SURPRISE!

What religious education major Joan Riggan may have been thinking was a little removed from that which is considered Christian.

"Look," the junior from Macon, N.C., told her good friend Joan Anderson, a pretty young lady who won the first Ella Brunk Smith Scholarship award. "Here's a letter from Dr. Danieley. He wants me to be a marshal at graduating exercises."

For sympathy and understanding, all Joan Riggan found was an "um-hmm" for her friend already had figured out why all the big deal about staying over for marshal duty at that 1968 commencement program last spring.

"Well," said Joan Riggan, "I'll just go to Dr. Danieley and see about this."

Curiously, Mary Thomas over there at Dr. Danieley's office behaved the same way that Joan Anderson had.

"I think you should stay since Dr. Danieley has asked you to," said Mrs. Thomas.

So, Joan appealed her case to the highest court, her family.

When she called home, there was this round-around routing also.

"We'd hoped to come for you on the last day of exams," her mother said, "But now we find we can't make it until Monday."

That, Joan knew, was commencement.

"Besides," her mother said, "we'd like to hear the choir sing during the ceremonies."

By this time, Joan Riggan was assured everybody was crazy.

Stay, she did. Marshal, she was. Sing in the choir, she did, too. After the singers finished their bit, Joan Anderson, in her most contrived and off-hand manner, said, "Let's go sit in the balcony."

"And now," said Dr. Danieley, "the winner of the second annual Ella Brunk Smith Award is..."

Seven lettermen in golf were Mickey Combs, Burlington; Bill Dickerson, Suffolk, Va.; Tom Johnson, Wilson; Bick Long, Burlington; George Watts, Wadesboro; Frank Webster, Madison; and Charles Woody, Roxboro.

Four letter winners in tennis were Melvin Pearce, Winston-Salem; Dave Tyre, Fayetteville; Bryan Wall, Mebane; and John Walton, Burlington.

Joan Anderson tried not to smile prematurely.

"... Joan Riggan."

The young lady began at that moment to get some instant answers. --Now, she knew why everybody had insisted she stay on campus for the finals -- so she could be surprised when she won.

"You!" she said to her buddy-pal Joan Anderson. "You knew all along. I'll see you later."

And as Joan Riggan left the balcony for Dr. Danieley's podium to receive her study grant, she cried.

Joan Anderson understood. She'd turned loose a few happy tears the previous year -- and for the very same reason.

There are twenty-one Elon College students who will be candidates for certificates in secretarial practice when the college holds its graduation exercises on Sunday, May 25th. One student is scheduled to receive the certificate in clerical practice.

The certificates in secretarial practice indicate that the students who receive them have successfully completed the one-year course in secretarial work at the college.

The list of candidates for the certificates is subject to change as a result of the final examinations for the spring semester.

The secretarial candidates include Rebecca Brewer, Sarah Bruton, Pamela Davis, Mary Anne Hoggard, Deborah Johnson, Pamela McAdoo, Wanda Miller, Janice Moore, Elaine Niforcas, Bonnie Ferrell, Susan Phillips, Terry Pierce, Brenda Smith, Donna Snyder, Carol Somers, Rebecca Taylor Linda Garrison, Mary Ann Larrow, Mary Shaw, Carol Vincent and Carolyn Worley. The lone candidate for the clerical certificate is Currie Handy.

McGEORGE TO CAPTAIN GRIDDERS

Richard McGeorge, Elon's great All-American end from Roanoke, Va., will captain the Fighting Christian gridgers during the upcoming 1969 football season, with Sanford Reveley, of Virginia Beach, Va., and Jim Waller, of Winston-Salem, as alternate captains. The three were named by vote of the Christian squad members at an election held last week. They will lead an Elon grid squad which will be built around an experienced nucleus of more than thirty lettermen from last season, and indications point to a highly successful 10-game campaign.
