couldn't tell you if I wanted to."

There have been complaints about many meals that contained too many starchy foods. When asked to comment on this, Kingsley said that this can happen from time to time, but it is avoided as much as possible. He also stated that as yet, he has not found the students to be hypercritical of the food situation. By meeting with the SGA Food and Cafeteria Committee every Tuesday, it is hoped that "complaints can be nipped in the bud," thereby providing better service to the students.

Recently the Student Senate passed a resolution asking the college to provide funds for the purchase of a new dishwasher for McEwen Dining Hall. Kingsley had "no knowledge of it whatsoever" and said, "a new dishwasher would be a help, but when this one is working properly it will do the job sufficiently." He also said that he would like to be consulted about such moves beforehand.

In relating future plans and present problems he said that the biggest problem to date is the lack of trained and experienced people to staff the cafeteria. However, a new food production manager is scheduled to come to Elon in November. This new permanent position will be filled by an Army "cookie" who is presently in Vietnam. Kingsley also plans to continue to vary menus with several special meals during the coming year.

Oct. 15 Protest Is First of a National Series

The rally, similar to the march on the Pentagon in 1966, will include a march from Arlington Cemetery past the White House to the Capitol building, according to tentative plans. Both militant and not-so-militant groups are supporting the Washington rally, while some militant groups (including some SDS chapters) refuse to support the Moratorium. The Moratorium action is too moderate, some are saying.

Organizers of the Moratorium include: David Hawk, a former National Student Association staff member and coordinator of a "We Won't Go" statement campaign involving 250 student body presidents and editors last year. Sam Brown, another former NSA staff member and organizer of youth for Sen. Eugene McCarthy's 1968 presidential campaign. He is currently a fellow at Harvard's Institute of Politics. David Mixner, another former McCarthy campaigner presently on the Democratic Party reform commission headed by Sen. George McGovern (D-S. Dakota).

OLDEST ELON GRAD DIES AT AGE 97

The oldest alumnus and a member of the first graduating class of Elon College died Friday, Sept. 26, at the age of 97.

Mrs. W. P. (Annie Graham) Lawrence came to Elon in 1890 when they were just laying the cornerstone for the College. She was recognized as the oldest living alumnus each year on Founders Day, March 11, which oddly enough was also her birthday.

Several years ago, when they demolished what was left of East Dormitory after a July 4 fire, Mrs. Lawrence recalled what life on the college campus was like back then. A few of the "conven-

The committee, according to its moratorium strategy statement, expects the monthly protests to grow if the first month's is successful. High school students, anti-war and civil rights constituencies, entertainers, labor union locals, churches, businessmen, and politicians have been invited to participate.

A central office in Washington is coordinating plans for the demonstrations and projects to take place on the Moratorium days. Among the committee's suggested plans for the first demonstration and boycott day are town meetings, debates, rallies, leaflet distribution, study groups, vigils in homes and churches, anti-war films, petitions, teach-ins, and memorial services for war dead. Violence is out of the question, say the organizers.

The monthly protests are to continue "until a negotiated settlement is signed - or a definite timetable for bringing all American troops home from Vietnam is made," the committee has announced.

"In the 1890s," she mentioned were oil lamps, wood fires, covered walkways to bathroom facilities, and cold morning baths.

Upon her graduation from Elon in 1894, she married a student, W. P. Lawrence, who stayed on at the College and taught until his death in 1926. They lived in a small house where the president's home now stands until they built a two-story colonial home across the street. Until her recent death, Mrs. Lawrence had continued to live there with her daughter and son-in-law, Rev. and Mrs. H. H. Mackintosh and a son, W. P. Lawrence, Jr., are Elon College graduates.

Exchange News

New Focus On Student Rights

From the exchange papers with other colleges we have gathered the following interesting items:

*The Appalachian, from Appalachian State U. The SGA of Appalachian is trying to pass search and seizure guidelines which would "eliminate unreasonable searches by students and university officials".

*The Guilfordian from Guilford College. After a year of voluntary convocations (and poor attendance), Guilford is resuming required convocations. This requirement was passed by the Student Legislature in its final session last year.

*The Collegian from Greensboro College. For the first time, this year students at GC will have the benefit of Attorney-General staff which will advise a student of his rights and responsibilities, advise some course of action, or investigate some alleged crime.

*The Decree from N.C. Wesleyan College. After some negotiations between the SGA and Administration at Wesleyan, it was decided that the revenue from the student union pool tables would be split (75-25) between the SGA and Administration.

*The Fountainhead from East Carolina University. The name of this publication was formerly The Tech Echo. Because the school in "Greater Groovy Greenville" has been made a University, the staff of the paper felt the need to revamp their publication in accordance with the growth of the University.

*The Pilot from Gardner-Webb College. Gardner-Webb's business manager's main headache is that there are more cars registered than available parking spaces.

*The Indian from Newberry College Assembly Attendance Card system does not work at Newberry and according to an editorial the system "encourages hypocrisy".

Views Given on Chapel

(Continued from Page 1) knows that the people who do attend are there because they want to. Despite the small number who attend, he feels his efforts in preparing the services are worth it. He does wish he could communicate with more people.

In conclusion, Dr. Elzey expressed the hope that maybe the students are not coming to the chapel programs because of the new freedom they enjoy by not being required to go. Hopefully, in the near future, the students will realize the opportunity that is available to them to enrich their lives by going to the religious and cultural programs of Elon.

The following comments reflect student opinion on the new chapel system.

Howard Jarke, a senior from Hillsborough, N.C. said, "It is an improvement over last year's system because now rather than being obligated to go, a student will go only if he is interested."

Sheila Clenndenen, a sophomore from Chesapeake, Va. said, "The very fact that it is not compulsory is a great improvement. However, receiving an hour's credit for a supposedly cultural experience seems rather necessary."

Chris Walsh, a sophomore from Richmond, Va. "This year's chapel system is improved due to the fact that no longer are we coerced into religion or religious institutions. We can decide upon our own beliefs without the college dictating them to us."

been ultimately suppressed. Their followers have tried to continue passively but the counter resistance, mainly of violent means, has caused many to change their means so that they are now equally violent. There are, as always, many who advocate violent resistance and do not consider the passive way to be a worthwhile means of bringing about change.

The problem rapidly encountered, as is also shown by history, is that violent means are most often not justified by the goals. Even so, in simplicity, it is becoming quite evident that we, who have seen and experienced the newness of the life we have, see the need for change and are determined to see the changes come.

This is what my column will deal with: the events that have come about, resulting from the attempts to change what is because so many have seen what can be. Many are justified and there are those that are not. I will deal with the essences and the means with which the events were expressed. I encourage your comments and criticisms.

It has been witten that the time will come when the lion will lie down with the lamb. I believe this. Although, in truth our generation will never see it happen, we must encourage and participate in the changes that lead to that time. The time will come when the Age of Aquarius will be more than words sung on Broadway, and it is up to us to help it along. Until it comes, be cool.

Sandy Dofflemyer, a senior from Elkton, Va., is one of two featured twirlers for the Elon College Marching Band. Her performances during halftime shows with flaming batons and Hawaiian daggers are always a crowd-pleaser. Members of the band will be performing incognito Saturday night as they don hippie outfits and let their hair down for a special performance.
