Two cars collided because of inclement weather on University Drive near Macedonia Street around 8 p.m., resulting in crash-related injuries.

The first vehicle was traveling northeast when it hit a patch of ice crossing the bridge on University Drive, causing the vehicle to veer left, go across the median, hit a tree and collide with the front left corner of the second vehicle on the other side of the road.

The driver of the second vehicle and the front passenger of the first vehicle were taken to Alamance Regional Medical Center to be treated for their injuries. There was an estimated $5,000 worth of damage to vehicle No. 1 and an estimated $1,500 worth of damage to vehicle No. 2.

A Town of Elon police report stated two officers sitting in the Arts West parking lot Thursday night heard yelling coming from the parking lot of Tony's Pub-N-Subs. After calling in the disturbance, the two officers drove across the street to investigate with their blue lights on. One young woman was being pushed out of the bar by two men while another woman held a pool stick like a baseball bat and yelled at the first woman. The first woman claimed she was assaulted by the second woman, but the second woman fled the scene and did not give a statement. There will be no further investigation, according to the report.
