 and 22 to 2; two losses to Campbell by 19 1/2 to 4 1/2 and 17 to 7; two losses to Pfeiffer by 12 1/2 to 7 1/2 and 12 to 8 singles losses to Guilford by 12 1/2 to 11 1/2 and to Atlantic Christian 14 to 10.

Harper Gets Summer Post

Dr. Charles Harper, member of the Elon College history faculty, has accepted an assignment to teach this summer in a government institute or workshop to be held at A. and T. University in Greensboro.

Dr. Harper, a native North Carolinian, is a graduate of East Carolina University and had his graduate training at Colorado State College, where he was an instructor while completing doctoral work.

LARGE GROUP GRADUATES

(Continued From Page 1)

William Herbert, Dempsey Herring, Eleanor Hill, Jerry Hogge, Kenneth Hollingsworth, Judith Hooper, Winona Hope, Vickie Horner, Flora Hovis, Michael Hudson, Ellen Huffins, John Hughes, Anthony Hurt, Barbara Ippolito, David Johnson, Judy Johnson, Gary Jones,

Gary Karriker, Steven King, Charlotte Layton, Michael Lewis, Delna Lineberry, Rita Lockhart, James Lunsford, Marcia Lunsford, Carol Lupinacci, Glenda Lutterloh, Kay McCauley, Patricia McCausland, James McClure, Nancy McNair, Larry Mabe, James Marshall, Don Martin,

Johnnie Massey, Lynn Michael, John Michaels, Alice Miller, Jane Moon, Joseph Moon, Gayle Moore, Dale Morrison, Donald Morrison, William Motz, Carl Mulholland, Nancy Myers, John Nelson, Mary Newton, Joe Nichols, Kenneth Nichols,

George Old, Alex Oliver, Eddie Osborne, J.W. Pace, Barbara Parker, Daniel Parson, Elizabeth Patterson, James Payne, Thomas Payne, Peter Pefanis, James Pike, Martha Ragan, William Reece, Carol Reynolds, Janice Rice, Jeannette Robinette, Joe Robinson, Tom Rodney, Beth Rountree, James Saunders, Wayne Seymour, Rosaline Shoffner,

Wayne Smart, David Speight, Carl Staley, Alene Stanley, Gary Surratt, Donna Sutton, Betty Talley, James Teer, Connie Theodore, Vickie Thomas, Lawrence Toburen, Lorene Totten, Ronald Tugwell, Richardson Turner,

William Turner, Charlie VanLear, Delaina Walker, Vernon Walker, Claire Webb, Sheila Welborn, Mike Wilburn, Donald Williams, Perry Williams, Michael Wood, Elizabeth Woolsey, Sandra Wrenn, Lester Younts and Eleanor Zezzo.

Students Are Given Awards

(Continued From Page 1)

Carl Mulholland, of Durham, as treasurer, of the SGA during the past year. A special SGA award went to Paul Bleiberg, of Wilmington, Del, as the outstanding student senator of 1967-68.

The Shackley Awards, given each year in memory of the late Dr. George Shackley, of St. Petersburg, Fla. were presented by Prof. Walter West-af-er to Jennifer Huffman, of Burlington, for work in piano; and by Dean Fletcher to Keith Cole, of Graham, for work in organ.

The Jerry Dalton Strader Awards, given in memory of the late Jerry D. Strader, for many years a leader in religious, educational and civic affairs in Burlington, were presented by Prof. John Graves to Gerald Schumm, of Rivera Beach, Fla., for work in religious education, and to Nancy Boone, of Orefield, Pa., for work in campus dramatics.

The Physical Education Majors Award, given to the outstanding senior in physical education work, was presented by Prof. Don Kelly to Jerry Hogge, of Poquoson, Va.; and the Pi Gamma Mu Scholarship Awards, for work in the field of social science was given by Dr. Durward Stokes to Marcia Lunsford, of Winston-Salem.

The Dudley Ray Watson Award, given in memory of a former professor of business administration at Elon, was presented by Prof. James Toney to Patrick Collier, of Haw River. Professor Toney also presented the award to the outgoing president of Elon's chapter of the Society for Advancement of Management to Michael Wood, of Gibsonville.

"Time is a great healer, but a poor beautician."